Seven Killed In Crash as Army Plane Wing Breaks

Unable to Use Parachute, Officer and Six Men Plunge to Death.

Scores Witness Tragedy of Air

Giant Bomber's Breakup Over California City Told by Woman.

Oceanside, Calif., July 25 (AP).—Seven men were killed today in the wreck of a giant twin motor Army bomber, which lost a wing in mid-air and careened downward from 1,000 feet into a hollow at the Oceanside city limits.

Those killed were: Second Lieut. Carl A. Murray, flier, Idaho, the pilot.

Sergts. Archie W. Snodgrass, San Antonio, Tex., of the Sixty-fourth Squadron, and Bonnell L. Herrick, Warsaw, Ind., of the Ninety-fifth Squadron.

Privates of the 95th Squadron, T. Taylor, Los Angeles; Stanley Book, Detroit; Albert Overend, Coronado, Calif., and Vincent Galdin, Green Rapids, Mich.

The plane, an amphibian, was bound from March Field to Rockwell Field, San Diego, on a service mission, and appeared over Oceanside at noon. It flew smoothly until it reached the southeastern city limits.

Woman Sees Tragedy.

Mrs. N. W. Glasco, near whose house the crash occurred, said her attention was attracted to the plane by a loud report when it was overhead.

"I thought they were starting bombing practice and was frightened because they were so close," she said. "I went outside and looked up. I saw what appeared to be small particles and smoke coming from the rear of the plane. I could see they were in difficulty. They seemed to be coming down, looking for a place to land.

"I heard a rasping noise, and the right wing tore away and went soaring off by itself. The main body of the plane floated for an instant and then plummeted down in our pasture."

Scores of other Oceanside residents saw the accident.

Victims Trapped in Cabin.

Army officers, who came from March Field to investigate the crash, said they believed the wing broke in such a way as to block the hatch and imprison the victims in the falling wreckage. None was able to get free to use the parachutes.

The wing landed half a mile from the body of the plane and a pontoon came to earth about half way between. The motors were shut off, Mrs. Glasco said, about the time the wing broke off. There was no fire, although the wreckage and the bodies were drenched with gasoline.

Second Lieut. Carl Harold Murray, the pilot of the plane, was born in McCook, Nebr., July 3, 1904. He was appointed a second lieutenant in the Infantry July 26, 1928, and a second lieutenant in the Air Corps of the Regular Army May 8, 1930. He graduated from the University of Idaho in 1928 and made his home in Filer, Idaho. He was single.

Brig. Gen. Oscar Westover, assistant chief of the Army Air Corps, stated that a special inquiry would be held as soon as the office of the chief of the Air Corps was advised of the details of the accident. Another inquiry will be held immediately on the West Coast.

Woman Suspect Cleared In Luer Kidnaping Case

Lincoln, Nebr., July 25 (AP).—Mrs. Vivian Cunningham, who was taken from her work on a Nebraska farm for questioning in the August Luer kidnaping, tonight went happily back—free of suspicion.

Fingerprints, willingly given, cleared the 32-year-old former St. Louis woman after county, State and Federal officers brought her here for questioning in connection with the kidnaping of the Alton, Ill., banker and a Clay County, Mo., bank robbery.

$50,000 Bond Set For Touhy Gang

Hamm Kidnap Suspects Arraigned on Federal Charges.

Milwaukee, Wis., July 25 (AP).—Roger Touhy, Chicago gang chief, and three of his followers were held under bonds of $50,000 today to face Federal charges of kidnaping William Hamm, St. Paul brewer.

A continuance on hearing for their removal to St. Paul, where the kidnaping charges were made, was agreed to by the Government and William Scott Stewart, Chicago, attorney for the prisoners, with August 4 set as the tentative date.

Federal agents were reluctant to reveal any inkling of their evidence. They would not comment on reports that some of the $100,000 paid for release of Hamm had been traced to the Touhys.

Chaco Dispute Will Be Taken From League

Agreement Made to Shift Negotiations to 4 South American Powers.

Rio De Janeiro, July 25 (AP).—The chancellor's office announced today that an agreement had been reached to place back in the hands of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru negotiations looking toward a settlement of the dispute between Paraguay and Bolivia over the Gran Chaco territory.

Geneva, July 25 (AP).—Consternation was expressed in League of Nations circles today that the entire dispute between Paraguay and Bolivia over the Gran Chaco territory may be turned over to Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru for settlement.

A league commission to handle the dispute has been appointed and two of the members are now en route to South America.

Bolivia Accepts Plan.

Enrique Finot and Costa Burels, of the Bolivian delegation, said the four nations had offered to act as mediators and that Bolivia had accepted in principle. They added that in view of a deadlock at Geneva and Paraguay's refusal to negotiate the territorial question before an armistice is declared, it seemed a waste of effort for the league to dispatch a commission to the Gran Chaco.

They made it clear, however, that they had made no official communication to the league.

Francisco Castillo Najera, president of the council, confirmed that the league had received no official word from either Paraguay or Bolivia.

Substitute for League.

The Bolivian idea, informally expressed, was that the A. B. C. P. would substitute themselves for the league commission, whose mission would no longer be necessary. In order not to remove the dispute entirely from the league, it was stated in league quarters, the group could mandate the A. B. C. P. to act for the league.

La Paz, Bolivia, July 25 (AP).—The minister of foreign affairs, while not denying reports that Bolivia and Paraguay had suggested that handling of negotiations in the Gran Chaco dispute between the two countries be transferred from a commission of the League of Nations to the A. B. C. Powers of South America, declared today that it was inopportune to divulge details.

Benefit Payments On Hogs Are Urged

Drastic Cut in Output and Processing Tax Sought Also in Midwest.

Chicago, July 25 (AP).—The National corn and hog committee of 25, representing 10 Midwestern States, tonight recommended drastic curtailment of hog production, advocated a processing tax on sale of hogs above a certain weight, and asked for "benefit payments" for farmers agreeing to cut hog production and marketing.

The committee said it hoped to be able to remove 5,000,000 pounds of pork and pork products from the markets by January 1 in efforts to raise prices. During the coming year, the committee said, it planned to remove 2,000,000,000 pounds from the market.

The processing tax would be placed on hogs marketed at weights above 235 pounds. The "benefit payments" would go to farmers who withheld farm production or removed from market channels light pigs and piggy sows.

$2,000,000 Flood Loss In Northern Louisiana

Shreveport, La., July 25 (U.P.). Floods, brought on by 20 inches of rain since Saturday morning, spread havoc over a wide area of north Louisiana tonight. Loss already was estimated at more than $2,000,000. Rivers were rising rapidly and further damage was imminent. Water stood from 2 to 6 feet deep in many streets here.

It was still raining tonight. Workers were removing residents from points of danger.

Cuban Strife End Forecast As Amnesty Bill Passes

President Is Expected to Sign Measure at Once.

Constitutional Rights Included

Liberty Guarantees Will Assure Reform Measures.

Havana, July 25 (AP).—The House of Representatives, with only three negative votes, tonight passed a Government amnesty bill covering all political crimes committed since January 1, 1927. The Senate passed the measure yesterday.

A minor amnesty measure covering those convicted or accused of violating the election code in connection with the 1932 reorganization of political parties and the subsequent partial elections also was passed.

President Gerardo Machado was expected to sign the amnesty measure soon. Gen. Alberto Herrera, secretary of war and acting secretary of state, announced that immediately after the bill was made law by publication in the official gazette the suspended constitutional guarantees in Havana Province will be restored.

Representatives of the opposition factions who are engaged in efforts of Sumner Wells, United States Ambassador, to mediate Cuban political problems, announced some time ago that they would not enter into active negotiations with the government for political reform until the guarantees had been reestablished.

The Senate tonight passed unanimously a press law defining the rights of newspapers under the constitutional principle of free speech and specifying penalties for slander and libel. The bill now goes to the House.

Balbo Planes Hop to Shediac; 2 Forced Down

Ships Rejoin Fliers After Repairs; Trip by Way of Azores Debated.

Shediac, N. B., July 25 (AP).—The 24 seaplanes of the Italian air armada, which crossed the North Atlantic for a visit to the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago rested tonight on Shediac Bay, having completed the first leg of their homeward flight from New York.

Twenty-two of the ships, the directing plane piloted by Gen. Italo Balbo, bearded leader of the exposition, landed during a 30-minute period beginning at 2:55 p. m., Eastern standard time.

The other two, which had been forced down en route, arrived later. One plane, which developed engine trouble over St. John, N. B., and turned back to Milledgeville, N. B., reached here at 5:32 p. m., E. S. T. The other, which came down at Rockland, Me., because of a broken oil line, arrived at 5:05 p. m.

The armada covered the 650 miles from New York in less than six hours.

Gen. Balbo planned an overnight stop here before proceeding to Shoal Harbor, Newfoundland, where he will decide whether to take the northern route by Iceland and Ireland, or to go by the southern track, halting at the Azores.

It was considered possible that delay caused by the late arrival of the two planes which encountered trouble might cause the leader to extend his stay here.

Motorists from the district around this small town, many of whom were present when the Italian squadron halted here on arriving in Canadian territory in its westward journey, flocked here throughout the day to join the local population in welcoming the airmen's return.

Raids Halt Reich's Trains 45 Minutes

Foes Taken in Wholesale Seizures; Two Reds Reported Slain.

Berlin, July 25 (U.P.).—Secret police and Nazi storm troopers, carrying out a spectacular noonday search through all parts of Germany except Bavaria, today reported "several persons" sought as enemies of the state had been captured.

The police announced that the raids, which stopped all train and highway traffic for 45 minutes, brought satisfactory results and proved the efficiency of the state apparatus in executing a sudden call in time of emergency.

Landsbergh-on-Warthe, Germany, July 25 (U.P.).—Police reported tonight that two communists, Erich Rudolf and Gustav Rudolf, said to have confessed the murder of a Nazi, Ernst Liebsch, had been "shot dead while attempting to escape" en route to court.

City and State Employes Not Under Code for Higher Wages.

(United Press.)

Policemen, firemen, clerks and the myriad other city and State employes will not come under the uniform higher wages and shorter hours code promulgated by President Roosevelt.

Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, recovery act administrator, said yesterday he did not think State and city governments would be asked to come under the agreement.

"I don't think the Federal Government can be expected to interfere with State governments," he said.

Merger of Two District Banks Reported Near

Mechanics Would Absorb Mount Vernon Under Proposed Plan.

The Washington Mechanics Savings Bank plans to absorb the Mount Vernon Savings Bank, in the hands of a conservator since the March bank holiday, The Washington Post learned exclusively last night.

The consolidation which eventually will release $2,500,000—the approximate amount of deposits in the closed institution—is virtually certain, it was learned from the Treasury Department.

Further steps before an official announcement of the planned combination will be made are the approval of a portion of Mount Vernon assets as security for a Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan made last winter and the increasing of the capitalization of the Mechanics bank.

It is expected that eventually Mount Vernon depositors will receive the majority, if not all, of their deposits. Officials of the Mount Vernon institution have said that its assets will cover both the R. F. C. loan and deposits.

The Washington Mechanics Savings Bank, one of the city's best known banking institutions, has a main office in the 2400 block of Connecticut avenue. There are two branches in the Southeast section of the city and a third on Georgia avenue. Ezra Gould is president.

Frank W. Lee is president of the Mount Vernon Bank. It is expected that he will be made a vice president of the Mechanics Bank after the merger.

Capital Man Hurt Severely in Wreck

Joseph Swetnam, Father of 6, and 4 Others Injured in Train Crash.

Trapped in the cab of his wrecked locomotive, Joseph Swetnam, 49, father of six children and veteran engineer of the Pennsylvania Railroad operating from Washington, was probably fatally injured last night, when his 85-car freight train left the main line at an open switch and crashed into a derrick on the outskirts of Baltimore.

His fireman, W. R. Stone, of Edmundston, Md., leaped to safety. Others hurt were James A. Palmatori, of Philadelphia, engineer of the second locomotive; A. N. Williams, his fireman; Roger Burroughs, of Baltimore, operator of a derrick struck by the locomotive, and Douglas Haile, of Baltimore, an employe on the derrick.

Less than two years ago Swetnam, who lives at 13 Ninth street southeast, was injured at the same spot when his locomotive left the track.

He is the father of Douglas Swetnam, well known local boxer. Other children are David, 23; Joseph, 21; Gladys, 17; John, 13, and Lillie, 11.

Plane Bound Here Down in Maryland

Amelia Earhart Putnam, on Way to Washington, Among Passengers.

Edgewood Arsenal, Md., July 25 (AP).—An Eastern Air Transport plane, carrying 17 passengers, including Amelia Earhart Putnam, made a forced landing early tonight in a farmer's field, 5 miles from here.

With one of the two motors dying at 1,200 feet, Pilot E. W. Chandler made a perfect landing, hurting neither plane nor passengers. The passengers were brought here in a bus. A half hour later another air liner arrived and carried them to their destinations in Washington and Richmond.

West Virginia Delegates Formally Vote Repeal

Charleston, W. Va., July 25 (AP).—West Virginia today formally cast its ballot for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Acting on the mandate of the voters in the election of June 27, 20 delegates unanimously ratified the twenty-first amendment to repeal prohibition. The roll was called, the votes were cast without any special ceremony, and West Virginia became the sixteenth State formally to enter the repeal column.

U.S. Workers to Defy Johnson's Refusal to Give Aid Under Plan He Urges All Others to Support

Clear Path Is Forecast for Roosevelt's Program.

6,000 Support Pledges Assure Success, Says Leader.

By J. Bernard McDonnell.

Nothing can stop the President's reemployment program, Brig Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, told the country last night in a speech broadcast over a coast-to-coast radio hook-up.

The bulk of the Nation's industry already has joined the drive to put over the recovery program and messages of approbation and pledges of cooperation continue to deluge President Roosevelt and recovery headquarters from all sections, the administrator said.

"Nothing will even hamper the President's program," he insisted. "The power of this people once aroused and united in a fixed purpose is the most irresistible force in the world. The aspiration is to take half a nation of sufferers out of what the President called last night 'four years of economic hell.'"

Likening the response to President Roosevelt's radio appeal on Monday night to the war-time response to the leadership of President Woodrow Wilson, Gen. Johnson told the Nation that "peace also has its crises."

Country Aroused.

"The simple, reasoned, balanced and practical strategy and action that were laid before the country by the President came at an hour of trial as great and were as important to our people and as vital and effective as any of the great strategic concepts of our wars," he said.

"This country understands all this. It approves all this. It is at last aroused. The President's recovery drive is on its way. It is an irresistible march. The unemployed are already going back to work and Labor Day has been set as the great objective.

"There are minor annoyances, but the only thing worth while mentioning is this great march out of the valley of despair that began last night — not here and there — not after weeks of hope deferred that maketh the heart sick, but under the banner of a great leader, in every village and town and city in every part of the United States."

Pledges Increasing.

Gen. Johnson's speech came at the end of another day of driving activity on the part of the recovery machinery. The flood of pledges of support for the President's volunteer blanket code raising wages and shortening hours passed the 6,000 mark and continued to grow.

Basic codes for the Government of important industries were being

6 Killed in Storm At St. Christopher

Hurricane Expected Over Virgin Islands Area; Red Cross Called.

St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, July 25 (AP).—A storm described as a "hurricane," in the vicinity of St. Christopher Island, southeast of here, was expected to pass over the Virgin Islands tonight. It is reported that six lives were lost at St. Christopher.

San Juan, Puerto Rico, July 25 (AP).—Gov. Robert H. Gore today conferred with Red Cross heads and advised them to prepare for any emergency in the face of weather reports from the eastern Caribbean that a storm centering over Guadelupe probably would reach the island Wednesday morning.

(Associated Press.)

The Weather Bureau last night issued the following storm warning: "Advisory, 8 p. m. Tropical disturbance of considerable intensity probably attended by wind of hurricane force over small area. Has passed between St. Kitts and St. Martin, West Indies. It is moving west-northwestward about 16 miles per hour. Center will pass near San Juan Wednesday morning. Caution advised vessels in path."

New Inquiry Ordered In Louisiana Election

New Orleans, July 25 (AP).—A new and far-reaching investigation into charges that fraudulent returns were made in New Orleans' general election of last November, when a long list of State constitutional amendments sponsored by the Huey Long political organization was ratified, was ordered today by Presiding Judge Alexander C. O'Donnell of criminal district court.

Ignoring Louisiana's attorney general, Gaston L. Porterie, who took the investigation away from District Attorney Stanley several months ago, and also the Orleans Parish grand jury, which subsequently attempted to "no bill" the fraud charges, Judge O'Donnell granted a citizens' petition to reopen the inquiry and reinstalled Stanley as director of the investigation.

Telegrams Approve Roosevelt Plan

Roosevelt Asks States To Aid U. S. Program

Tells Governors Joint Responsibilities Must Be Determined.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt, in a talk across the continent last night to the Conference of Governors at San Francisco, asserted that "one of the great problems before us" is "to determine the joint responsibilities of many great tasks" by the Federal and State governments.

The President cited the proposition of oil-producing control and developments involving several States, such as the Tennessee and Mississippi Valleys.

"The problem of oil production, for example," he said, "must be viewed and measured from the standpoint of the national total of production and of consumption.

"But, in coming to grips with the problem of limitation, the States have a function to perform which is of great importance. I am happy that the oil-producing States are cooperating with each other and with the Federal Government in this matter.

"Another problem is a consideration of a wider and more effective use of the lands over wide areas in such natural units as the Tennessee or the Arkansas or the Missouri or the upper Mississippi valleys.

"Here are problems where the individual States and regional groups of States and the Federal Government may well find possibilities of fruitful cooperation."

Mr. Roosevelt thanked the governors for their cooperation as expressed in a resolution of support of his national industrial recovery program.

He recalled his own four years as Governor of New York, of participation in previous governors' conferences and expressed greetings "to you all, old associates and new friends."

Post to Rejuvenate Plane 'Winnie Mae'

Considering Appearance in Vaudeville to Finance Reconditioning.

New York, July 25 (AP).—Speaking as guest of honor at a luncheon given by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, Wiley Post told today of rejuvenating the plane "Winnie Mae" in which he has twice circled the earth, each time establishing a speed record.

He said that by supercharging the engine and making other changes he thought he could make the plane develop 500 horsepower and travel at an altitude of 40,000 feet.

"I'm glad I'm here with all these aeronautical people. If I go out to make money to carry out my plans, I hope they'll pardon the way I earn it," Post said. "I find that considerable money is to be had for appearing a week in vaudeville. I can't see anything wrong with earning that money. I haven't accepted the offer yet, but I am thinking about it."

Gunmen Kill Deputy; Seize, Slay Prisoner

Companion Officer Shot; Convict's Body Dumped Near Parents' Home.

Charleston, W. Va., July 25 (AP).—Four gunmen today killed a deputy sheriff, wounded another, snatched a convicted robber from the officers and, after slaying the prisoner, left him in an alley less than a block from his father's home.

The four opened a deadly pistol fire on the officers' car soon after the deputies left Charleston for the State penitentiary at Moundsville with a youth sentenced a few hours earlier to 25 years imprisonment for armed robbery.

As the deputies' car came to a halt, with one dead and one wounded, the gunmen pulled the prisoner into their automobile and sped back toward Charleston.

Body Found in Car.

A short time later, the bullet-riddled body of the robber, Homer Harper, 19, was found in an abandoned automobile near his parent's residence in Huntington, about 40 miles from Charleston.

Bullets rained from the gunmen's car as it pulled up behind the other machine and Deputy Sheriff Roy Shamblin, who was guarding the youth, was instantly killed. One of the bullets wounded the other deputy, G. L. Dudley, and he brought the car to a screeching stop just about a mile beyond the Charleston city limits.

Three of the four killers leaped from their automobile, grabbed Harper from the rear seat, hustled him into their car and turned back toward the city.

Driving back in spite of his wounds, Dudley gave the alarm and a State-wide search was started for the four gunmen and the prisoner. Huntington officers, aiding in the search, saw two men jump from an automobile parked in an alley and walk away.

They opened the car door and there found a handcuffed youth dead in the rear seat. Thinking the dead youth might be Harper, they called his family and the robber's brother identified him.

Ends His Crime Career.

Dumping of Harper's body in an alley near his home brought to an abrupt end the youth's short career in crime.

He and John Newell, 20, were arrested on a charge of robbing a shoe store in Charleston of $23 and an overcoat last January. Newell was senteneed several months ago to 20 years in prison.

While awaiting trial, Harper, alias Ralph Wilkinson, escaped from the Kanawaha County jail in Charlston and was rearrested two weeks ago in Staunton, Va.

Brought back, he at first demanded a trial, but changed his plea to guilty today after the State's case had been outlined by the prosecuting attorney. He was immediately sentenced to 25 years for armed robbery.

Government Employes Will Carry Appeal to President.

Administrator Defends "Inconsistency" of Ruling.

By Robert C. Albright.

Government employes affiliated with the American Federation of Labor will appeal directly to the President for a course of action leading to Federal wage and labor benefits under the National Recovery program.

This was disclosed last night after Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, National Recovery Administrator, plainly stated that he will hold no hearings on any "code" submitted by organized Federal workers.

"Why should I hold a hearing on it," he said. "This law says it applies to trades, industries and subdivisions thereof."

Spokesmen for a joint conference of Labor affiliated Federal workers scheduled to meet late this week to draft a "code" to bring Government personnel in line with National Recovery benefits, declared they would go right ahead, regardless of Gen. Johnson's statement.

Preparing to Act.

David R. Glass, vice president of the American Federation of Government Employes, heading the Government employe code movement, said the group will prepare a "plan of action," take it to the President, and ask him how to proceed.

He saw a possibility the President may be asked to order hearings on the so-called code.

The National Recovery Administrator aired his views on Government personnel problems at yesterday's press conference after the following question had been put to him:

"General, the largest employer in the country is a fellow by the name of Uncle Sam. How does he tie into this picture?"

Gen. Johnson answered the question by asking another:

"Should we defeat the plan because we have what appears to be an inconsistency in this Government situation?"

Reasoning of Johnson.

The success of the recovery program, Gen. Johnson argued, hinges on maintenance of United States credit, while credit maintenance hangs on expenditure slashing. And personnel hire provides the major item of Federal expense, he pointed out.

He said:

"In order that any of these recovery plans can continue to have any effect, the credit of the United States must be maintained. This administration entered this situation with a recurring yearly expenditure so high that there was no method of coming anywhere near a balanced budget without reducing the expenditures very, very heavily.

"There is only one way to reduce expenditures, most of it goes out to personnel. Now it was a case where you could not do anything if you did not do that. It was different from any other employment situation the country faced, because the whole recovery program depended on that, and it is still dependent on it."

Gen. Johnson took the view that everything is being done within reason to absorb those workers ousted in the Federal retrenchment drive, but the Government economy program should not be slackened.

"Go Straight Ahead."

"You have to go straight ahead," he said.

The plight of some postoffice workers was brought home to President Roosevelt in a petition pre-

Johnson Sees Early Success Of N. R. A. Plan

President's Air Message Gets 6,000 Pledges of Support.

whipped into shape in public hearings and executive meetings of administration officials and committees representing specific industries.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, made public a survey showing a continued gain in employment in the first part of July and praised the President's blanket code as coming at just the right time.

The colorful, dynamic recovery administrator has fixed reemployment of 5,000,000 to 6,000,000 men as the goal of the employment drive and is confident of attaining that objective.

He conceived the blanket code when it became apparent that speculative production and increasing prices were running far ahead of the increase in the purchasing power of the Nation. Having fought that code through to approval, Gen. Johnson followed on the heels of the President with his broadcast plea for support and a primer explanation of its provisions and purposes.

The code, he said, "means that you will have to employ more people to do the same amount of work and that will increase your cost of doing business. Of course the consuming public will eventually pay for this. All the President asks of you is that you lean over backward, not to mark up prices one cent further or faster than you have to, to absorb these actual increased costs.

Rise Above Cheapness.

"Of course there are ways to beat the rules of any game. We are just asking people in this crisis in very general terms to rise above these cheap little ingenuities and join with the President to beat the depression.

"If we don't get purchasing power to the proper level and do it now, there isn't going to be any bigger business. There is going to be less business. Prices are way ahead of purses right now. Speculative price advances are the best way to kill the goose that lays the golden egg, and as most business men will agree, that it is a pretty sickly-looking goose right now.

"As this plan begins to go to work we are going to see some real business in this country. There is a starved demand here such as never before. Worn out automobiles, unpainted houses, shabby shoes and clothing, rickety furniture, threadbare rugs—I won't go through the whole list.

"All that is needed to start a flood of business is to take away the fear of unemployment and get a little money into the hands of people that need things and this is the way to do it."

Criticizes Sniping.

"We can't do this job in an atmosphere of sniping," Gen. Johnson warned in criticism of speculative production, and efforts of both employers and labor union leaders to seek undue advantages.

"This jumping-the-gun was equally bad on both sides," he said.

The campaign of education to be conducted by the National Recovery Administration is not "ballyhoo" he reiterated. Neither, he insisted, is the Recovery Administration badge an attempt to blackmail against those who do not join in the blanket code movement.

"The idea of the N. R. A. badge is to show people whom of the employers of this country are following the President in putting breadwinners back to work and which of them think it is good business to sell at a few cents lower price made possible by declining to help," he said. "If that is blackmail so is putting a uniform on a soldier when he marches into a battle to defend his country. On that theory he should be in civilian clothes so that nobody could know he was not a deserter skulking away behind the lines."

Warning by Green.

Although he reported a continued gain in employment this month, Mr. Green joined with Gen. Johnson in warning against delay in increasing the purchasing power.

"Union unemployment figures for July come as a warning that business has not been quick enough to reorganize itself under the recovery program," Green said. "The President's general code comes just in time. If we allow the return of men to work to be slackened off, the whole program is doomed.

"We have as yet made only a small dent on the problem of unemployment. What we can do in the months ahead will depend on the cooperation given the President in his program."

There are "well over" 11,000,000 persons still out of work, the labor chief said.

President Gets Code.

President Roosevelt had before him the amended code of the shipbuilding and repair industry. His quick approval was expected. Under the urging of Gen Johnson, the industry agreed to a 32-hour work week on naval construction in private yards and a 36-hour work week on private construction. Bids are to be opened today for the construction of 17 naval vessels in private yards as part of the $238,000,000 naval building program.

Hearings on the code submitted by the wool industry were completed. The industry proposed a 40-hour work week, abolition of child labor, and $13 and $14 weekly minimum wage for South and North respectively. Labor urged a 30-hour maximum work week and an $18 minimum wage. However, it was thought likely that the 40 hours, $13 and $14 wage established in the cotton textile code would be favored in this instance, despite protestations by Gen. Johnson that the cotton code was not a precedent.

The rayon weaving industry found itself claimed by two industries, with its own love professed for the cotton industry. Silk manufacturers, headed by James A. Goldsmith, president of the Silk Association of America, and the United Textile Workers, represented by Thomas McMahon, president, urged classification of the rayon weaving industry with the silk.

Exemption Sought.

The rayon makers, through their president, Percival S. Howe, jr., urged the rayon weaving industry was closely allied with cotton textiles, and their code should be in line with that prescribed for the cotton manufacturers. George A. Sloan, chairman of the cotton code committee, said that more than half of the rayon cloth was woven in cotton mills.

Several subdivisions of the lumber industry yesterday sought exemption from the proposed general lumber code. They wanted separate rules for their government.

Secretary of the Interior Ickes announced amendments to the Presidential regulations restricting the shipment of so-called "hot" oil from restricted producing areas.

Oil Men Approve.

Representatives of the governors of oil producing States, at a meeting called in connection with consideration of the oil code, voted their indorsement of the President's recovery program. They unanimously approved and indorsed the program with particular reference to oil and its conservation.

Receipt of a code for the millinery industry was announced. Preparations were pushed for the public hearings on the important steel industry code next week. The difficult coal code is to be considered beginning August 7. Other codes are expected from the Retail Dry Goods Association, the automobile industry and others before the week is out.

Farley's Order On Furloughs Is Challenged

Rep. J. M. Mead Requests Postmaster General to Reconsider Rule.

Legality of the action of Postmaster General Farley in furloughing employes of the Postoffice Department was challenged yesterday by Representative James M. Mead (Democrat), New York, chairman of the House Postoffice Committee.

Reconsideration of the Postmaster General's nine-day furlough order, covering three months ending September 30, was asked by Representative Mead, who expressed doubt that the postal service is still overmanned.

"The provision in the independent offices appropriation bill giving authority for administrative furloughs was intended only to be applied in cases where there are surplus employes and to avoid dismissals of regular employes," Mr. Mead wrote the Postmaster General.

"If the reason for the nine-day furlough ordered for postal employes is an overmanned service, there would seem to be no justification for requiring employes to take the time in fractional parts of days."

This is cause for complaint on the part of a great many postal employes who believe it to be in violation of the spirit of the "eight-in-ten-hour law," he wrote.

He construed the deduction of pay for a Saturday half day and a Sunday "as a direct salary reduction in violation of the act of March 20, 1933."

The Postoffice Committee chairman argued that the total reduction in earnings of these postal workers, when the 15 per cent pay cut is included, totals 23.5 per cent.

"When all forces of the administration are being exerted to increase purchasing power and employers are being urged to increase wages, there appears to be inconsistency in such reductions of the earnings of the postal employes," he wrote.

Love Poison Dose Taken By Colonel's Daughter

Chicago, July 25 (AP).—Grieving over a blighted love affair, the daughter of an Army colonel from Kansas City, Mo., swallowed poison today in a hotel room and lay critically ill at the county hospital.

Miss June Topham, 25, identified as the daughter of Col. J. L. Topham, of Kansas City, had registered at the hotel last night. Army records list a Lieut. Col. Joseph L. Topham at Fort Knox, Ky.

Long Satisfied

Louisiana Senator Voices Benevolent Feeling on U. S. Patronage.

Whatever happens in the matter of patronage jobs will be satisfactory to him, Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana, declared yesterday.

He made the unusual statement after calling on President Roosevelt with Postmaster General Farley, head patronage dispenser. However, the senator said they "didn't discuss patronage very much."

Despite the senator's spirit of benevolence, he stated that there are no good men in Louisiana outside of his organization, adding that he would hate to see the Government appoint any but good men.

Store Closing On Saturdays Wins Approval

Cooperation With President's Code Assured by Local Merchants.

Local department stores had the way cleared for cooperation with the President's code yesterday when they were assured by the national recovery administration that they could continue all-day-Saturday closing until September 1.

The store heads, comprising an important division of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, are now turning their attention to the task of working out details of the new program. They will be aided in this task by hte recovery administration.

James P. Shich, manager of the Capital Garage, announced that all employes will be placed on a 35 hour week, effective 7 a. m. today. The employes now receive a minimum wage of $19 a week.

Elwood Street, director of the Community Chest, announced that the chest is already cooperating to the fullest extent with the employment code. Chest working hours, including the Saturday half holiday, are in compliance with the blanket code, Mr. Street said.

Officers and members of the Annapolis Kiwanis Club, were urged to support the recovery program yesterday by Edwin F. Hill, of the Washington Club, and governor of the Capital district.

At the end of the order's national convention, the delegates voted to contribute $1,200 of their funds to various Jewish charities, and $500 more to aid German Jews in settling in Palestine, and approved plans for a world Jewish congress. Maurice Shapiro, St. Louis, was reelected grand secretary for the twentieth term. Others chosen included: Vice grand master, Lee A. Berlinsky, Washington.

Girl Relates How Kidnaper Bade Her Strip

Mary McElroy in Tears at Kansas City Trial of Walter McGee.

Kansas City, July 25 (AP).—Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of City Manager H. F. McElroy, wept today at the trial of Walter McGee, as she testified her alleged kidnaper demanded that she disrobe before her release to permit a search for possible concealed evidence against his gang.

Slumped in her chair, the 25-year-old victim of the kidnaping plot said:

"I told them I would rather die than do that; that I never would do it."

Identifies McGee.

Speaking in a low voice audible only to the judge, jury and spectators a few feet away, Miss McElroy identified McGee as the leader of the gang that kidnaped her last May and held her until her father paid $30,000 ransom.

Miss McElroy's testimony revealed for the first time the kidnaper's insistence that she remove her clothing for a search. The young woman said her refusal ended the incident, the man making no attempt to force her to comply.

She related how McGee had routed her from the bathroom at the McElroy home by threatening to shoot through the door and how she had been imprisoned in the squalor of a basement room of a Kansas cottage where she spent the greater part of 29 hours in captivity chained to the wall.

Death Penalty Asked.

McGee, a former Oregon convict, sat apparently unmoved by the testimony by which the prosecution hopes to send him to the gallows. In outlining the State's case, Assistant Prosecutor M. W. O'Hern told the jury the death penalty would be demanded.

Joseph B. Keenan, Assistant Attorney General, charged with waging Federal warfare against kidnapers, was present to aid the State in its case.

McGee was pointed out from the witness stand late today by Mr. McElroy, father of Miss McElroy, as the man to whom he paid the $30,000 ransom demanded.

Asked if he could identify the man, he said, pointing at McGee: "That is the man who stood beside the car and to whom I gave the money."

Chicken Feast Is Given to Montgomery County Institution.

Approximately 1,000 persons from Montgomery and Prince Georges Counties and Washington attended the annual chicken dinner given yesterday for the benefit of the Montgomery County General Hospital at Sandy Spring by members of the women's board of the institution.

As an entertainment feature, the Colesville Baseball Club defeated a team from Dayton, Howard County, 10 to 6.

Mrs. L. C. Crobert, chairman of the women's board, had general supervision of the dinner and Mrs. Clarence L. Gilpin was in charge of arrangements.

Members of the arrangements committee were Mrs. R. H. Miller, Mrs. Martin Stabler, Mrs. C. C. Cumbleson, Mrs. F. L. Thomas, Mrs. J. W. Barnes, Mrs. S. M. Hollewell and Mrs. William J. Thomas.

The committee in charge of the sale of tickets was comprised of Clarence L. Gilpin, of Sandy Spring; Otho Trundle, of Gaithersburg, and William Clark, Rockville.

Named as Arlington Delegates.

Pursuant to a call for a State convention of Young Democratic Clubs of Virginia by State President John Gallaher, of Leesburg, to be held at Richmond, August 16, Lyman M. Kelley, president of the Arlington Country Club, announces Mrs. Louis Greene and John E. Nevil, jr., as the local representatives.

Reserve Board Shows Marked Industry Gain

Output, Work, Credit and Transportation Are Found Increasing.

Bearing witness to the upswing, a marked acceleration of industrial activity was reported yesterday in the Federal Reserve Board's summary of conditions during June and July.

Production, employment, transportation and bank credit increased during the period. Wholesale prices gained during the first part of the period, but dropped sharply in the third week in July, the report shows.

Production increased from 77 per cent of the 1923-1925 average in May to 89 per cent in June. The March figure was 60 per cent. These increases were measured by the board's index, which is adjusted to allow for the seasonal decline.

Auto Production Gains.

Automobile production, which usually decreases at this season, gained in June and showed little change in July. Steel activity increased, although railroad and construction steel demand remained level.

"Consumption of cotton by domestic mills was larger in June than in any previous month, and continued at a high rate during the first half of July," the report says. Woolen mills and shoe factories also showed greater activity.

Verifying reports of the Department of Labor, the board also finds an increase in employment from 61 per cent to 65 per cent of the 1923-1925 average. The value of construction contracts awarded also increased, it was reported.

Demand Deposits Down.

The 1933 bank act, which forbade the payment of interest on demand deposits, was followed by a decrease of $500,000,000 in the demand deposits held by member banks in 90 cities.

The withdrawal of demand deposits reduced excess reserve of banks in New York, and increased surplus reserves of banks in other cities.

Open market rates continued at a low level, although there have been recent slight increases in acceptance rates, time money loaned on stock exchange collateral, and the amount paid for short-term Government securities.

"Wholesale prices of commodities advanced from 64 per cent of the 1926 average in the first week of June to 69 per cent in the middle of July," the board's report declares.

Federal Workers To Defy Johnson

sented at the White House by a delegation of Baltimore substitute postal employes, headed by William Otte, secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks.

Through the President's Secretary, Marvin H. McIntyre, the employes asked Mr. Roosevelt to "include them in the new deal." Statistics were offered showing that their wage level has averaged $2 and $4 a week in the current year. The President was asked to proclaim a $15 weekly minimum wage, as he has for private industry.

Meanwhile, the fears of some Federal employes affected by the President's reorganization orders, effective August 10, were eased somewhat yesterday by Secretary of Labor Perkins. She said that so far as the Labor Department is concerned, there will be no wholesale dismissals growing out of reorganization.

Some to Be Dropped.

Although some will be permanently dropped August 10, and others may be released later on, there will be no general lay-off, she insisted.

Miss Perkins indicated the department will save in other ways. Consolidaton of the Bureaus of Immigration and Naturalization will save rent, she pointed out.

Other savings will be made through speeding up the process of obtaining warrants for deportees, through smaller printing costs and through use of the same tabulating machinery and forms for both bureaus, she said.

Under the President's reorganization order all employes in bureaus affected must be separated from the service, and those who are needed would be hired back.

The National Recovery Board, at a meeting this afternoon, will consider the possibility of reemploying ousted married workers, drawing limited salaries, where husband and wife are in the Federal service.

The Civil Service Commission announced yesterday that 37 employes, furloughed from the commission July 1, will be rehired with part of the $220,000 allocated to the unit by the Budget Bureau, as exclusively reported in yesterday's Post.

"Sky Bats"

That's What Army Calls Fliers Using Only Instruments.

"Sky Bats" is a new name in Army Air Corps nomenclature to designate graduates of the first class in blind flying, at Randolph Field, Tex.

Capt. Albert F. Hegenberger, instructor, turned out six pilots who proved their ability to take off, perform certain maneuvers in flight and land, flying solely by instruments and radio, without any view of the ground. The graduates are Maj. F. H. Coleman and Lieuts. G. V. Holloman, S. E. Prudhomme, L. F. Herman, R. J. Minty and C. D. McAllister.

Their final tests consisted of five flights entirely "blind," three of which had to be successive. There was voice communication with the planes at all times. Instruments in use today make it possible for a pilot to land without seeing the ground when his plane and the airport are properly equipped.

Federal Probe Of Securities' Values Urged

Oklahoma Senator Says Public Should Know Stock Details.

(Associated Press.)

Action by the Federal Government to provide the investing public with full information concerning the actual value of securities so that "the possibility of wild and uncurbed speculation would be minimized, if not practically eliminated," was advocated yesterday in a statement by Senator Thomas (Democrat), Oklahoma.

Earlier, Senator Steiwer (Republican), Oregon, a member of the Banking Committee, forecast legislation by the next session of Congress to minimize the possibility of a recurrence of "the panic of 1929 and the past week's experience with its abnormal shrinkage of prices."

Meanwhile, Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the banking committee, telegraphed Steiwer from New York that Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, had "denied knowledge of any pool or any other artificial manipulation having contributed to market movements of recent days."

Thomas proposed that the Government make available from information filed with the Trade Commission under the securities act, and from other sources, pertinent information on the value of stocks. He added:

"The investing public is rapidly coming to the conclusion that prices of commodities and stocks are controlled too often by pools and manipulators and that such individual or pool operation, forcing prices up or down without regard to justifiable values, constitutes a 'market racket' second only to the 'kidnaping racket' now too prevalent throughout the country.

"If this 'market racket' practice is not curbed at once, the exchanges will lose the confidence of the investing public and the brokerage houses and branches will lose their necessary patronage. These practices, if permitted to continue, will bring about the destruction of the present market system.

"In all probability, when the public works program gets under way and vast sums of money are released for labor and material, we will have another orgy of speculation and, with new money in circulation, we may expect to see a reptition of pool control of stocks and commodities and, as surely as this happens, we will see a repetition of the October, 1929, and the July, 1933, market crashes."

Virginia Fugitive Sought in Capital

Police yesterday were searching for John Carpenter, 20, former Camp Roosevelt recruit, who escaped earlier in the day from the jail at Luray, Va., where he was serving a six months' term. He is believed to be making his way to his home here.

Carpenter was sentenced about two weeks ago after he had pleaded guilty to stealing an automobile battery.

He escaped by dashing past Sheriff Lucas, when he opened his cell.

Mrs. Hutton to Ask Divorce, She Says Between Swoons

Plans to Elude Summons for Mate's Case and File Own Suit.

Aboard Steamer City of Havre, En Route to Baltimore, July 25. (U. P.).—Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton announced tonight that she still loved her husband, David Hutton, but that she was going to cast sentiment to one side and try to divorce him before he can divorce her.

She told all about it between swoons today aboard this vessel bound for Baltimore from Paris. The exact number of times Mrs. Hutton swooned was being argued tonight from the fo'castle to the engine room. Miss Bernadette Middleton, Mrs. Hutton's nurse, thought there had been two swoons. Mrs. Hutton wasn't sure she had swooned at all; maybe just felt a little faint when she discussed dimpled David, her "Daddy" and "great-heart-husband."

Summons Awaits Her.

In the moments during which she wasn't swooning, Mrs. Hutton lounged on a bunk in a cabin and outlined the strategy by which she hoped to beat great-heart-husband to the divorce courts. A process server, is seems, is waiting at Baltimore to hand Mrs. Hutton a summons from David, who used to sing in the Angelus Temple at Los Angeles, but is now trouping the vaudeville circuits. The summons demands that Mrs. Hutton appear to defend herself in great-heart-husband's divorce suit on grounds of mental cruelty.

Just to show that it was purely a sporting proposition, Mrs. Hutton informed the process server, through the United Press, that she intended to dodge him when the ship docks at Baltimore. She added that it might be a good idea for the process server to watch the flying fields after she dodged him at the dock, because she intended to board a plane, fly to Los Angeles and file a divorce suit of her own.

Aimee looked considerably younger than she did when she left for Europe. She is slender, her face is unlined and the hair that formerly was red is now a glorious sunflower yellow.

"Have you had your face lifted?" inquired a newspaperman.

Mrs. Hutton gasped.

"Tch, tch," cried Miss Middleton. "She's fainted."

Wants to See Reporters.

Aimee opened her eyes and said for Miss Middleton not to worry, that she hadn't fainted at all.

"You have, too, fainted," said Miss Middleton, "and all you reporters and photographers have got to get out of here."

Aimee sat up straight and shouted:

"But I want to talk to them. I want to tell them what a shock it was to learn that David was doing this—this awful thing."

"You still love David?" Aimee was asked.

"Of course, I still love him. I always shall."

The question was then brought up of how much Aimee loved David. She considered the matter for a moment and then replied:

"Well, he's my treasure chest. Yes, he's my great heart husband."

Oh, That Baby Story.

"How about this baby?" Aimee was asked.

The question referred to a message which Aimee sent to David while in Paris, informing him that he was the father of a 9-pound child. Later, she admitted it was a hoax.

"Oh, that baby story," shuddered Mrs. Hutton, closing her eyes.

"Tch. Tch," said Miss Middleton, "she's fainted."

Aimee said no, she didn't think she had fainted. Mrs. Robert A. Smythe, Mrs. Hutton's daughter by a previous marriage, stepped into the breach.

"I'm mother's only baby," she said, "and I weigh more than 9 pounds."

At Virginia Beach, where the City of Havre paused, Mrs. Hutton recovered from her swooning long enough to go ashore and eat lunch.

Reconciliation Is Seen.

Los Angeles, July 25 (AP).—The stern attitude which David Hutton has adopted toward reported pleas of Aimee Semple McPherson-Hutton, the evangelist, for his love melted a bit today and immediately the likelihood of a reconciliation appeared.

He said, after a conference with his attorney, Jerome Mayo, that the lawyer would be his spokesman and Mayo remarked:

"Dave Hutton has no wish to persecute his wife. He felt that he had just cause for divorce. But as his attorney, interested in what will be best for all concerned, I may say that I shall advise him to go back to his wife if it seems at all feasible. I believe it is the duty of every lawyer, even though retained to secure a divorce, to try to make peace between an estranged couple."

Nothing, it was indicated, would be done along such a line until the evangelist has returned here.

World Parley Balks at New Assembly Date

Hull Suggestion to Fix Extent of Recess Meets With No Response.

London, July 25 (AP).—The steering committee of the World Economic Conference, holding its closing session today, received coldly the American proposal to assure definite reassembling of the parley after recess is taken Thursday, but agreed that some activities should be carried on during the indefinite holiday.

The suggestion of Cordell Hull, American Secretary of State, to limit the recess period to a maximum of three months, fell upon deaf ears when leaders gathered late today, even Prime Minister R. B. Bennett, of Canada, who stanchly defended the American position in the fight to prevent adjournment three weeks ago, failing to respond.

It was agreed that Prime Minister MacDonald, chairman of the conference, should have authority to summon the bureau at any time to deal with the question of reconvening the plenary body, and the bureau—which is the steering or executive committee — was instructed to arrange for continuance of such work as should be considered possible.

In high American quarters, however, it was said that a spirit of complete defeatism prevailed at today's meeting, even the date for the next sitting of the bureau not being fixed, although Mr. Hull proposed that it should meet no later than November 1.

Home Owners' Body Is Held of Limited Value

Building and Loan Associations Say Agency Does Not Help Them.

The Home Owners Loan Corporation will be of small value to building and loan associations in Washington.

This was asserted yesterday after a meeting of the District Council of Building and Loan Associations at the Raleigh. Whether it will be legal to exchange building and loan association mortgages for the corporation bonds was questioned by the members of the council.

The observation was also made that building and loan associations offer the same advantages for amortization as the corporation. So far as the District of Columbia is concerned, there will be very few cases in which the Federal corporation can be of aid, it was said.

Despite these views, the council adopted a resolution, pledging cooperation "in every way consistent with the best interests of the individual associations."

Healthy Condition.

Local building and loan associations made $6,000,000 in loans during the first six months of this year. The associations have $88,000,000 in assets in home mortgages in the District. On June 30, a surplus of more than $5,000,000, over and above the mortgages to secure deposits, was reported.

The salubrious condition may be entirely local, the building and loan men agree. The Home Owners Loan Corporation may be of considerable value in some other sections of the country, where conditions are at such a low ebb that loans may not be available. The Federal corporation will also be of benefit in establishing new building and loan associations and liquidating decrepit ones, it is pointed out.

Who Will Benefit.

In view of the attitude of the loan associations, Charles A. Jones, District manager of the corporation, is wondering just how many loans he will obtain for local home owners in distress when he gets his office opened. Among individuals who will undoubtedly be helped are those holding straight trusts who are not in a position to curtail their indebtedness. Residents who owe less than 40 per cent on their homes and yet can not pay it also will benefit.

Mr. Jones is completing plans for the opening of his office and expects to have the location announced before the end of the week, he said last night.

Prison Products Code to Be Asked

Secretary Perkins Would Free Industry From That Competition.

A code to regulate prison-made goods will be sought by Secretary of Labor Perkins, to control the competition of convict labor with free workers, she said yesterday. She added she would work through Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, who will be asked to request governors of States to adopt an agreement in keeping with codes for industry.

"Some prison authorities have volunteered to subscribe to a code which would regulate the production of convict-made goods," Miss Perkins said. "But it is essential that every prison in the country be included, and because of this I am in favor of an effort to make the plan general in its application."

Secretary Perkins' pan is to keep convicts busy at work on goods to be used by government activities. She will also endeavor to do away with the contract system by which convicts are practically leased to manufacturers.

Chaplin Death Plot To Cause War Told

Japanese Officer Asserts Assassination Planned to Incite U. S.

Tokyo, July 25 (U.P.).—A nationalistic sublieutenant in the Japanese navy told from the witness stand today how extremists plotted to assassinate Charlie Chaplin in a wild plan to thrust Japan and the United States into war.

The story of the plot against Chaplin, British-born film comedian whose fame is as great in the Far East as in America, was related by Sublieut. Koga at the trial of 10 naval officers involved in the assassination of Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai on May 15, 1932.

Koga said the extremists planned to bomb the official residence of the premier during a reception for Chaplin, who was then a visitor in Japan. The reception was canceled however. The witness said it had been hoped the death of Chaplin would throw Japan and the United States into war, "which was needed to rehabilitate the Japanese spirit."

Kidnaper Contact Sought by Wife

Oil Millionaire Abductors Promised Freedom From Prosecution.

Oklahoma City, July 25 (A.P.).—Mrs. Berenice Urschel named a group of intermediaries today and also offered to deal directly herself with the kidnapers of her husband, Charles F. Urschel, multimillionaire oil man.

She promised there would be no official interference.

"I want them to believe me when I say we will make no effort to run them down or to prosecute," said Mrs. Urschel. "I want nothing but the return of Charles, unharmed."

Ambassadors and Clerks, Debs and Sales Girls Say Feeding Pigeons Peanuts Is Real Hobby

Even children are numbered among those who indulge in the old custom of pigeon feeding. Here is a scene in Lafayette Park, where the pigeons are probably the best fed in the country. Left to right: Gloria Zoby, of 816 Eighteenth street northwest, and David and Donald Simons, of 2188 G street northwest.

To Get President to Join in Pastime Is Big Hope of Many.

One of the outdoor pastimes in Washington is feeding pigeons in the parks. It is the outgrowth of an old Spanish custom that came first from Barcelona.

Whatever the status of pigeon feeding in Trafalgar square, London, and in Rome, at the gateway of St. Peter's—where pigeon feeding is all the rage—it is naught compared to the pastime as they play it here in Washington.

The Washington pigeon feeders are the champions of them all. The big leaguers among them spend most of their time at the old-fashioned feeding grounds in front of the White House, in Lafayette square.

It is said to be the hope of these people that the President of the United States will some day lay aside the cares of his office and come out and feed the pigeons. Already a number of Ambassadors, Ministers Plenipotentiary and lesser lights in the diplomatic service have fed the pigeons in the park, but merely as a side issue.

Highly Developed Art.

Pigeon feeding, as a hobby, is so highly developed that it must become an all-day job to amount to anything. Some of the pigeon feeders in Lafayette Park stay there from dawn to dusk feeding the birds.

As a consequence, the pigeons in Lafayette Park are the best fed pigeons in the country—fat and saucy.

There is an old peanut vendor—one of the oldest in Washington—who makes quite a living from the sale of the nuts. He takes his stand every day in the vicinity of Lafayette Park. One by one the pigeon lovers come to the cart and buy their peanuts by the bag—to give to the pigeons.

Just what makes this occupation so fascinating no one seems to know. Old men and old women, young children and their nurses—everybody seems willing to take a hand in it.

Kemper Cowing Is Champion.

The champion pigeon feeder is a well-known Washingtonian, Kemper Cowing. He claims that the very act of feeding peanuts to the pigeons is one of the most soothing in all human experience—and he has a host of friends who indorse his opinion.

It seems that pigeon feeding is contagious. Every day people walking through the park see other people sitting on benches with a lot of birds all around. The walkers stop to watch the sitters, see them feeding the pigeons. Like as not, next day a lot of walkers turn into sitters, feeding pigeons.

By dint of long practice, experienced pigeon feeders become bird trainers—and those are the folk who are honored by having the pigeons as boon companions, striking up a sort of cameraderie.

It is no uncommon sight to see pigeons perched on ladies' hats—in the park. Since fashions change, as a rule birds are not part of millinery ornamentation. Modistes stopped putting aigrettes and the like on milady's top-piece, but even a Princess Eugenie has been known to sport a pigeon in Lafayette Park.

The birds are partial to the old timers of the park. As an oyster knows his onions, so pigeons know their peanut vendors. Workmen and men out of work, barbers, bakers, butchers, singers and writers, all fall for the game of pigeon feeding—at some time or other. Attendants at the park are kept busy all the time brushing up the debris left after the feeding of the pigeons.

All during the depression one of the few commodities that did not fall in price was peanuts—and an expert economist figures that the reason for this is the continuous performance that takes place each day in the parks of Washington.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace might easily have raised the price of corn five months sooner had he known of this prevalent practice, feeding pigeons in the park.

The birds probably would have relished a meal of corn, or corn meal, just as well as peanuts.

The Bird Dietitians.

However, every man and woman who feeds the birds peanuts would first have to be converted to the corn idea; for the men and women who feed peanuts to the birds in Lafayette Park are all dietitians to the pigeons.

This is no idle jest—which accounts for the diet of peanuts. It seems that peanuts make the ideal food for pigeons. Should some outsider, some interloper, unfamiliar with the feeding rules and practices of the park, come some day with wheat or barley, or any other morsel except peanuts, there is no telling what would happen. Like as not there would be a riot. Revolution has started on lesser reason than that.

So the birds of Lafayette Park, and all other parks in Washington, will probably always get their peanuts—and lots of them. The dietitians, the pigeon fanciers, have decided that peanuts are what the birds should have.

There they are, every day, the pigeon feeders in the park; and they are as serious about the business as any merchant, or any artist, artisan or professional man eking out his livelihood.

One of the professional pigeon feeders was approached and asked, "Why?"

"Feed the Hungry."

"I'll tell you," he said, "this is following out the biblical admonition, 'Feed the hungry.'"

And he was right.

The pigeons in Lafayette Park are the hungriest in the world. They never get enough peanuts.

Occasionally a blackbird hops in among the pigeons, and immediately there is a battle. A sparrow skirts the outer rim of the feeding grounds, hoping to pick up a stray peanut. Immediately he has his head pecked.

The pigeons are the possessors of Lafayette Park by right of eminent domain, and the pigeon feeders see to it that none but the good deserve the fare. It seems to be pigeon paradise.

Worth Smith Favors Repeal, Virginia Beer

Candidate for Governor Addresses Rally in Arlington County.

A crowd of 700 persons last night greeted State Senator W. Worth Smith, of Louisa, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Virginia, at a meeting in Washington-Lee High School at Ballston, under auspices of the Smith-for-Governor Club of Cherrydale.

Mr. Smith declared himself for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. He said he had advocated a special session of the State Assembly for enactment of beer legislation since early last spring, and charged political chicanery had delayed the convening of the session.

A flat $5 automobile license fee and 5-cent gasoline tax were advocated by the speaker. He urged continuance of free text books in the schools, but he condemned what he termed the "costly practice" of changing the books.

Mr. Smith attacked his opponent, Judge George C. Peery, charging that he was a tool of the "political machine."

Representative Howard W. Smith, of Alexandria, a brother, introduced the candidate. Lyman M. Kelley, president of the Young Democratic Club of Arlington County, was in charge of the meeting. Music was furnished by the Washington-Lee High School Cadet Band.

State Architect Prepares Plan Of New School

Building in Alexandria Is Sought in Place of Old Schools.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.,
Phone Alexandria 523.

Plans to erect a new high school building in Alexandria, to accommodate students now attending the Alexandria and George Mason High Schools, are being prepared tentatively by Architect Long, of the State board of education. T. C. Williams, superintendet of the Alexandria schools, went to Richmond yesterday to confer with Mr. Long. As soon as the plans are completed they will be sent to the city school board, then transmitted to the city council. The school board will endeavor to show the council savings that can be accomplished by the new building.

The school board will ask that the council try to make available for this building part of the $500,000 loan, which it is proposed to secure from the Government. It is estimated that the building will cost between $200,000 and $250,000. The proposed site is on the present high school grounds.

Efforts have been made to secure an appropriation for a new high school for a number of years. The proposed new building, it is said, would be sufficiently large to accommodate the natural increase for at least ten years. The two old buildings would be used for graded schools.

Chief Medical Examiner Charles Norris said death apparently had been caused by strangulation about last midnight.

Second Noah May Be Needed, Savant Says

Expects Another Flood If Ocean Continues Performances.

A Noah will be needed again if the theory of Dr. A. W. Grabau, of Peiping, China, works out.

Dr. Grabau yesterday presented the International Geological Congress with the idea that if the oceans' past performance is repeated the world will have another flood.

In fact, there will be a series of floods, as he declared that since the Cambrian Age—500,000,000 years ago—the sea has periodically risen and fallen.

Why this occurs he could not explain but advanced the hypothesis that radio activity in the earth's interior might be a reason.

Many scientists think that this radio activity is behind the world's "paroxysms"—periods when the earth seems to be "blowing off steam."

A modern illustration to explain the forming of coal in the carboniferous period of the past was brought forward by Dr. E. M. Kindle, chief paleontologist of the Geological Survey of Canada.

How the earth is building itself a shell of granite was described by W. H. Collins, director of the Geological Survey of Canada.

Early October Vote on Repeal Is Virginia Plan

Steering Committee of Wet Organizations Frame Assembly Bill.

Richmond, July 25 (AP).—The three organizations in Virginia working for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment are preparing a bill to be introduced in both houses on the opening day of the special session of the General Assembly providing for State-wide election of delegates to a convention to act on the repeal amendment early in October.

John B. Minor, secretary of the steering committee of the three organizations—Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, Crusaders, and the Virginia Association Against the Prohibition Amendment—said the bill would provide for a reduction in the costs of the election by two-thirds.

In his statement, Mr. Minor said the bill would provide: 1. For the election of 30 or 40 delegates by State-wide vote at a special election held early in October.

2. For the delegates to serve without pay, except mileage of 5 cents per mile coming and going.

3. For costs of the election to be reduced about two-thirds by providing for three judges at $2 per day, one of whom shall act as a clerk, and having no other clerks, three or four nominees on each side of the question to be selected from each of the former 10 congressional districts.

4. For nominations to be made by a commission consisting of the governor, the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the house, who, it is understood, will follow the recommendations of the respective "wet" and "dry" organizations in the State in making the nominations.

5. For the ballot to group the "wet" and "dry" nominees in separate columns, with heading indicating whether that group is "for" or "against" repeal, the voter to run a line through the heading of the group he wants to vote against. Thus the voter will vote "for" repeal or "against" repeal.

Firemen Hear Labor Day Parade Plans

Service Bands Will Take Part In Fire Parade

Army, Navy and Marines to Give Music Feature of Labor Day Program.

The three United States service bands—Army, Marine and Navy—will participate in the activities surrounding this year's National Firemen's Labor Day parade.

Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, parade marshal, received word from Government authorities yesterday that the bands would take an active part in helping the fire fighters make their three-day program here as much a success as possible.

Two of the bands will be asked to march in the parade, while a third will be solicited for a concert at the Sylvan Theater the night of the memorial to firemen who have given their lives in line of duty. This will take place the night before the parade.

No sooner had announcement been made yesterday that the parade this year would include commercial floats than inquiries began to come in from Washington merchants.

Must Pass Inspection.

The parade committee will allow commercial concerns to enter floats in the great outdoor pageant, providing they are artistic in design and execution and pass an inspection by the float committee, which will be headed by Private R. A. Barton.

A small fee, which will go into the general parade fund will be asked of each entrant, according to present plans. The firefighters hope to have at least 50 floats from Washington merchants.

Private Barton yesterday suggested cash awards to business houses on Pennsylvania avenue along the line of march for the best decorated store fronts on the day of the parade.

He believes he can get every merchant along the Avenue to dress up his shop for the big parade. He will appoint a committee to work with him on this phase of the work.

Yesterday brought another development of importance to the parade. Dr. A. M. MacDonald, acting coroner, and A. J. Sardo volunteered as chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the ambulance and rescue committee.

A corps of more than 15 ambulances will be drafted by the two officials, plus physicians and nurses, who will be on hand for any emergency.

Urges Their Support.

On Monday night, Sergt. Bargagni addressed a meeting of a division of the District Fire Fighters Association at the Hamilton Hotel and urged their support for the parade. This was the group of firemen who will be off duty on Labor Day because of their services on the night shift. A number of the firemen voluteered their services for duty Labor Day.

George Finger, organizer of the National Firemen's Association, and Noble F. Rushe, vice president of the association and chief of the Hyattsville Fire Department, also addressed the fire fighters. They talked about the convention of the association, which will be held Sunday afternoon preceding the parade.

Boy's Bike Dash Wins First "We Do Our Part" Poster

George P. Killian and his son, Bradley H., displaying first 'Employers' Badge of Cooperation" used in Washington. The son rode his bicycle to the Commerce Department so as to head line of applicants.

Son of Capital Business Man Makes Sure of Family Distinction.

This is the story of the early morning bicycle ride of Bradley H. Killian, 17-year-old son of George P. Killian, Washington business man.

Bradley wanted his father to have the distinction of being the first business man in America to display "the employers' badge of cooperation" with the New Deal. So the boy got out his bicycle, rode over to the Department of Commerce and was first in line when they started issuing those war-time posters, "N. R. A., We Do Our Part."

At 9 o'clock, the line formed to the right. Department of Commerce officials started giving out the posters. At 9:03 Bradley Killian had his, in the name of his father, and at 9:10 the sign was displayed on the window of the George P. Killian Paper Box Co., at 1209 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Only by the speed of a good bicyclist could this honor have come to the Killian firm—to be the first not only in Washington but in America to hang up the N. R. A. sign.

And to prove that it pays, the Killian company yesterday did the biggest cash business realized in the past three years.

George P. Killian, president of the paper box company, immediately dispatched a telegram to President Roosevelt. It read: "We will immediately increase wages and reduce hours."

Looking at the first day's profits, Mr. Killian said:

Ice Thief Gets 10 Days In City Jail to Cool Off

For years it has been customary for officials and employes of the Mutual Ice Co., of Alexandria, to wink at the pilfering of small blocks of ice which fall to the loading platform as railroad cars are being reiced.

However, when Eugene Taylor, colored, appropriated a 150-pound block, this was considered excessive. Policemen Stover and Dodd hailed Taylor into police court, where he was sentenced to ten days in jail, to cool off.

Fairfax Seeks U. S. Funds to Erect Schools

County Board to Consider Obtaining Loan at Special Meeting.

Possible use of Federal recovery funds to erect school buildings in Fairfax County will be discussed tomorrow morning at a special meeting of the county school board. The county board of supervisors will meet in a special joint session in the afternoon. All loans obtained by the school board must be approved by the supervisors.

County Superintendent of Schools W. T. Woodson has been in Richmond for the past two days conferring with officials of the State Board of Education concerning the loans. His report and recommendations will be made tomorrow.

The question has been discussed informally at recent school board meetings. The members understand that the loans may be obtained from recovery funds and of the total amount only 70 per cent must be repaid.

It is believed funds for the Groveton School, now under construction, can be obtained from this source instead of the State Literary Loan Fund. The rate of repayment and interest are lower.

Another project considered by the board is the erection of a high school at the center of the county near Fairfax to take care of high school pupils now going to Oakton and Clifton. Several vocational subjects not being offered at any high school except Herndon will be given if the central school is erected. The proposed building would relieve overcrowding in several other high schools.

32-Hour Week In Shipyards Gains Favor

Roosevelt Approval Seen After Conference With Swanson.

(Associated Press.)

On the eve of the Navy's largest formal bid opening for new war vessels, it was indicated yesterday that President Roosevelt would approve a 32-hour week for the shipbuilding industry so that the Government might help to create a model for other businesses.

The indication came after Secretary Swanson had gone to the President with a Navy Department protest that a 40-hour week should be substituted for the 32 hours demanded by Hugh S. Johnson, the industrial administrator.

Swanson said as he left the White House after a lengthy meeting of the recovery council that he had acquiesced in the 32-hour week proposal.

The acquiescence of Swanson was regarded as forecasting Mr. Roosevelt's approval of the 32-hour week.

The Navy, which tomorrow receives bids for 21 fighting vessels and soon will start navy yards working on 16 others, insisted a 40-hour work week was necessary in the proposed shipbuilding code if the cost and time of bringing the fleet nearer London Treaty limits were not to be increased greatly.

Builders Wanted 40 Hours.

Johnson, meanwhile, had demanded and received from shipbuilders the proposal of a 32-hour work week on naval construction, obtained after he had threatened otherwise to recommend suspension of the entire naval program. The shipbuilders, themselves, today busy finishing their bids, had sought a 40-hour week.

Already the White House had received a protest against the Navy's stand on working hours. John Frey, spokesman for the American Federation of Labor, took it there after Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chief of naval construction, answered labor's demand for a 30-hour week with the argument it might increase costs and delay delivery of the 32-ship program the Navy wants completed in three years.

Bid on Vessels.

Shipbuilders previously had said the 30-hour week asked by labor would add $120,000,000 to the annual naval repair bill and increase new construction cost proportionately.

The Navy said tomorrow's bids were the largest of that character in the history of that branch of the service.

Shipbuilders will submit bids on 21 vessels, including the following 16 of the public works program:

Two aircraft carriers of 20,000 tons each.

One 6-inch-gun 10,000-ton cruiser.

Four destroyer leaders of 1,850 tons each.

Seven destroyers of 1,500 tons each.

Two submarines of 1,400 tons each.

In addition, the yards will bid on one 8-inch-gun 10,000-ton cruiser authorized in 1929, but which can not be laid down until after January 1, 1934.

Awards also will be made for four of the 1,850-ton destroyer leaders authorized in 1916.

Knighthood's Still in Flower For Champion Ring Spearer

Bill McConkey Can Stab 27 ¼-Inch Circles While on Horseback.

By John J. Daly.

In days of old,
When knights were bold,
And nights were cold,
And ladies weighed a ton,
The knights went forth
To pledge their troth
And blow some froth
From the cups they won;
But nowadays,
With diff'rent ways
Of living all the knights
Just stay at home.
They seldom roam,
And never wear their tights.

There is, however, one knight left here.

He is the Knight of the Southwest Market.

Meet W. H. McConkey, of the 1200 block of Water street southwest, who covers the waterfront every day, day in and day out, looking for some one who can beat him wielding a lance.

The good Knight McConkey wields a wicked lance—and anyone who wants to see feats of dexterity need journey only to the long row of commission houses on Water street and watch him. He is getting ready for the annual tournaments held in Virginia, Maryland, and other States.

For eleven years, "Bill" McConkey has been champion lancer of the United States. His title was won from Harris Turner in 1922. Turner, a Washingtonian, was one of the last knights of the old regime. Old-time Washingtonians, of course, will recall the knights. They took part in the field days of yore, at Glen Echo and Marshall Hall, where knights gathered to pierce little rings with their lances.

Championship Tourney Set.

Now the sport seems to be coming back. One hundred gallant knights are coming here, August 16, from all parts of the country to try to wrest the championship from McConkey.

Yesterday, for instance, while the watermelon boats were coming in from the Southland, in front of a Water Street cafeteria, with a goodly crowd about, McConkey tossed brass rings in the air all afternoon, and caught them on the end of his lance—a spear of the same proportions as that used by Richard the Lion-Hearted.

Ten times out of ten can this good knight catch a little ring—no bigger than a wedding ring—on the end of his lance.

The crowd gasps.

"Say, bud," McConkey's manager bragged, "you ain't seen nothing yet."

It developed that McConkey can take a ring, coil cord around it so that the inside circle is diminished almost to the size of a pin-point—and spear that, too.

Best on Horseback.

On horseback, of course, the Knight of the Southwest Market is at his best.

Unfortunately, no horses had come to market when Harold Dowling, The Post staff photographer, caught the picture of Knight McConkey tossing rings in the air and catching them on his spear-point, or lance.

"Knighthood will come back," he says, and invited all his friends to be down at Marshall Hall August 16 when knights from every State in the Union seek the American championship.

As his best performance, Knight McConkey stabbed 27 ¼-inch rings in succession, on horseback.

He is willing to wager odds of 10 to 1 he can stab any nine out of ten—and has the money to prove it.

Record Effort By Mollisons Still Possible

Captain Indicates Change From Decision Against Distance Flight.

New York, July 25 (AP).—The flying Mollisons got their heads above the liniment today, decided they weren't "altogether finished yet," and began to think about making a long-distance flight after all.

"This is only a temporary setback," smiled Capt. James A. Mollison through his bandages, while his wife, the former Amy Johnson, nodded her blonde tresses from her pillow in an adjoining bed.

"Of course, we couldn't fly to Bagdad, as we planned to do, because by the time we could get another ship the season would be late and the weather would be too bad.

"We shall have to take a new route for the distance record."

The implication was that the plucky young couple would fly to South America, but the captain had no details of his project to give out.

"We have been in bed ever since we came here last night," he said. "Tomorrow we expect to get up, and then we can start to make our plans."

Their first move probably will be a visit of a week or so to George Palmer Putnam and his wife, Amelia Earhart, at their home in Rye, N. Y. The Mollisons met Miss Earhart in London when she made her transatlantic flight.

Putnam called today and promised that his wife would come tomorrow. Clarence Chamberlin and Clyde Pangborn were other visitors.

The Mollisons received newspapermen and posed for pictures in their hotel suite late today for the first time since they were flown here yesterday from Bridgeport, Conn., scene of the Seafarer's crash Sunday night.

Admiral Leigh New Chairman Of Navy's General Board

Succeeds Marvell, Who Is to Be Retired Oct. 1 by Age Limit.

Rear Admiral Richard H. Leigh, U. S. N., has been ordered to duty as chairman of the general board of the Navy Department, it was announced yesterday. He will succeed Rear Admiral George R. Marvell, U. S. N., who will be relieved of active duty on August 1 and will be placed on the retired list of the Navy on October 1, having reached the statutory retirement age of 64 years.

Admiral Leigh served as commander in chief of the United States fleet from August, 1932, to June 10, 1933, and reported for duty as a member of the general board on July 14.

Colorful Career.

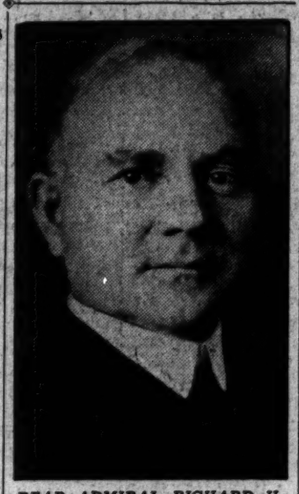
Admiral Marvell, whom Admiral Leigh will succeed, has had a colorful naval career. He was born in Fall River, Mass., September 25, 1869, and was appointed to the Naval Academy in 1885. During the Spanish-American War he served on the U. S. S. Vicksburg, gunboat of the North Atlantic Fleet, engaged in blockading Cuban ports.

For his service during the World War as commanding officer of the U. S. S. Louisiana, battleship, he was awarded the Navy Cross. In 1919 he was appointed Naval Inspector of Ordinance in charge of the Naval Armor Plant and the Naval Projectile Plant, Charleston, W. Va.

Headed 14th District.

He commanded the battleship Arizona during 1921 and 1922 and upon promotion to the rank of Rear Admiral, was appointed Commandant of the 16th Naval District and Commandant of the Naval Station, Cavite, P. I. He commanded the Fleet Base Force from 1924 to 1926, when he was ordered to the Naval War College for instruction. Upon completion of that course, he was appointed Commandant of the 14th Naval District and Commandant of the Naval Base at Pearl Harbor, T. H.

On September 29, 1930, he reported for duty in command of Light Cruiser Divisions, Scouting Force, and additional duty in command of Light Cruiser Division 5, with the accompanying rank of Vice Admiral. He was detached from that duty in October, 1931, and has been a member of the General Board since April, 1932. Admiral Marvell lives at Fall River, Mass.



REAR ADMIRAL RICHARD H. LEIGH, U. S. N., who will become chairman of the General Board of the Navy Department, August 1, succeeding Rear Admiral George H. Marvell.

Unions, Producers Claim Victories

Studios Jammed With Men Wanting to Replace Movie Strikers.

Hollywood, Calif., July 25 (AP).—Conflicting claims on the effects of a strike called among sound technicians in the movie industry were made today, producers insisting their schedules were proceeding under somewhat reduced programs and one union executive contending that all but two of 794 cameramen had walked out.

The employes' gates at all studios were jammed with men and women looking for work in response to advertisements offering employment to certain classes of skilled workers.

Producers declared all plants with the exception of two were working at 50 to 60 per cent of normal production and that work soon to begin on other film productions would bring the figure up to normal.

There was no picketing at any of the gates and no reports of disturbances.

World's Fair Gives 100,000 Employment

Chicago, July 25 (AP).—With two-fifths of its five-month run completed, the World's Fair has placed approximately $100,000,000 in circulation and has created, directly and indirectly, jobs for 100,000 persons, exposition officials estimated today.

Stuart Is Praised By Gov. Pollard

Points to Tax System Improvement Under Former Official.

San Francisco, July 25 (AP).—Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia, commenting today on the death in Lebanon, Va., of former Gov. Henry C. Stuart, said Mr. Stuart kept his deep interest in the welfare of the people of his State both in and out of office.

Gov. Pollard said:

"His administration was marked by an earnest effort to improve the tax system of the State, and under his leadership Virginia abandoned a system of taxation which was retarding her progress."

Mattern in Aid Plane Starts Hop to Juneau

Fairbanks, Alaska, July 25 (AP).—Jimmie Mattern, who crashed in Siberia while attempting a world flight, left here today for Juneau in a seaplane piloted by Bob Ellis.

He was accompanied by members of the relief expedition of William Alexander. The plans of the group were for Mattern to fly tomorrow to Terrace, B. C., where a plane chartered by the relief expedition awaits him. Mattern then would take the relief party to Edmonston and fly alone from there to New York.

I'm strong for sunshine
– so I'm strong for "Toasting"

I've always found that really good reasons are the simplest reasons. For instance, I know that sunshine mellows and heat purifies. "Toasting" is therefore very easy for me to understand. And very easy for me to appreciate—because—my sense of the fastidious is so very exacting. You see, I'm always aware of the fact that my cigarette comes in such intimate contact with my lips. Quite naturally, it's the purity of "Toasting" that I single out for special praise. It's just my own personal feminine reason for saying "Luckies Please!"

because "It's toasted"

States' Rights.

Secretary of War George H. Dern shook himself remarkably free from traditional views when he addressed the annual conference of governors at Sacramento, Cal. As governor of Utah, Mr. Dern was an ardent advocate of States' rights, and as a Democratic leader he has been active in upholding Jeffersonian principles. But times change, and bring new conceptions of basic political ideals. Today it is not altogether strange to hear Secretary Dern, as an exponent of the new deal, discuss "the bugaboo of State rights," but it may be difficult for some "old timers" to make such a rapid transition.

The purpose of Secretary Dern's address apparently was to explain to the assembled governors the reason why the Federal Government has taken over control of industry and agriculture as well as commerce. Uncle Sam is trying to regulate competition with a view to restoring prosperity. "If present conceptions of State sovereignty stand in the way of that experiment," says the Secretary of War, "it will be a calamity."

Federal officials seldom have been as candid as Secretary Dern in admitting a determination to centralize power in Washington. If the following paragraph may be regarded as a statement of policy by the administration it is of far-reaching significance:

> The relationship of the States to the Federal Government is undoubtedly changing, and everything indicates that, under our complex national industrial life, it will be necessary for the Federal Government to take over more and more power. Since the sole purpose would be to promote social justice, why not do it openly rather than through disguises? Evil practices have hidden behind the bugaboo of State rights long enough.

In times of distress a tendency toward centralization seems to be inevitable. States would be extremely handicapped in trying to carry out economic recovery programs of their own with no coordinating agency. Federal regulation is unquestionably more effective in some fields than regulation by 48 different State agencies. In such cases there is little regret when Uncle Sam extends his influence throughout the land.

Yet it is well to remember that the transfer of power to the Federal Government is not a panacea for every evil under the sun. The ignoble end of the prohibition experiment is sufficient to warrant the utmost caution in the shifting of local responsibilities to the National Capital. If "the bugaboo of State rights" is to be buried, it might well be accompanied by the bugbear of Federal cure-alls for local problems.

Applesauce Not the Only Dish.

Our esteemed contemporary, the Philadelphia Public Ledger, makes the attempt to induce all America to subscribe to the notion that Pennsylvania applesauce covered with cream is the nation's choicest dish. This combination, says the Public Ledger, "sprang from the brain of some early Quaker genius of cookery," and it suggests that "if a plate of it were offered by NIRA to every industrialist who would come in quickly and sign up, the work of the administration might be finished by the end of the month."

The idea that an offer of applesauce would speed up industrial codes has a certain appeal, it is true, but this is a country of strong sectionalism, and one section's meat may be another section's poison. Why should Pennsylvania applesauce be superior to any other, or more appealing than other famous dishes? The Eastern Shore's delights of cherries and soft crabs tempted President Roosevelt recently to such an extent that he became indisposed, which never could have been accomplished by Pennsylvania applesauce. What would a Southern industrialist say if offered applesauce, when he has access to hog jowl and greens, the glorious dish which inspires Clark Howell to reject ambassadorships so that he may remain at home, the sage of Peachtree street?

If a roll of the States were called, each commonwealth would spring forward with its favorite and special dish, claiming national honors for delectable food. From Aroostook potatoes to the delicious whale blubber of Unalaska, and from Michigan trout to Texas yams with gravy, the gastronomical resources of the United States are the envy of the world. Foreign aviators and European lecturers flock to these shores to sample the national larder, and always achieve greater triumphs after liberal helpings. Every housewife is exploring the possibilities of cookery. The culinary exploits of this country have made obsolete the quaint conceits of Brillat-Savarin and his successors.

Applesauce is good, very good, and perhaps Pennsylvania applesauce is a trifle more appealing than any other; but it is not conceivable that national recovery is dependent upon offerings of applesauce alone.

The Public Library.

The rapid increase in the number of readers in the Washington Public Library and its branches emphasizes the need of more and better library service to the District. Public Librarian George F. Bowerman, in a radio address last week, gave a few figures which reveal an astonishing growth in the reading habit. Registered users of the Public Library numbered 72,000 in 1929, while in the fiscal year 1933, ending June 30, the registered users numbered more than 116,000, an increase of 61 per cent. The central library and branches furnished 1,561,000 books to home readers in 1929, while in 1933 they furnished 2,630,000 books, an increase of 68 per cent in the number of books read.

There are only four branches of the Washington Public Library. The American Library Association published statistics last April dealing with the public libraries of cities of 200,000 population and over. Of the twenty-five cities containing a smaller population than Washington, twenty-two have more library branches than Washington. Minneapolis, ranking next to Washington in population, has 22 branch libraries. Indianapolis has 20, Louisville 23, Memphis 21, Toledo and Denver 13 each, Oakland 18, Providence 16, and Dayton 13. Newark, Kansas City, Birmingham, Seattle, Portland, Rochester and Jersey City have ten branch libraries or more. New Orleans, St. Paul, Atlanta, Akron, San Antonio and Syracuse can boast of more branch libraries than are possessed by the District of Columbia.

The people of Washington are deprived of easy access to reading facilities. Although nearly 50 per cent of the use of the Public Library is by children, these children in most cases must travel long distances to the Public Library or its branches, and they find these branches overcrowded. Librarian Bowerman states that the Mount Pleasant branch last year circulated more than 421,000 volumes, so that it was in the class with the entire library systems of Scranton, Fort Worth, and Nashville.

An appeal has been made to the Public Works Administration for funds with which to build the Georgetown and Petworth branch libraries and to enlarge the central library building. The sites for these buildings are owned by the District and construction could be begun very quickly. The need is urgent, and the employment provided would result in permanent benefits. In the meantime the library trustees have developed a construction program, contemplating the construction of 28 branch libraries by 1946, together with enlargement of the central library building.

The Origin of Man.

Interest in the origin of man never wanes. Each year the anthropologists come forth with a new story that is more fascinating and plausible than their previous efforts. The supposed cradle of the human race is shifted from continent to continent with remarkable versatility. Still the search for evidence of the first human beings goes on, and no one can say to what region science will point a few years hence as the place of man's origin.

Not many years ago Europe was generally considered to be the stamping ground of the first creatures that could be called human. Then research on a larger scale was extended to Asia. Roy Chapman Andrews and a number of other scientists concluded that Central Asia must be the first place inhabited by man. Discovery of that famous skull fragment known as the Peking man tended to confirm this view. Now Sir Arthur Smith Woodward, British anthropologist, advances his belief that the ancestors of modern man evolved in Africa. And he offers what appears to be substantial evidence to support his hypothesis.

Fossilized remains of primitive men have been found in Europe and Asia in strata that geologists believe to be about 1,000,000 years old. More recently human bones have been found in strata of the same period in the Tanganyika territory, Africa. Although these bones were found in association with implements and fauna thought to be about 1,000,000 years old, they do not belong to the primitive human types found in Europe and Asia dating from the same period. A human lower jaw, for example, found in strata of the upper Pliocene age along with teeth of the mastodon of that time, reveals a bony chin and crowded teeth closely resembling those of modern man.

These findings lead Sir Arthur to a belief that "typical modern man appeared much earlier in Southwestern Africa than in Europe or Asia, though he had not advanced further than his backward northern contemporaries in the art of tool-making." He thinks that the Java man, the Piltdown man of England and the Peking man may have been "remote offshoots" of the earlier race developed in Africa.

The late Dr. W. D. Matthew pointed out that if any race evolves from a single center and pushes out into new territory, those individuals who reach the farthest frontiers may be expected to differ most from the parent stock and to remain the most primitive. This theory corresponds with Sir Arthur's hypothesis that the widely differing primitive types found in various parts of the world may have been offshoots of an earlier African race which achieved higher development in that continent. The very primitive types of Europe and Asia may not be the ancestors of modern man, the scientist points out. They probably were replaced, he says, by a new invasion from the southern continent.

Within a few years science may have quite a different story to tell based upon more complete evidence. There is reason to believe that science is getting nearer every year to the truth regarding man's origin.

Hot Weather Ahead.

"Cool summers" may be expected to continue for another 6,500 years. This cheering information was imparted to scientists from many countries assembled in Washington for the sixteenth international geological congress. The address of Dr. Ernst Antevs, of Stockholm, had a soothing effect, even though it was punctuated by the mopping of sweltering brows. Only geologists can fully appreciate what might have been the status of their shirt collars if the gathering had met some 8,000 or 10,000 years ago.

It appears that the geologists and astronomers have been putting their heads together on the question of weather in the immediate geologic past, and, therefore, make bold to predict what may be expected in the next few hundred centuries. Dr. Antevs has been giving his attention to varves in New England lake and river beds. Varves are layers of clay laminated in such a way as to mark the season in which they were formed. Each year is represented by a double layer, one part for winter and one for summer. From these varves, says Dr. Antevs, scientists are able to estimate, with a fair degree of accuracy, the status of the weather back as far as 40,000 years ago. In this book of nature they read the advance and recession of the ice during the last glacial period.

Dr. Rudolf Spitaler, of Germany, presented the astronomical data used to corroborate findings of the geologists. Warm summers occur, he said, when the earth is nearest the sun, following an elliptical instead of a circular path. Thus when summers are warm from this cause on the northern hemisphere, they are cool on the southern hemisphere, and vice versa. Scientists have found that the periods in which the orbit of the earth carried it nearer to the sun correspond with the periods of rapid ice recession and high temperature as measured by geologic data.

According to these calculations, warm summers began about 39,000 years ago. About 26,000 years ago a cool period is believed to have started. Hot summers again began to curse mankind about 15,000 years ago, and this spell lasted until the dawn of historical times. Since then, according to the scientists, the old globe has been enjoying relatively cool summers on its northern end. Another cycle of real hot weather may afflict us 6,500 years hence. But in the meantime, why worry?

Sir Arthur Smith Woodward tells the Geological Congress at Washington that the Garden of Eden was in East Africa, but he fails to state how it was transferred to this country.

Jim Farley is making progress in installing new Democrats everywhere, but his campaign to install fresh pens in postoffices is a total failure.

The Chicago gentleman who tried to carry 13,000,000 bushels of wheat for a rise is broke and out of a job. Can't George Peek put him in the wheat uplift unit?

Newspapers and Rumors.

From the Arkansas City Traveler.

The newspapers are sometimes criticized as being sensational. But we have the testimony of one of the most famous American newspapermen that the papers are not nearly so sensational as the public. This newspaperman, Chester S. Lord, for 41 years with the New York Sun, has this to say, in an interview in Editor and Publisher:

"Did you ever think how much good the newspapers do in denying exaggerated reports spread by the people and in telling the exact truth about them? What reporter approaching the scene of a great calamity has not been met by an avalanche of exaggerations as to its extent? Two trains have been in collision and a hundred persons are killed, cry the people as they wring their hands. Yet when the careful, painstaking investigator comes to count the corpses and write down their names and addresses he finds that four persons are killed and six are wounded. He publishes the facts and the tension is relieved.

"On the evening of the great blizzard of 1888 I came across one of the young men of the Sun thawing out his feet in a bucket of water. 'What's happened to you?' I asked. 'Oh,' he answered, 'some fool started the story that three funeral processions had been snowed in in Greenwood, and since there are no cars running I've been all the way there and back on foot.' And the next morning this man had printed in the paper, at the cost of seven hours' work and two frozen feet, a paragraph that read something like this: 'The rumor that several funeral processions had been snowed in in Greenwood was found on investigation to be untrue.'

"There is a flurry in Wall street. Two banks fail and there is a run on two more. The people take up the cry, and rumor, faster than any telephone, starts up town with it. By the time the city hall is reached four banks have failed and six are in danger; at Fourteenth street ten banks have failed and the rest are tottering; by the time Twenty-third street is reached, all the banks have failed, there is a panic on the stock exchange, the Government has ceased to pay, the militia has been called out and red ruin stares everybody in the face.

"About that time along comes your favorite newspaper with the exact facts. Two banks have failed of dry rot and there was a run on two more. Nobody is ruined. Immediately a calm settles down over the people. Yet the newspapers are sensational. I repeat, it is the people who are sensational. Only stop the publication of every newspaper in New York and Brooklyn for three consecutive days and I grant you will have a wild-eyed, panic-stricken populace, panic-stricken over stories they themselves have started and which have gathered impetus with every repetition because there were no newspapers to deny them."

TELLTALE HANDS.

That was a queer touchstone of veracity that gave pause to the Supreme Court in reviewing instructions to a jury by Judge James A. Lowell, of Massachusetts, says the New York Herald Tribune. The judge said of the defendant: "He wiped his hands during the testimony. It is a rather curious thing, but that is almost always an indication of lying. Why it should be so we don't know; but that is the fact." Quite aside from judicial propriety, it was not a remark that would make sense to the average juror. He would say that if that sort of evidence counted, anybody would be liable to go to jail for some mannerism.

It is certainly an esoteric inference that a man who wipes his hands is a liar. For that matter, most deduction from personal bearing are treacherous. Take the most common of all. It is said that a man who "looks you straight in the eye" must be honest. Yet everybody knows that accomplished crooks frequently have that art to perfection. To judge by his frank gaze, many a rascal is bulging with probity and his life is an open book. On the other hand, the furtive, downcast approach may belong to a person as blameless as Caspar Milquetoast or Sir Galahad.

No Great Battle Has Been Won by a Committee of Twelve Generals

By Robert Quillen

MOST of the burdens and problems that vex us now are due to the ancient truth that too many cooks spoil the broth.

In time of crisis, the average earnest citizen yearns to take charge of things and save his country.

Since he can't do that, he rejoices when his befuddled representatives give all power and responsibility to one chosen leader. He knows, as though by instinct, that no organization or undertaking can be managed efficiently unless it has a single all-powerful boss.

A house divided against itself can not stand. And where authority is divided there is no progress except by compromise.

America did a good job in the war because there was nobody to question Wilson's authority. The allies doubled their effectiveness when they gave all authority to Foch. Now a troubled world, desperate and weary of inaction, surrenders its fate to dictators.

Practical men of good hard sense know full well that to multiply bosses is to multiply sorrow.

We laugh at the Russians because factory workers quit their machines to vote on every question of policy or procedure instead of taking orders from a foreman.

But our own system is little better. Every citizen in the land has from five to nine distinct and separate boards or officials to tax him and regulate his conduct.

He travels fastest who travels alone. The Fords and Morgans and Rockefellers are men who acted on their own judgment, unhindered by dissenting partners.

Could any business long survive if it had a dozen managers, each pursuing his independent way without regard for the others, and all possessed of equal authority to make rules and spend money?

That is the system of government we treasure, in the fond belief that it preserves our liberties; but it gives us little freedom and less protection, and the cost of it mounts with every year that comes.

If we know a better way, why are we so reluctant to adopt it?

There are successful city managers; why not State managers?

If free men can delegate authority to many representatives, would they be less free if they gave all authority to one representative?

When one man has all the power, he also has all the responsibility.

If one big motor can do all the work, why complicate matters by hooking up 400 little ones?

No Bread Profiteering.
Minneapolis Journal.

In New York City, Commissioner Ryan, of the Department of Markets, turned loose 65 inspectors, who in two days entered 3,000 bake shops. They found no instance where bread was being sold at a price above that warranted by higher cost of flour and other ingredients. This was substantially the experience in other centers.

The public price monitors have done a good job so far, but it is a case where the old saying that eternal vigilance is the price of safety, applies with special force.

THE "MURDER" OF MUSIC.

With the desire of composers, authors and publishers to receive adequate remuneration for their works when performed on the air, on phonograph records and in talking pictures, few fair-minded persons will quarrel, says the Brooklyn Eagle. Mr. Gene Buck has placed their claims before the public and before Congress with characteristic vigor and logic. Now comes his organization with a pamphlet in which the era of mechanization is indicted as "the murderer of music." Constant radio mechanical repetition, it is claimed, shortens the life of a popular song. The radio in particular is charged with cutting down sales of sheet music and phonograph records, from which composers in the past derived substantial income.

That the radio and phonograph, used for broadcasting or reproduction of good music, have raised the standards of popular taste, or at least made the public familiar with what is best in music, will not be denied. Yet even Beethoven and Brahms become banal with constant iteration. Too much music is as bad as too little.

STUDY OF A LITTLE LAMB.

Have you noticed how a stock market flop throws the speculator's attitude toward the New Deal into reverse? Let the market roar upward and he claps hands for President Roosevelt's flawless pitching. Let it go into a backspin and his cry is "Take 'im out!"

* * * *

The speculator always thinks the country is being properly run when a few hundred thousand popeyed individuals are making a nonstop flight over Wall Street, using paper bags for balloons.

* * * *

He thinks prosperity is being restored only when the stock market is staging a madhouse tableau entitled "Fooled Again." Nothing saps his faith in a recovery program more than a return to reason.

* * * *

Witness the opinions of Lucius P. Tweeklewich, typical stock market lamb, before and after the recent crash:

BEFORE.

"I'm telling you, boys, the market hasn't even begun to discount the prosperity ahead of this country. . . . This winter will see prices double what they are right now.

* * * *

"Don't tell me prices are high just because they're up 40 or 50 points. . . . Look where they were at their lows. . . . There was no sense in such prices and it ain't fair to compare today's prices with those. . . . President Roosevelt is the greatest President this country has had since Lincoln!

* * * *

AFTER A 10-POINT DROP.

"Washington oughta do sumpin. . . . With stocks breaking like this it's a sign of weakness when the administration don't act. . . . Roosevelt should drop everything and issue a public statement.

* * * *

AFTER ANOTHER 5-POINT FALL.

"The whole trouble is that the President won't say anything. . . . He should make a statement at once before the whole country gets discouraged and gets another depression.

* * * *

THEY DROP 3 POINTS MORE.

"The New Deal is a flop. . . . It's government by college professors. . . . What did this man Roosevelt ever do? . . . We want Hoover!"

SENATORIAL VIEWPOINT.

It's sweet to see stocks soar each day
And pocketbooks get fatter—
But when they go the other way,
Why, that's another matter.

In manner bold and raw, sir,
It's grand, but when they hit the skids
There onghta to be a law, sir!

How a Midsummer Evening View of the White House Impressed a Visitor.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: On this midsummer evening as I viewed the White House in all of its artistic beauty, I thought of it not as the home of the President, but as the home of all of the Presidents. And what a lovely home!

The hand of God and the hand of the artist have worked in perfect harmony to make the place ideal. No doubt the beautiful, peaceful surroundings have helped each succeeding President bear the burdens of office. They have tended to soothe each troubled soul and give each a glimpse of God. As I looked for a very long time at the building with its stately columns, at the trees, the flowers and all of the charms of the place, I pictured the master of the home—a composite of all of the Presidents. And here in my mind's eye I saw an American, stanch and upstanding, faithful to his trust.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

Debt to an Unknown Lady.

I do not know the lady's name,
Or was she maid or wedded wife.
I only know she lightly came Across my little path of life
And smiled and vanished then and there,
And I remember she was fair.

'Twas no flirtation! I was sick
And thinking thoughts of business gloom;
My clouds of doubt were growing thick.
I had forgot that roses bloom
And was a prey to sullen wrath
When youth and beauty crossed my path.

I think she smiled! I couldn't swear,
Of course, to such a startling truth.
I only know that then and there
I caught a glimpse of rosy youth
And fancied as she disappeared
My little patch of sky had cleared.

I do not know the lady's name,
Nor shall it ever hence be learned.
I only know that as she came Across my way my thoughts were turned,
And head up on my way I strode,
Discovering blossoms by the road.

The Federal Diary

By George D. Riley.

"WHY not add 30-year retirement to the Federal Diary Code for Federal Employes?" suggests a correspondent.

This suggests a matter we've had in the back of our mind a week.

Shortly before Congress reassembles we intend to find the man or woman on the Hill who seems to have the interest of Government employes most at heart. We intend to put deeds where our preachments have been. We intend to present the draft of a bill to the lawmaker for his or her inspection having to do with reform legislation for those in United States service.

The recently promulgated code will be among the points suggested, along with others.

Meantime, we welcome any other suggestions to complete the program.

Please Pass the Prize.

"GEORGE RILEY asks a question. (Oh, gosh, but that's a change, for he's the boy who knows it all, we find this line is strange. For he's high up in Wee-Wit Frat, where finding fault stands high. Because that fine accomplishment with most poor deeds gets by.)

"Now George is asking, 'Who is "they"' And I'm just wondering why. He needs the press to boom his quiz with 'capables' so nigh There's all those clever 'let-outs' now idly standing 'round! He's made it plain the 'get-ins' with brains do not abound. Still, George has one idea entitled 'Hog the Jobs'—poor boy. He's never been around, don't know the other gobs are really folks like him and me and that for every one this Nation's gift is work and wealth and honest wholesome fun.

"Thanks for the prize. Use it to find a Democrat with brains."

This sounds like something from a satisfied appointee, anonymous though it be. But here's to you:

To you who dote on wholesome fun
We'd make a point—just one;
"To these here parts you've lately come,
Into your lap is dumped some plum."

Maybe he is old man "They" himself.

Encores and Echoes.

THE first salt water fishing rodeo, sponsored by The Post, deserves an encore, according to the 168 disciples of Izaak Walton who represented most branches of the Federal Government at Washington, and who took an overnight vacation on Saturday from the city. They journeyed to the Eastern Shore of Maryland to match their skill as fishermen at Tilghman Island, Chesapeake Bay.

As early as 2 p. m. Saturday—one hour before scheduled leaving time—the rod and reel devotees began to assemble at the W., B. & A. terminal for the journey. The planned arrangements moved forward without a hitch—with clocklike precision—only being halted as the news photographer of other local papers bid for a delayed movement of the special train to get a snapshot of the fishermen. Nature gave sunshine as a bounty—just the right kind of fishing weather. Age showed no discrimination in the enthusiastic party. Young men mingled readily with their elders in the fellowship conclave.

Some moments past 3 p. m. the moterman of the five-car train ended by the palatial chair car, "Century," was given the signal to leave. In cautious fashion the electric monarchs of the rails began their movement for the miles ahead. Several officials of the W., B. & A. were on hand and they deserve special mention for the efficient manner in which every detail of transportation was handled—initially and finally.

Diary Guest Tickets

IF your name in this column is followed by (*), or if your contribution appears, call on the Federal Diary Editor day of publication, except Sunday, between 4:30 and 5:15 p. m., and receive tickets to Loew's Fox, "Disgraced" (Helen Twelvetrees and Bruce Cabot) or Loew's Palace, "Mama Loves Papa" (Charles Ruggles and Mary Boland).

ONE of the boys in Coast and Geodetic Survey had just returned from the Federal Diary Salt Water Rodeo. It was 2:30 p. m., just long enough for a few winks before he called to see his sister, ill. He slept.

At 6 o'clock he awoke. Great scot! He'd slept two hours longer than he had planned. Business of hustling around. Now and then he glanced out the window. Things were mighty quiet. Where was everybody?

Most everybody was still in bed. It was 6 o'clock the next morning!

Navigation, Navy:

Miss Betty M. Ott has returned from a week at Kenwood Beach. Says she picked a bad week and spent most of the time in the sun trying to keep warm.

William A. Langley has returned to duty after an illness of over three weeks.

Orville E. Wildes, who hails from Warren, Wis., and who attends George Washington University after office hours, is starting in a few days for his annual summer visit to the home folks.

Miss Mildred E. Newland is spending a week at Atlantic City.

Henry Bugbee, who has been roaming around Maine for several weeks is back at his desk and the subject of pensions.

Strange as it seems—an employe dropped under the well-known marriage clause recently expressed her appreciation for having been placed on the list. Says home is going to be a place to enjoy with more time to look after it.

The juveniles moved along, looking here and looking there.

The failed to see an attendant.

They reached in and helped themselves to large portions of turtles.

They were in the bag! You've heard that before, too.

An "A-hum!" from the attendant.

An "Oh!" from the "lifters."

The turtles were dropped, bag and baggage. The "lifters" scooted.

At Commerce:

A real Southern gentleman is Walter Burns, Duplicating Section, NIRA. You'll know it when you hear him talk.

Some go forth and bring back fish. Some go first and come back a poor second. It was like that with the all-night party that John MacDonald and Bennie Morris, F. and D. C., planned Wednesday, only John says the party was called off. The Federal Diary Eyes and Ears Department learns the party proceeded but failed to get a nibble.

Marjorie Erwin, Catherine Smith and Glenda Gover, NIRA newcomers, pound the keys while others sleep. That's no pun. Others sleep at night.

H. P. MacGowan, until recently in charge of the Bogota, Colombia, office for six months, is back here. After training in the tropics many years, he still has difficulty getting used to United States weather.

"That's great country up there," said Dr. Theodore Henckles, chief translation unit, recently back from ten days in the Adirondacks and New England. We didn't learn if the doctor walked there and back. Incidentally, Dr. Henckles is not only the chief of translation now, he is the unit.

N. I. R. A. is getting the breaks these days, what with addition of the quite capable and attractive Miss Ina Mann, recently on the Hill.

Ten Regional Aids to Act on Public Works

Secretary Ickes Announces List of Advisers and Their Territory.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt yesterday appointed the 10 men who will advise his public works administration on the expenditure throughout the 48 States of Federal money to give employment.

Each of the 10 will serve as direct representative of the public works administration in a region consisting of several States. The next step in building the decentralized organization will be the election of State boards to make recommendation on projects to the regional administrators.

Secretary Ickes, the public works administrator, made public the President's selections after a meeting of the White House executive council. In doing so, Ickes called upon various local governments seeking aid from the public works administration "to present only projects qualified under the announced policies of the administration."

"These non-Federal projects are to be presented to the State advisory boards, the personnel of which will be made public shortly," Ickes said.

Duties of Advisers.

"Functions of the regional advisers will consist of obtaining from the State boards within the region lists of projects under consideration by them together with recommendations or rejections.

"The regional advisers will keep the national planning board in Washington advised of developments and accumulate, collate and submit to the Washington Planning Board all available information useful to it."

Here are the administrators for the ten regions:

George L. Radcliffe, of Baltimore, lawyer, banker and former Maryland Secretary of State, will maintain headquarters at Richmond and act for Tennessee, Kentucky, West Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and North Carolina.

Ralph L. Cooper, of Belfast, Me., business man and former member of the State Legislature, will act for Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut with headquarters at Boston.

Edward J. Flynn, Secretary of State of New York, will have New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey with headquarters in New York City.

Daniel J. Tobin, of Indianapolis, labor leader, from offices in Chicago will act for Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio and Wisconsin.

Acts for Far West.

Frank Murphy, of Wheaton, Minn., president of the Minnesota State Bar Association, will act for North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Minnesota, Iowa and Wyoming with headquarters at Omaha.

N. Marshall Dana, editor of the Portland Journal from offices in Portland will represent the administration in Montana, Idaho, Washington and Oregon.

Justus S. Wardell, of San Francisco, publisher of the Daily Journal of Commerce, will act for California, Nevada, Utah and Arizona with headquarters at San Francisco.

Clifford Jones, of Spur, Tex., former president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will be the representative at Fort Worth for Texas, Louisiana and New Mexico.

Vincent M. Miles, of Fort Smith, Ark., lawyer, will maintain offices at Kansas City, for Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas.

Monroe Johnson, Marion, S. C., business man, will act for Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and Florida, with offices at Atlanta.

Texan Confesses Slaying Marshal

Officers Believed 3 Others of Outlaw Group Have Escaped.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 25 (AP).—A confession by Marvin Barrow, wounded Texas outlaw, that he killed an Alma, Ark., marshal several weeks ago, was given officers today as search for three members of the gang he headed with his brother, Clyde, was virtually abandoned.

Officers said they were convinced that Clyde Barrow, a man known as Jack Sherman and a woman had eluded them.

Marvin Barrow, in a Perry, Iowa, hospital, where physicians said he could not live, told Sheriff F. Maxey, of Fort Smith, Ark., and a deputy, he shot the Alma officer, H. D. Humphrey, and advised the deputy "you were lucky you got out of my way."

Marvin was captured in a wooded tract near Dexter after a machine-gun battle in which he was wounded.

President Talks on Radio Amid Astonishing Scenes

Remains Patient and Unperturbed Despite Heat, Lights and Machines.

By Robert D. Heinl.

The average listener doubtless pictured President Roosevelt alone in his cool, comfortable study late last night, quietly reading into the microphone his message broadcast to the governors in California. Instead, the President was the central figure of a tense drama enacted in the oppressively hot little diplomatic reception room on the basement floor of the White House.

President Roosevelt was seated at his specially constructed broadcasting desk. It had large holes bored through the top to accommodate wires to the microphones. There were four of these "mikes," two for the National Broadcasting Co., and one for Columbia, and one for the sound pictures. They were built very low in order not to hide the face of the President in the picture-taking.

As radio has developed, the number and size of microphones has been so enlarged that at times it is almost impossible to see the face of a speaker. The dwarf microphones of the President do not have on them the initials of the broadcasting systems, news photographers having objected to their receiving so much free publicity.

Standing at either side of the broadcasting desk was Carleton Smith, N. B. C. announcer, and Bob Trout, of Columbia, each having a microphone on a stand in front of him. Aimed at the President were four huge sound picture cameras heavily blanketed with portions of old quilts to suppress the noise. Formerly the sound picture men had tried out the experiment of photographing the President from glass-inclosed booths, but the old quilts proved more effective in keeping down the noise.

Also pointed in the President's direction were about five cameras for still pictures. The room was cluttered with all sorts of portable electrical apparatus and the floor was strewn with electric cables leading to the President's desk.

Lining the room facing the President and watching his every move, or standing at their machines, were at least 20 to 25 radio engineers and sound and still photographers.

The broadcast last night was far simpler because of its brevity, but in his address Monday night appealing for support of the National Recovery Program, the President literally had a bath of fire.

The temperature in the room must have been 90. After M. H. McIntyre, presidential secretary, had satisfied himself that everything was O. K., President Roosevelt seated himself at his broadcasting desk a short time before the networks were connected.

Although those present talked among themselves, the air was surcharged with an indescribable something. At a signal, announcers began talking in a tone so low that those in the room a few feet away could hardly hear them.

Then the President began, as vigorous speaking over the radio as he is in personal conversation. Nevertheless, reading his address so calmly that at one stage of the broadcast, while continuing to talk, he reached over and very carefully extinguished a portion of his cigarette in the ash-tray.

He went along in such a matter-of-fact way that those present were really startled when he said, in an abrupt manner, "Where's that glass of water?" Earlier, Ike Hoover, White House major domo, had placed a glass of water on the President's desk. The President then relieved the radio people by exclaiming to the audience, "My friends, it's very hot here in Washington tonight."

One of the first things President Roosevelt asked Harry Butcher, Washington representative of Columbia, after the broadcast, was, "Was it all right for me to have said that about the glass of water?"

A small group, including Alfred J. McCosker, president of the National Association of Broadcasters, and Dr. Leon Levy, of Philadelphia, vice president of Columbia, attended the broadcast. Easily the most interested spectator was Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, retired, administrator of the national recovery act, who was present with Mrs. Johnson.

"After a broadcast," remarked Ted Church, of Columbia, "the President's first question of the engineers is, 'How did it go out?'"

With the signing off of the broadcast, the President's troubles were really only beginning, for then a battery of Klieg lights were turned on and the taking of the sound pictures began, and he had to do his performance all over again.

The President had such a healthy tan that in the glare of the lights he was as handsome as a moving-picture actor who had been made up especially for the occasion.

In the speech for the sound cameras, there were frequent stops, due to the changing of films, and he showed the utmost patience. At one stage of the game he was reading his address when suddenly a movie man shouted "Cut," meaning for the President to stop as something had happened to one of the machines. Whereupon Mr. Roosevelt looked up surprised and laughingly asked, "Who's dead?"

Senator Coolidge gave his daughter in marriage and for her wedding gown she had selected an 1830 model of ivory moire fashioned with a long train. A tiny cap of plaited tulle with clusters of orange blossoms held the voluminous tulle veil, and she carried an old-fashioned nosegay of gardenias.

Mrs. Donald Fall Carpenter and Mrs. Robert Earl Greenwood, sisters of the bride, were matrons of honor. They wore gowns of ivory tulle fashioned on princess lines, and large matching hats trimmed with bows of soft blue velvet. Their bouquets were of varicolored summer flowers. Following the marriage a reception was held at the Oak Hill Country Club, where Madonna lilies and deep evergreens made an effective background for the receiving party. Mrs. Coolidge and Miss Lida Woodring, sister of the bridegroom, assisted in receiving the guests. Mrs. Coolidge wore a gown of platinum gray, with a wide-brimmed hat of brown, and Miss Woodring was in a pale pink chiffon gown with a large pink hat. The two other sisters of Mr. Woodring, Mrs. A. B. Schaffer and Mrs. J. J. Carroll, were present, the former wearing a gown of white lace with a large hat of peach-colored straw, and the other in a white crepe suit trimmed with white fox, and a white hat.

Culbertson's Bridge

Tactics Against the Takeout Double.

MANY players at the Bridge table, after partner has made an Opening bid and an opponent has doubled for a Takeout, are strongly inclined to remain quiet for one round of bidding, hoping, often against hope, that the opponents will get into difficulties. Sometimes a course such as this is justified and sometimes it is necessary, as the responding hand, after a sound Opening bid followed by a sound Takeout Double, often is too weak to safely follow any other course. In other cases, however, passing after a Double can do nothing but harm. For instance, good bidding tactics require that if partner has opened the bidding with a suit that can be supported, a Jump Raise should be made in order that the road for the opponents may be made difficult. It is equally true that if the hand contains a Takeout that would be made if there were no Takeout Double, then the Takeout should be made after the Double unless the balance of the hand suggests the strong probability that any response made to the Takeout Double by the Doubler's partner will result in severe penalties for the doubling side.

On the following hand failure to act aggressively after a Takeout Double brought disaster to one pair in a recent team-of-four match in which the contestants were among the world's best players.

North, Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ A K 9 ♡ A 10 9 6 5 ◇ K 8 ♣ 10 7 4
♠ 4 ♡ J 8 3 ◇ 10 7 6 4 2 ♣ 9 5 3 2	N W E S	♠ 8 7 5 3 ♡ K Q ◇ A J 9 5 3 ♣ A J
	♠ Q J 10 6 3 ♡ 7 4 2 ◇ Q ♣ K Q 8 6

In one room the bidding proceeded as follows.

(Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
1♡	Pass (1)	1♠	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
Pass	Dbl. (2)	Redbl.	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—East's hand appears too strong for such a pass in view of the fact that neither side is vulnerable.

2—This is not a sound Double for penalties. Partner has been silent throughout and there is no assurance that East can take more than three tricks.

In the play West made the extremely bad lead of the heart Knave. East, when he got the lead, was unwilling to lead diamonds, as he felt that this would establish the King in the Dummy. As a result, South made not only his contract, but an overtrick as well.

In the other room the bidding followed a no less remarkable course. It was as follows:

(Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
1♡	Dbl.	Pass (1)	2◇ (2)
Pass (3)	2NT (4)	Pass	3◇ (5)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—South should bid one spade at this point. His hand contains 1½ honor-tricks and a fair five-card suit. Of course, his reason for passing is that he hopes that West will respond with spades, but this is not a sufficient justification for his action.

2—West makes the obvious response.

3—Although North has a fairly strong hand, in view of the Takeout Double and South's passive course there is nothing further that he can well say. His heart suit is not rebiddable and a bid of two no-trump, in view of the bidding, would be foolhardy.

4—East elects to take a chance on finding some kind of a spade stopper in his partner's hand. He thinks he may be able to make two no-trump and hopes that his partner is strong enough to bid for game.

5—West, of course, signs off.

East and West made four diamonds in actual play, the heart in the Declarer's hand being established for a discard before the club Ace was driven out of the Dummy.

The swing on this hand was over 1,000 points and contributed materially to the victory of the players seated North and South in Room 1 and those seated East and West in Room 2.

Tomorrow's Hand.

If East, as Dealer, passes the hand below, what should South do and why?

East, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

	♠ K J 2 ♡ A 6 2 ◇ 8 5 4 3 ♣ K J 9
♠ A 5 ♡ J 9 7 3 ◇ J 7 2 ♣ 8 6 4 2	N W E S	♠ 10 7 4 3 ♡ 8 5 4 ◇ A Q 10 9 ♣ A 5
	♠ Q 9 8 6 ♡ K Q 10 ◇ K 6 ♣ Q 10 7 3

The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Pretzel Trays, Cigarette Cases and Red Clay Pottery Attract Eye of Shopper

Bakery Shop Prepares Ham In New Style

Animal Forms on Cocktail Glasses Help Guests Tell Them Apart.

By The Meanderer.

Spike is a hard, bright fellow. He's addicted to beer parties, but behaves with utmost decorum even there. In fact, he's of invaluable assistance. He bears the pretzel responsibility on his own head, two dozen at once, if you please. His sense of balance is perfect. He stands on one foot, the other raised high in the air, and never changes his pose. He's sure to amuse your guests with his brass brightness and peculiarly stenciled figure. The King of Pretzel men, alias, Spike, is up for sale. $1. Brass beer mugs matching Spike sell for 60 cents a piece.

There are bargains and bargains, but the Meanderer found a bargain (accent on the "a"). She walked down the aisle of the store glancing rapidly over the merchandise on the counters. Suddenly she stopped. "Cigarette cases, 65 cents," a sign read. She looked at them closely. They were brocade, over a leather frame, roomy enough for a pack. Their flexibility adapted them to a large or small bag, and their variety of color to any costume. They're pretty and handy, for afternoon or evening.

Red Clay Pottery.

Those old red hills in the southeastern part of the United States are famous among tourists who have tried to scale their heights in rainy weather. Going down, or coming up, they offer the same slick surface. At such a time their red beauty has little appeal. Now, however, this clay is being made into pottery. The teapots, bowls and pitchers which were clay a year ago, bask in their red glory on your tea table now.

The Meanderer entered a Fourteenth street bakery. A delicious aroma permeating the air called forth the pangs of hunger. "Whatever it is," she said to the waitress, "please, may I have some?"

It was baked Virginia ham prepared in the following fashion: First boil the ham. When it is well done, cover with brown sugar, and soak in molasses. Garnish with cloves, and then bake.

These specially prepared hams, 5-pound size, may be bought for 89 cents.

Milady stood on the threshold of her bathroom and gazed with pleasure at the mirrowed walls. They reflected the shiny blackness of a spacious tub and its bright silver trimmings. As she gazed at the dancing lights in the mirrors a mist came before her eyes. She saw the vision of a little girl in a gingham dress seated high in an old magnolia tree. This little girl was dreaming of the future, painting pictures in her mind of the home she would some day have. The mist faded. Milady smiled and sighed as she looked about her. Here was all the glitter, all the richness, all the artistic contrast she had visualized. Here were dreams come true. An F Street store will do as much for you, at a lower figure than you'd imagine.

Felts Grow Fuzzy.

Along with many of the new dress and coat materials, felts have gone fuzzy, too. If you are planning for a dress or coat or suit of hairy woolen, one of these new hairy felts is the perfect complement. Some have white hairs on dark grounds and are particularly harmonious with some of the new slivertone fabrics.

No Dishwashing or Worry; Farm Women Rest at Camp

Pools encircled by dark forests . . . singing in the evening . . . and no work. No wonder Ohio farm women flock to the camp.

500 to Take Vacation Offered by Ohio State U. Service.

(Columbus, Ohio, July 25 (AP).—Somebody else does the cooking—somebody else does the dishwashing—no "men folks" around—the children left at home—

Ohio farm women think that kind of vacation is ideal. This year more than 500 of them will join in the ninth annual camps sponsored by the agricultural extension service of Ohio State University, home economics department.

Twelve camps are scattered throughout the tSate. For three-day periods the farm wives shuck their worries, responsibilities and routine and revel in nature study, campfire singing, talking—and just "sittin' down and restin'."

The camps are planned for leisure. Nothing is compulsory. The women may stay in bed as long as they like. They rest after meals. They wander along nature trails. They gather in groups and one of them reads to the others—and not since they were children at their mothers' knees have some of them enjoyed that.

The women swim, too—or wade. In the evening vesper services are conducted, and there are discussion groups which often turn to a study of parent and child relationships.

Interest in music and other arts is fostered. Early Ohio crafts are touched upon, and many a woman has returned to her home with a new idea of the value of her antique glassware and furniture. Vistas not touched in the ordinary farm routine are opened and expanded.

The average age of women attending the camp is around 45 years, but last year in one camp were three over 65 and five under 25.

The camp movement has grown each year. Last year the department feared attendance would drop because of low farm prices, but instead it increased.

Rodeo Sweetheart Would Run Ranch

Beauty Parlor Operator Would Drop Curling for Branding Iron.

Exeter, Calif. (U.P.).—From curling iron to branding iron will sum up the history of Miss Peggy Daniel, of Exeter, "sweetheart" of the 1933 rodeo at Visalia, Calif., if Peggy fulfills her ambitions.

Miss Daniel, operator of a beauty parlor at Exeter, has ambitions to operate a cattle ranch, she said recently. Naturally, there will be a cowboy, if she can find the right one. He must be, she insists, a real Westerner, a real cowboy, blue-eyed and darkhaired.

Miss Daniel frowns on "petting," because she believes it is not part of "the real Western code." She prefers horseback riding, football or ping-pong, she says.

Miss Dannel breaks her own horses.

Plush Revived.

Plush, favorite of family album days, is in fall fashion's album. In its modern version it has a long and sometimes even shaggy pile. It is used for small turban type hats, and when on has some small resemblance to wind-blown hair.

What Today Means

"LEO."

IF July 26 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 3 p. m. to 5:15 p. m. and from 7:30 p. m. to 8:20 p. m. The danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 7:55 a. m., from 10:35 a. m. to 11:55 a. m. and from 9:10 p. m. to 10:15 p. m.

Take care on this day, lest something of no importance which you say be misconstrued and result in serious damage or inconvenience to you. This may occur either in business or social intercourse. It is possible that you will unexpectedly have to disburse a fairly large sum of money on this date.

The child born on this July 26 will not take kindly to the advances of strangers. He will be slow to make friends with people, even when these people are fully accepted by his parents. A good judge of character, and one who will not be easily taken in. He will "go the limit" for a friend. Quick to anger.

If July 26 is the date of your birth, you are not one to allow yourself to be tossed back and forth on the sea of life. You have a good hold on yourself, you know how to gauge your abilities and you always start out with the idea in mind of being master of any and every situation. You are a thinking person and your thought travels along constructive lines. You like to see things grow and build up and if you can devote your time and energies to creating some plan or scheme and putting it across successfully you will have many happy motives. It is possible that you may have coupled with your generally fine qualities a tendency to enjoy putting something over on unsuspecting people or groups of people. Should this manifest itself, you must curb this failing lest it cause you difficulty in business.

Born on July 26, you can mingle with any and all kinds and classes of people and get along without trouble of any sort. You have the ability to rise to the level of the highest, and yet to mingle with the lowest, without actually becoming one of them. People look to you for good, and expect good from you; listen to this appeal and seek to develop yourself spiritually as well as along material lines. In your contacts with those of the other sex, you are inclined to be emotional and not as stable as you might be. You are an affectionate and understanding parent.

Successful People Born on July 26:

George B, Cortelyou, well-known politician.
William R. Harper, hebraist and educator.
Isaac Babbitt, inventor.
Julian M. Sturtevant, educator.
William J. Florence, actor.

Squash Found Adaptable to Various Uses

'Stuffed and Baked' Recipe Given to Illustrate Summer Dishes.

Among the midsummer and late summer vegetables that are now making their appearance on the market none is more adaptable to a variety of ways of preparation or cheaper in price than summer squash. Like other vegetables of its kind it can be used either as a side dish with the main course as the entree itself when prepared with meat or as a dessert as in squash pie.

Many housewives have a tendency to forget the tenderness and flavor of summer squash. Others forget that it can be seasoned and used in much the same way as pumpkin. It has more nutritional qualities than many vegetables and certainly it provides a change from the other summer favorites, new potatoes, green beans and beets.

One of the best of the new recipes is baked stuffed squash which can make your main luncheon dish or provide the entree at dinner with a soup before hand and one or two other vegetables served with it. It contains just the right amount of meat for a summer meal and yet will give you no cause to worry about hot weather indigestion. The recipe, which is exceedingly simple follows:

Baked Stuffed Squash.

3 small or 1 large squash
Hot water
1 cup crumbled soda crackers
2 cups sausage meat

Cut squash in half, remove seeds and invert in a baking dish and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.) until tender. Pour water over crackers and add meat. Turn squash right side up. Fill with cracker-meat mixture. Return to hot oven (400 degrees F.) and bake until brown, about 20 minutes. Six portions.

Scalloped Squash.

Scalloped squash is also good with the main course and may be prepared this way:

3 cups squash
2 cups crumbled saltinas
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon paprika
1 cup thin cream

Arrange alternate layers of squash and crumbled crackers, seasoning and cream in a baking dish. Sprinkle with crackers and bake covered in a hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 30 minutes. Uncover and brown. Six portions.

Girl Finds Way to Save Pilot by Lights on Darkened Field.

Baton Rouge, La. (U.P.).—Miss Addie Lee Rogillo, young student flier at the airport here, holds the esteem of seasoned pilots.

Recently, hearing an airplane circling after dark, she sensed the pilot wanted to land, but could not do so because the field was not lighted.

Miss Rogillo drove to the airport. Arriving there she stopped passing motorists and asked them to turn their cars so the lights would shine across the field.

Then she climbed through the window of the airport office and turned on the airport lights.

Capt. W. J. Ryan, head of the marine department of the Standard Oil refinery here and plane pilot, landed. He was returning from a trip East, and had notified airport officials he would arrive late.

5-Day Marriage Law Attacked in Cleveland

Cleveland (U.P.).—Ohio's 5-day marriage law in checking the divorce rate, especially in Cleveland, meets with a sharp divergence of opinion between two Cleveland Domestic Relations Court judges.

Judge Samuel H. Silbert declared the law, which requires couples to wait five days before obtaining a marriage license, has developed a tendency to increase the percentage of happy marriages, but Judge Frederick P. Walther said that after two years of enforcement, the law has not checked the divorce rate.

Marriages in Iowa fell off more in 1932 than in any other State, decreasing 43.5 per cent.

Self-Analysis Often Will Halt Child's Illness

Struggles Raging Inside Can Be Calmed by Harmonization.

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

One winter a small boy of my acquaintance kept developing symptoms of some acute illness with pronounced regularity. Every three or four weeks the doctor would have to be called in to attend him, since he had a very sore throat and a high fever and was obviously sick from something. The symptoms were always the same.

Two days later the young man would be back at school as well as ever. Doctor and mother were equally nonplussed, and at last ceased to worry over the attacks. But there was still the question of the number of days missed from school.

Finally his father called him in one day and put a question: "Tom, what is it that you don't like to do at school?"

Tom looked surprised and thought a while. "Do you think that I am having those sore throats because I want to miss school?"

"Yes," said his father, "I do. Not on purpose, of course. I know that they are real and that the temperature and headaches are, too. But way down inside you I believe that there is a fight going on that upsets you every so often, and that if we can find out what it is, you will be all right."

Tom thought again. "Well," he said, "I don't like track. Do you think it could be that?"

Whether it actually was track or not, after Tom had looked at the situation squarely the symptoms stopped.

He was not malingering, but was genuinely ill as a result of poisons released in his system by the struggle raging inside him. How he made his own inner harmonization I do not know, and I very much doubt if he knows himself. Possibly the same hidden forces that made the conflict made the peace after the cause was uncovered.

Boy Scouts Manual To Be Done in Braille

(United Press.)

Mrs. Norman B. Morrell, Knoxville, Tenn., Red Cross worker who is famous for the many Braille system books she has prepared, has announced that her next project will be making a Boy Scout manual in the blind reading system, it was learned at Red Cross headquarters here.

Mrs. Morrell started her work with Braille books several years ago when she lost her own sight. Among the books she supervised since that time have been all types, from text books to Carl Akeley's "Africa."

Permanent Wave Is Camping Asset

Choice of Many Kinds Is Available to Withstand Rigors of Outdoors.

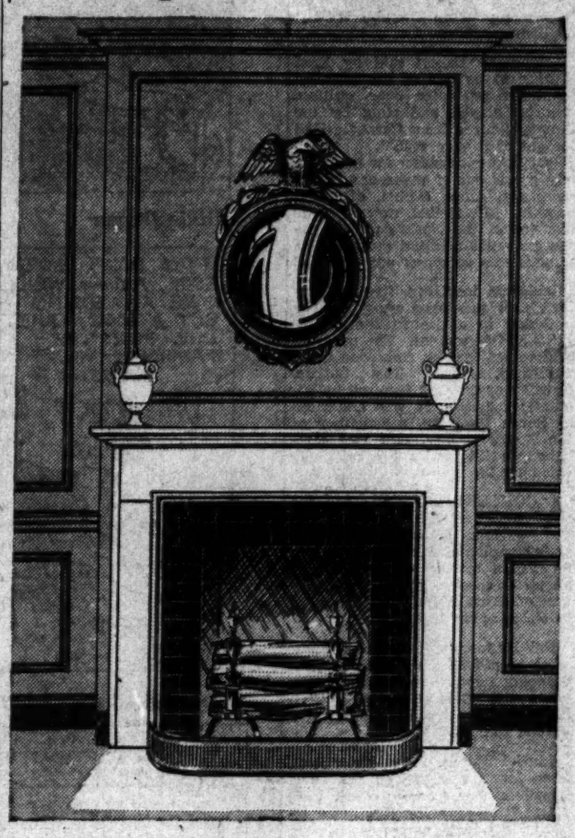
Are you camping out on your vacation? Many a city bred girl has felt a sudden longing for the great out-of-doors after seeing the new camping outfits on display this season. That smartly casual look so many regular campers have doesn't just happen. It's invariably the result of experience plus careful planning.

The simpler the clothes you take with you, the better they will withstand the rough usage of camp life. Sturdy outer garments and underwear that can be washed in a brook, hung on a tree to dry, and worn without ironing, will keep you comfortable and trim in camp.

When you are away from your favorite beauty shop and the beauty equipment in your own boudoir, you won't be able to do much primping. You'll be grateful for finger nails cut trimly short and for hair that stays in place without fussing. So if your permanent wave is beginning to "grow out" by all means get a new one before you start for camp. Perhaps only the ends need curling to prevent those stray wisps from straggling unbecomingly at the nape of your neck. Today you can have your choice of any number of permanent waves. There's even a new kind that requires no machinery or electric current.

What's in Fashions?

Success of Fireplace Depends on Mantel



By Amos Parrish.

New York, July 25.—You've been in homes, no doubt, where the fireplace mantel has become the graveyard of all the odd bibelots and decorative objects which seem to have no other resting place. Not only is dusting such mantels a tedious job. Looking at them is quite as tiring.

The fireplace mantel is as much a part of a room's decorative scheme as is any piece of furniture. Anything placed on it should be in harmony with the feeling and intention of the whole room.

And of course the fireplace at the very start should be the right style for the style of house and furniture.

Simple, Adaptable.

One of the most fashionable fireplaces is also one of the simplest. And therefore one of the most adaptable to different types of rooms.

We've had it illustrated . . . with wood mantel which may be painted to match the room's woodwork while the facing and hearth are of prick, painted black or plain, or of black slate.

We show simple brass and irons and fender which are eighteenth century or late colonial in feeling. With the graceful urns as ornaments and the mirror above it will harmonize perfectly with Duncan Phyfe and eighteenth century English mahogany furniture.

For Other Periods.

But this same mantel with other ornaments will harmonize with other periods, too. If you have a Colonial room, for example, use over the mantel a maple framed mirror or a sampler. On the mantel, brass candlesticks, a pair of silhouettes and, in the center, a Chelsea figurine. In the fireplace, painted Hessian andirons or flat brass ones.

For a French provincial atmosphere, a painted tin tray could be substituted over the mantel . For ornaments a pair of pressed glass vases with a Quimper pottery bowl in the center would carry out the idea. Then you'd use simply iron and irons or a black iron hobgrate.

If you'd rather have a more formal Queen Anne setting the mirror could have a simple gilt frame. And a pair of Chinese porcelain vases and a porcelain bowl on a teakwood base would remind you that in Queen Anne's day trade was begun between England and China.

Brass andirons with round knob tops and a pierced brass fender would complete the formal look.

Of course there are many other types of fireplace mantels, each one requiring its own special treatment.

It will be the seventh summer program under the joint auspices of the Community Center Department and the Office of Public Buildings and Parks.

The program will include the fourth movement of Rimsky-Korsakow's "Scheherazade," the overture to "Tannhauser," Wotan's Farewell and Fire Charm music from "Die Walkure," Tschaikowsky's "Valse des Fleures," and Liszt's "Second Hungarian Rhapsody."

The Sextette from Donizetti's "Lucia" will be played by Musicians Peck, Manganaro, DeGeorgia, Walker, Edwards and Hurd, and a cornet solo, "Fantasy de Mandolita," by Bellstedt, will be given by Musician Birley Gardner. Compositions by Kreisler, Rachmaninoff, Von Blon, Orem, Jerome Kern and others, will complete the program. Plans are also being made to have a vocal soloist appear.

This will be the last festival program for July. In August, the programs will be given on Wednesday evenings, starting August 2, when Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado" will be sung by the Estelle Wentworth Opera group.

Other August events will be the International Festival, presented by the Americanization School Association, a concert by the Army Band, and a presentation of "H. M. S. Pinafore." Another event will be announced later.

Sister of Explorer Painting Bird Life

Kathleen Shackleton Out for Distinction in Far Different Field.

Quebec (U.P.).—Kathleen Shackleton, sister of Sir Ernest Shackleton, the late great Antarctic explorer, is conducting investigations of her own in the Gaspe Peninsular district of Quebec this summer. Unlike her famous brother, however, Miss Shackleton is exploring with little equipment other than paints and pencils, for she is doing a series of sketches for the Provincial Government and, incidentally, devoting considerable time to study of the Dominion bird sanctuary at Perce Rock and Bonaventure Island, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

More than 20,000 rare wild birds, including stormy petrels and murres, relatives of the extinct flightless great auks, inhabit the sanctuary.

The tender things you say,
I know the loveliness you bring

Summer Night

(All rights protected by the George Matthew Adams Service. Trade Mark Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

By Mary Brook Lucas

Cool breezes along the lake shore roof gardens call for evening wraps that are more than a ball of summer fluff. Judy wears a threee-quarter-length coat of the new lustrous ice-blue satin. Many rows of wide tucks trim the lower skirt of the pale-blue organdy frock. The shoulder ruffles are very flattering.

Many members of the younger set are going strong for daytime colors in evening dresses. Dotted swiss is the favored material used in this navy-blue frock with dainty white val lace trimming. The youthful sleeves, gored skirt (each gore outlined in lace) and square neck are lines for the debutante.

Throughout the crowd Judy notices the predominating number of heavy gleaming satin gowns. The most popular whites have a rather gray or perhaps orchid tinge. Navy-blue and black satins often feature a collar or bodice section of gold, silver or jet palliettes. These give an extremely regal appearance to the plainest of gowns.

Dark brown tie silk flecked with white enters the evening picture in this jacket costume. The looped shoulder line, short fitted jacket and long, tight sleeves are its best points. A practical type of evening dress for the travel wardrobe. It also comes in navy-blue with red markings.

Tomorrow—Picnic on the Lake Shore.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl.

RADIO music in the home is rated from 40 to 80 decibles, units of degrees of noise, in a noise thermometer which has been developed by Dr. E. E. Free, former editor of Scientific American, and former Washingtonian. The rating he gives radio music is only a trifle noisier than that of a typewriter in a small office.

According to Dr. Free a dog bark, average conversation and a vacuum cleaner register louder than radio music. A boiler factory, pneumatic riveter and thunder top the list. Turning the pages of a newspaper 25 to 30, while a cat purr is 25 decibles.

"Some apartment dwellers may wonder if the noise thermometer worked correctly on radio music," observes Orrin Dunlap, jr., radio commentator of New York, "which in some cases roars more like a lion out of open windows in the summer time.

"The lion's roar is 95 decibles, the same as the thunder of Niagara Falls."

Col. Raymond Robins comes into the picture again tonight, this time as a Russian expert. The colonel headed the American Red Cross mission in Russia during the revolution and has just returned from Russia after an extensive investigation of current conditions.

Col. Robins' first impression upon arriving in Russia this year was that "the Russians now wear their shirt-tails inside," but his tour revealed many other changes of a more important nature, which he will describe over the air.

His talk, "Russia After Fifteen Years," will be broadcast by the WEAF network at 8:15 p. m., but not WRC.

WILEY POST, around-the-world aviator, will be officially received in New York this morning (WJSV, 11 a. m.). Later Post will be the guest of the New York Advertising Club for luncheon (WRC and WJSV, 12:30 o'clock this afternoon).

J. Fred Essary, Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, will add his viewpoint to current news comments over WRC at 5:30 o'clock.

"Federal Employes' New Deal Night" will direct attention through Radio Joe, to the unstable conditions to which the Federal employes have been subjected due to the uncertainty of their jobs. (WMAL, 6:30 p. m.).

"Washington High Spots" will have another presentation over WRC at 8:15 o'clock tonight. The All-Star After Dinner Club, likewise a local offering, will hold forth over WJSV at 9:30 o'clock.

"One Man's Family" will be heard as usual over WRC at 8:30 o'clock tonight.

Hearing them played night after night what do you think are the six most popular songs? The six best sellers reported for the week are, (1) "Valley of the Moon," (2) "Sweetheart Darling," (3) "Stormy Weather," (4) "Isn't It Heavenly?" (5) "Hiawatha's Lullaby" and (6) "Lazy Bones."

The Goldman Band, under the direction of Edwin Franko Goldman, will be heard over WMAL at 8:30 this evening. The program follows: "March Militaire," by Schubert; "Overture Lenore, No. 3," by Beethoven; "Fugue in A Minor," by Bach; "Fantasie From Lohengrin," by Wagner; overture, "The Magic Flute," by Mozart; "Serenade," by Schubert; "Spring Song," by Mendelssohn; "minuet," from "Samson," Handel; "German Dances," by Beethoven; "Blue Danube Waltz," by Strauss.

"Kentucky Babe," said by Fred Waring to be one of the loveliest plantation melodies ever written, will be played and sung by the Pennsylvanians from Carnegie Hall tonight at 9 over WJSV.

Waring's enthusiasm for this melody grows out of reverence for its composer, Adam Geibel, of Philadelphia. Mr. Geibel, now 83 years old, one of the world's most striking examples of blind musicians, is famous as a composer and organist.

Incidents inspiring Stephen Foster's first published song will be unfolded in a dramatization over WRC at 7:30 tonight. The program will reveal that his first song to be published, "Open Thy Lattice, Love," was possibly inspired by romantic reasons. It was dedicated to Susan Pentland, a neighbor of the Foster family, and was published in 1844 when the composer was only 18.

A CONCERT devoted to the works of Gluck, the distinguished Bavarian composer and champion of German opera, will be played by the Columbia Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Howard Barlow, tonight at 10 o'clock over WJSV.

Pat Binford will summon memories of old Virginia with musical numbers popular in days gone by when the Corn Cob Pipe Club broadcasts its weekly meeting at 9 o'clock tonight.

Muriel Wilson, of the Show Boat, once found a snake on the stone hearth at her summer camp. She killed it by spraying it with an insecticide and it now reposes over the hearth—stuffed.

Nicholas Roosevelt, former U. S. Minister to Hungary, will discuss the relation of the London Economic Conference and eastern Europe during a talk over WMAL at 3:30 p. m. today.

New Yorker Day by Day

By Mark Barron.

New York—The psychopathic ward at Bellevue Hospital, of all places, is a favorite refuge of many wealthy celebrities who live such strenuous lives that they find it necessary occasionally to hide themselves away for a rest cure.

They prefer this public institution to a privte, expensive hospital, because at Bellevue you get most excellent care, but there is no pampering.

Realizing that they need rest and discipline more than anything else to rebuild their shattered nerves, they find that a public ward is much more effective and quicker than a luxurious, private room where one's every whim is catered to by the attendants.

Bellevue is a prolific scene of drama every hour of the day. It should be a rich source of material for dramatists and novelists.

Only the other night one of Broadway's most famous actresses was brought there. She had been found wandering late at night near the East River, unable to remember who she was or where she lived. A few days of care and rest at Bellevue, and she had been restored to health again.

Press Convention.

Broadway reporters gather just before dawn every night in a Seventh avenue restaurant for a session of bacon and eggs before they rush home to tumble into bed. They are as jealous of one another as any bevy of movies stars and barbed retorts fly back and forth like showers of poisoned darts.

"That's a great story I got this morning," one of them boasted. "And it's exclusive, too."

"No, it's not exclusive," cracked back one of his rivals. "But it's unique for you."

"Whaddya mean?" demanded the first.

"It's true," dead-panned his annoyer.

Around the Town.

Hiram Bloomingdale, department store magnate, is a landscape artist of note. He is also trying his hand at writing plays.

A phrase which pops up in the news columns frequently these days is "a former bosom friend of Jimmie Walker's." Like most men of wide popularity, New York's erstwhile mayor had scores of sunny day pals who deserted him when his political fortunes began to wane.

Charles MacArthur and Helen Hayes have purchased an estate upstate near the Hudson River.

Mary Garden may appear again in "Salome" at the Metropolitan Opera this fall. It was closed by the censors when she first sange the role there.

Forty-nine motion pictures are scheduled to be made around New York this season, which hints that screen studios may move some of their major units eastward again.

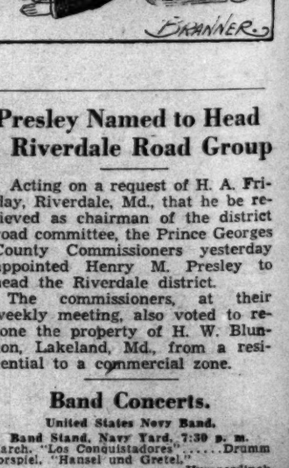
Baby Mine



Walt Mason, Himself

The Sequel.

AN author writes a noble book that holds [the world] in thrall; it's read by captain, king and cook, and praised by [everyone] and all. And when it has the public stirred for six months or a year, the publishers send out the word, "A sequel will appear." Then we look forward with delight, there is a treat in store; the author, who has learned to write, will soothe our souls once more. How patiently we wait and wait, until the book arrives; and then we look to have a fate will brighten up our lives. We take it to the beach, we look to have a gorgeous time; but soon we learn this sequel is but another crime. We find it wearisome and stale, no merit in the show; "The author ought to be in jail," we mutter, in our woe. It seems good sequels can't be done, they're always flat and lame, and authors would be wise to shun the limping sequel game. Great Dumas wrote his "Musketeers," a tale of warlike men; then let them ride for divers years, and took them up again. And when these heroes reappeared they'd lost their pristine charms, although adventure, vengeance and weird oft called the three to arms. If Dumas couldn't pull the trick, and make a sequel great, the common, garden type of hack his ardor should abate.

Grain Market Leaders Agree On Reforms

Restrictions on Speculation Pledged at Insistence of Administrators.

(Associated Press.)

Representatives of grain exchanges agreed yesterday on reforms in American grain marketing methods whereby speculation would be restricted and violent fluctuations in prices outlawed.

At the insistence of farm administrators, who threatened to step in unless prompt voluntary action was taken by the exchanges, the representatives agreed to recommend changes in the rules of trading, to go into effect within a short time.

These later would be incorporated in a code of operation to be submitted by the exchanges to Secretary Wallace.

Limits in Fluctuations.

One of the recommendations would limit the daily fluctuations in futures prices to 5 cents a bushel for wheat, rye and barley and to 4 cents on corn and 3 cents on oats.

The exchanges are expected by officials here to approve these limits soon. Then the present emergency rule, established at Wallace's demand, limiting trading in grain to prices above last Thursday's closing quotations will be removed. The exchanges also are operating under an emergency rule limiting fluctuations on wheat to 8 cents a bushel above the minimum, on corn to 5 cents and on oats to 3 cents

Agricultural officials said limiting the fluctuation limits as permanent policy will mark the most important change in several decades in methods of marketing the products of American grain farms.

Roosevelt Favors Plan.

This was insisted on by administrators, with the approval of President Roosevelt, in an effort to provide greater stability for prices and to make markets less attractive to speculators who do not handle grain physically at any time.

Representatives of the exchanges also agreed to recommend to their organizations early adoption of rules to:

Limit the holdings of individuals of either "long" or "short" contracts for future delivery, probably at a figure between 2,000,000 bushels and 5,000,000 bushels.

Require higher margins for grain traders.

Permanently eliminate trading in both weekly and daily indemnites ordinarily known as "bids and offers," or privilege trading, in market centers.

Close Contact Proposed.

The group proposed that close contact be established between commodity and security exchanges to prevent speculators from operating on an "excessive" basis in several markets at one time.

The recommendation covering this point follows:

"We believe that the business conduct committees of the security exchanges and the various commodity exchanges should exchange confidential information regarding lines which are reasonable if confined to either securities or to one commodity, but which may be excessive if large commitments prevail concurrently in several markets."

The decision to include this recommendation grew in part from a belief expressed by farm administrators that last week's drop in grain prices, which sent wheat downward 26 cents in two days, was in part the result of excessive speculation in commodities and stocks by one individual.

Bond Market Continues Rise In Active Sales

Railway Issues Lead Gains on Turnover of $12,049,000.

New York, July 25 (A.P.).—The bond market, apparently paying little attention to the gyrations of stocks, advanced to higher price levels today in fairly active trading.

Sales totaled $12,049,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporation loans advanced four-tenths of a point.

Rail issues, aided by roseate June earnings reports of leading carriers, made the best showing of the day.

Gains of 1 to 3 or more points were registered by some loans of Atlantic Coast Line, Chicago & Eastern Illinois, St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Chicago, Denver & Rio Grande, Great Northern, New York Central, Nickel Plate, New Haven, Pennsylvania, Southern Pacific, Southern, Wabash, and Western Pacific.

Utility and industrial advances of 1 to 2 or more were recorded by loans of Colon Oil, Colorado Industrial, Detroit Edison, Goodrich, Hudson Coal, International Paper, International Telephone, Philadelphia, Reading Coal & Iron, St. Joseph Lead, U. S. Rubber, Vanadium and Western Union.

United States Government securities were dull and slightly irregular. Foreign obligations were mixed. Loans of Australia, Denmark, France, New South Wales, Japan and Switzerland were up 1 to more than 3. Argentine issues lost 3 to 7 points.

Stock Gains Trimmed In Profit-Taking Drive

Early Rallies Surrender to Average Loss of 1.4 Points as Short Session Sales Reach Total of 3,539,140 Shares.

New York, July 25 (AP).—Profit-taking today claimed part of the stock market's recovery from last week's losses, but not until the market had had a general rally. By closing time early gains of 1 to 4 points for many of the favorites had been more than surrendered and there was a liberal representation of 1 to 2 points net losses, due to late realizing.

Traders seemed willing to move cautiously. "Repeal" shares had a good early boom and rails were anxious to get ahead for a time. Standard industrials, however, tended to lag, even while the rally was at its best, and finally reaction became fairly inclusive. Last prices were somewhat above the lows. Sales totaled 3,539,140 shares.

The market had finished its second successive abbreviated session before two striking testimonials to the business recovery had been made public. The first of these was General Motors' quarterly earnings statement, showing 90 cents a common share for the year's second three-month period against 11 cents in the first and 7 cents a year ago. The cash position was also strengthened.

Then came the figures for U. S. Steel Corporation, always a good yardstick for measuring business trends. The company's June quarter was the best in a year and a half, for it had a net operating profit before depreciation, depletion and interest charges. Wall Street had expected no change in the 50-cent dividend rate on the preferred stock, and there was none; accumulations on the issue now total $3.75. The higher wage costs, effective at mid-July, had no bearing on last quarter's results, which June operations made possible.

Wall Street's reaction to President Roosevelt's message to the country on employment was favorable, and the financial community noted the prompt response which it received.

June railroad business was decidedly good, though current freight loadings reports, covering last week's traffic, indicate that the delayed seasonal sag may not be far off, since traffic on several roads ran fairly even with the previous week. Doubtless the carriers are holding off their purchases of equipment, including rails, until they can estimate more closely their longer term prospects, although it has been intimated that a good July might prompt them to enter the materials markets.

Rubber Manufacturers Asked to Support Code

New York, July 25 (AP).—The rubber industry was called upon today by F. D. Davis, jr., president of the Rubber Manufacturers Association, to lay aside its differences over a major code of fair competition and support President Roosevelt's blanket code of reemployment.

Manufacturers were asked by Davis to telegraph to the President their acceptance of the blanket code so Mr. Roosevelt may have immediate knowledge of the "complete accord" of the industry with the purposes of his program.

Food Prices Rise 5 Cents in Week

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 25.—Under the influence of further wide gains in the staple food markets, the weekly food index, compiled by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., rose another 5 cents during the past week, to stand at $2.08 for July 18, as against $2.03 for the previous week and $1.96 two weeks ago. On the same date a year ago the index was $1.73. Since the low point of last February there has been a rise of almost 40 per cent in the index, while comparison with the 1926 level reveals a decline of about 40 per cent. Food prices, it would seem, have reached a midway point in the administration objective.

Twenty of the 31 items included in the index shared in this week's increase, while only 2, mess pork and lambs, were lower. Nine commodities remained unchanged from last week's quotations.

The Dun & Bradstreet weekly food index of wholesale prices (the sum-total of the price per pound of 31 articles in common use) compared with preceding weeks and years is given herewith:

Curb Advance Is Reduced in Final Selling

Net Losses Are Substituted for Gains; Sales Up to 588,000 Shares.

New York, July 25 (AP).—Late selling today exerted a check on early bullish whims on the curb exchange. Early advances of 1 to around 3 points were reduced and net losses substituted in some categories, particularly metals and "wet" shares.

Aluminum Co. of America was up nearly 7 points at one time, but lost about half of the advance at the finish. Swift & Co. was fairly steady while Sherwin Williams gained 2. A. O. Smith and Pittsburgh Plate Glass were reactionary. Oils closed generally steady to higher. Standard Oil of Ohio recorded a gain of 3 points, while Standard Oil of Indiana and Humble Oil were fractionally improved.

In the distillery group, Canadian Industrial Alcohol "A" was able to return a fractional gain, but Hiram Walker and Schenley Distillers found selling a little too pressing, and conceded a couple of points each.

Consolidated Mining dropped 8 points in a small turnover. Pioneer Gold and Newmont eased 1 and 2 points, respectively. Utilities were a trifle easy as reflected by moderate selling in leaders such as Electric Bond & Share and American Gas & Electric, Columbia Gas & Electric lost 5½ points in a small transfer. Sales approximated 588,000 shares compared with 549,000 Monday.

Commodities Again Advance To New Highs

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 25.—Prices of some of the basic commodities reached new tops this week, with the volume of trading in many of the markets the largest in years. The unprecedented buying wave carried the advances in the Dun & Bradstreet tabulation of wholesale commodity prices to 82, as compared with 80 a week ago, and 33 for the corresponding week in 1932.

This not only is the highest point touched in the current movement, during which advances have outnumbered the declines for 15 consecutive weeks, but is the largest number that has appeared in the records as far back as 1920. The most spectacular gains were in grains, flour, cotton, wool, rubber, hides and silver.

Most of the commodities are being pushed higher by the further expansion of general business, the progress made in the approval of trade codes, the higher corporate earnings and the rapid appreciation of security values.

Food Gains Lead.

In the foodstuffs division, advances outnumbered the declines in the ratio of 5 to 1, weakness being confined to butter, eggs, hops and mess pork. For all of the grains, substantial gains were recorded, the widest increases being made by rye and barley.

The former now is more than double last year's comparative price, while the latter is nearly three times higher than it was in July, 1932. Wheat is bringing nearly three times the price of last summer. All contracts for corn, rye, and barley established new highs for the season, the sharp advance in barley being due to the heavy demand of the beer industry, and the reduction in the crop estimate to about half of last year.

While flour prices now are above all previous high records of the season, buying was least active, as most consumers had put in large stocks during the two weeks prior to the imposition of the processing tax. This week's increase has placed both raw and refined sugar above last year's level, with the heaviest increase shown by the latter. The remainder of the 24 advances in this group was furnished by dried beans, coffee, dried fruits, hogs, lard, spices and potatoes.

Building Materials Up.

Building materials continue to show more strength, Portland cement now being included in the items which have entered new high ground in the last week, while naval stores are strongly held with turpentine 15 cents above last year's figure. The 10 advances set down for the drug and chemical list is the largest that has appeared in more than two years, with surprising strength revealed by some items which are well above last year's position.

There has been no check in the upswing of hide prices, and all of the ten items were marked higher, bringing the quotation on packer No. 1 nearly three times above last year's level, and No. 1 calfskins more than six times above the figure of July, 1932. With the exception of No. 2 butt brands, which advanced 2c, the leather quotations held firmly to last week's position. While sales did not equal those of some of the weeks immediately preceding, this was attributed to the difficulty of agreeing on prices. In view of the large sales of shoes, an early resumption of buying of raw stocks is expected.

The placing in operation of the cotton textile code had an immediate effect on prices, and eight of the ten cotton goods items were pushed ahead, staple ginghams going up 1c and standard prints 1¼c. Hemp, jute, sisal, and cotton all were advanced, with the latter nearly a full cent higher than a week ago.

Upturn Shown In Collections As Trade Gains

National Survey Covers 51 Industries and Business Classifications.

By Thomas M. Cahill.

A substantial improvement in collections over the country for the first time since the start of the current business upturn, as well as further increases in employment, manufacturing activity and wholesale and retail trade, are manifested by the current monthly business survey of International Business Machines Corporation. In addition, prices continue to move forward, though at a slackening rate, it is reported.

Of 51 industries and business classifications covered in the latest survey, which is based on reports from 1,500 of the company's representatives in the United States, no decreasing sales trends were shown except in coal.

In that industry, the survey reported steady prices and increasing industrial consumption, although household demand is seasonally dull.

Wheat Climbs Again in Spite Of Profit Sales

Values Recover Balance in Active Trading; All Grains Advance.

Chicago, July 25 (AP).—Bounding upward to almost 10 cents a bushel above the extreme low prices current during recent panicky selling, wheat values today recovered normal equilbrium.

The maximum net advance scored today in wheat, 4¾ cents, came after evidence developed that the end of liquidation of huge distressed speculative holdings had virtually been reached.

Acting as if emerging from a nightmare, the market advanced steadily from then until just before the close, when brisk profit-taking led to material setbacks from the day's top figures.

Drought in Canada.

Helping to rally prices were reports indicating likelihood that the Canadian wheat crop had passed the limit where drought relief this season was possible.

Before the rally took place, however, a transient sinking spell was witnessed owing to announcement that a grain firm had suspended, the third within two days, but the disturbing effect quickly disappeared on receipt of word that in this case the house affected was relatively small, by no means in the $25,000,000 class like one of the two preceding suspensions.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1¼ to 1¾ cents above yesterday's finish; corn, ¾ to 2⅛ higher; oats, 1¼ to 3⅝ up, and provisions 5 cents to 75 cents advanced.

Active buying tended from the outset to lift wheat prices. There was also a sudden rise of about 5 cents in Winnipeg wheat quotations today.

Millers Are Buyers.

Further significance was attached to the circumstance that milling interests were prominent today as buyers of wheat here. The fact was also apparent that the drastic decline in grain futures of late had not influenced farmers' belief in higher prices ultimately, as there were practically no offerings today of cash grain to arrive here from the country. Mainly, however, the action of the markets hinged on the removal of fear or further speculative liquidation and on the untoward crop outlook in Canada, with latest unofficial estimates putting the Canadian 1933 harvest at only 250,000,000 bushels.

For the first time of late, corn displayed new strength. In addition, to virtual stoppage of speculative liquidation in corn, reports were numerous that a major disaster was threatening the corn crop owing to dearth of rain. Oats crop advices were also extremely pessimistic.

Provisions went upgrade with cereals, regardless of downturns of hog values.

Auto Industry Preparing to Aid Roosevelt

Leaders Meet in Detroit to Draft Code Requested by President.

Detroit, July 25 (AP).—The Nation's automobile industry, whose vast enterprise last year brought employment to nearly 4,000,000 persons, tonight was engaged in preparing its pledge of cooperation to President Roosevelt, in the form of an industrial code.

Through the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, whose directors gathered here today to act on the code, the industry planned to be ready, probably by tomorrow, to present its code to the President and the recovery administration.

All automotive companies were represented in the conference here. Although the Ford Motor Co. is not a member of the chamber, its representatives have attended all meetings at which the code has been discussed.

Alvan Macauley, president of the association, headed the meetings here. Others in attendance included Alfred P. Sloan, president of the General Motors Corporation; Walter P. Chrysler, president of the Chrysler Corporation, and Roy D. Chapin, president of the Hudson Motor Car Co.

Already the automotive parts and equipment industry has aligned itself with the President's recovery codes, in an agreement calling for a 40-hour maximum average week.

Smaller industries throughout Michigan began pouring in their pledges to the President, adopting the blanket agreement immediately or pledging a code adopted by their special industry for employing more persons and increasing wages.

Commercial printers in Detroit decided on a 35-hour week, with wages for unskilled workers increased from 35 to 40 cents an hour, and skilled workmen receiving 80 to 90 cents as at present. The agreement becomes effective August 12.

In Flint, the Genesee County Retail Grocers and Meat Dealers Association pledged a reduction in hours and a wage increase affecting several thousand employes.

Notable Triumvirate to Be Reunited in "The Merry Widow"

Chevalier and MacDonald in Lubitsch Work

Denny Back on Home Lot; Palace Host to Guests; That Local Revue.

By Nelson B. Bell.

The lovers of "The Love Parade" and the genius who directed them in that admirable contribution to the gayety of nations, by every sign and portent, are about to be reunited for a comparable excursion into the field of romantic drama, auricularly beautified by a concord of sweet sound.

Which is to say that with Jeanette MacDonald returning aboard the Ile de France from a year of European triumph, Maurice Chevalier relieved of his contractural obligations to Paramount and Ernst Lubitsch doing about as he pleases, it is highly probable that the talents of these three again will be combined to lend effulgence to a new version of "The Merry Widow."

Just such a combination was in negotiation some time ago, the hindrances then being that the story rights were held by one studio and the services of Chevalier and Lubitsch by another, with no inclination toward amicable compromise on either side. But with the "New Deal" having reached as far as Hollywood—provided, of course, that the sound mechanicians and their allied artisans do not completely paralyze the film industry—there seems at the moment every reason to believe that the MacDonald-Lubitsch-Chevalier triumvirate is to be reassembled for the concoction of another cinematic delight.

With the earlier impediments removed, there still remains the danger of "The Merry Widow's" emerging as a "dated" picture. To obviate this catastrophe, plans have already been made for a revised and augmented score by Franz Lehar, with perhaps, interpolations, and an adroit and unusual treatment of the original story that will retain all of the unforgettable beauty of the original operetta, at the same time making it as up-to-the-minute as the very occasion of its formal premiere.

The subrosa tip is out that in order to preclude any seeming duplication of the earlier screen version of the famous piece, prints of "The Merry Widow" in which Mae Murray, John Gilbert and Roy D'Arcy appeared almost a decade ago, have been exhumed and viewed by Mons. Chevalier and Herr Lubitsch in this country and by Miss MacDonald during her stay in London.

So it looks like business. And very good business, it might be added.

And while we are on the topic of casts and revived associations, it is interesting to note that Reginald Denny has been engaged for the fourth featured role in "Only Yesterday," Director John M. Stahl's love drama now in production at Universal City, thus expanding the distinguished trio composed of Billie Burke, John Boles and Margaret Sullivan into a quartet of no whit less brilliance.

Thus, after an absence of five years, Denny returns to the studio where he made his motion picture debut in 1919. He attained stardom in "The Leather Pushers" series, and for many years thereafter was one of the leading stars on the Universal lot.

Among the pictures in which he has since appeared may be mentioned "Parlor, Bedroom and Bath," "Kiki," "Private Lives," "Those Three French Girls" and "Strange Justice."

"Only Yesterday" is now in its sixth week of production, by the way, with 63 actors and actresses well known to cinema addicts cast in speaking parts, and a total ensemble of 3,000 in support.

With the Italian ambassador, Augusto Rosso, and his staff the guests of honor, a distinguished company will be hosted by Manager Orangelo J. Ratto, of Loew's Palace Theater, this afternoon at 5:30 o'clock for the presentation of a special reel of pictures depicting the flight of Gen. Italo Balbo and his armada of the air from Italy to the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago.

This special reel was rushed to Washington by airplane late yesterday from New York, where it was assembled in the laboratories of the Fox Movietone News and Metrotone News.

These exclusive flight pictures show Gen. Balbo's arrival in Iceland, his visit to Canada, his arrival in Chicago, his visit to Washington and call upon President Roosevelt at the White House and the ticker-tape-and-confetti reception accorded him upon his return to New York from the Capital.

Following the run of these pictures at the Palace, this special reel will be presented to Ambassador Rosso, who, in turn, will forward them with the compliments of the makers to Gen. Balbo for his personal archives.

Stories to the effect that Will Rogers' daughter Mary was discovered on the Fox lot in Hollywood masquerading under the name of Mary Howard have been printed at great length, but the way in which she was discovered seems to have been wholly neglected. The complete yarn, however, has been belatedly patched together and appears to be something like this:

Buddy De Sylva and David Butler were casting "My Weakness," which is to star Lilian Harvey, and were looking over something in excess of 100 girls for parts in the production. About 50 of them were given screen tests, Miss Rogers among them. Under the name of Mary Howard she was selected in a group of eight, including Irene Ware, Barbara Weeks, Susan Fleming, Marcelle Edwards, Marjorie King, Jean Allen and Gladys Blake.

According to De Sylva, Miss Rogers told him she had just finished school in the East and was anxious to get started on a picture career. She professed to have had no experience except that gained in school theatricals. However, her ash blonde beauty so impressed both De Sylva and Butler that they signed her for a part.

Immediately thereafter a school chum, eager to congratulate her pal, called Miss Rogers by her right name and so spilled the beans all over the place.

Will Rogers knew nothing of his daughter's plans, but, when he heard about it, immediately gave his laconic consent to the project with the characteristic remark, that "Certainly she can do it, and she'll be the first member of the Rogers family who won't have to chew gum and throw a rope to earn a living!"

Anyhow, that's the story peddled by Charlie McCarthy and Earl Wingart of the Fox pufficity department, who, by this time, doubtless are beginning to suspect that they are stuck with it!

With a celerity that caused it to repose on my desk almost before the stamp had dried to its accustomed corner, Mr. Farley's grey-clad minion last evening delivered me the following brief message:

"Have been called to return to New York unexpectedly which interrupted my contemplated call on you.

"Hope to have the pleasure of your attendance for a short time at our audition at the Willard, Monday at 8 p. m. (Signed) GENE FORD."

Mr. Ford, as goes without saying, refers to the auditions for the "All-Washington Revue" to be presented at Loew's Fox Theater the week of August 18.

This revue, which has not as yet been given any official title, will combine the efforts of dancers, instrumentalists, specialty artists and chorus and will partake of all the glamour of a full-fledged professional Broadway production. There will be special music, special skits—some of them written by Washingtonians—special scenery, special costuming and special lighting. Every participant will be a bona-fide resident of Washington, or at least no farther removed than a short distance over the District Line in either Virginia or Maryland.

It is Mr. Ford's hope—and, I believe, his expectation—to discover in Washington talent which, with proper coaching, will be eligible for engagements on the professional stage. Incidentally, all those taking part in the revue will be paid for their services.

Up to time of writing, City Manager Carter Barron, of Loew's, Inc., and Mr. Ford had on file approximately 50 applications for auditions, and that is only the beginning. From now on they will pour in.

That is, they will pour in unless human nature and the lure of "going on the stage" both have undergone a complete metamorphosis within the last few minutes.

Approximately 100 girls are expected to participate in the beauty contest to be held at Chevy Chase Lake tonight and Friday night for the title of Miss District of Columbia and the opportunity to represent the City of Washington in the Atlantic City Pageant of Beauty in September.

Arrangements have been completed by Eddie Carr, manager of Chevy Chase Lake, to make these two nights the high spots of his summer season.

The judges tonight will eliminate all but ten of the girls entered in the competition. From the ten survivors, the judges on Friday night will select Miss District of Columbia.

Prizes to be awarded the winner of the grand finals will include a complete wardrobe contributed by Lansburgh & Bros. Department Store, a tour through the Southern States with other Eastern contest winners, a Bulova watch and, necessarily, a trip to Atlantic City.

It would seem eminently worth while brushing up on one's beauty!

Two old friends will meet in Washington today for the first time in 15 years.

Frank P. Spellman, former director and producer at the New York Hippodrome, onetime producer for Anne Morgan and promoter of some of the most impressive State fairs ever held in the United States, will arrive in the Capital today for a series of conferences with Louis J. Fosse—"Duke" to you, if you have cut your theatrical eye teeth—manager of the Washington Auditorium.

Mr. Spellman, it seems, has taken over the management of Madison Square Garden, New York, for eight weeks during the coming winter season, as well as the entire first floor of the Hotel Astor, on Longacre Square, for a period of five months, starting April 1, 1934, for his Miniature World's Fair.

Mr. Spellman and Mr. Fosse were associated years ago in the Middle West and, I suspect, feel that something fairly sizable ought to come out of the pooling of the benefits of the experience they have gained individually during the intervening years. And I wouldn't doubt that they are right.

"If at first you don't succeed, try, try again!"

It may have taken the Weather Man until Tuesday night to put over last Friday's "Showers and cooler," but when he got around to it, he certainly did one swell job!

Or weren't you out in it?

Relief Expense Here Increased In Late Figures

May Expenditures Were 11.2 Per Cent Above Those of April.

Unemployment relief costs for the District of Columbia in May rose 11.2 per cent over expenditures for the previous month, the Labor Department reported yesterday.

With tabulations from 13 local relief agencies complete, expenditures here totaled $196,857 for May, while the April total was $177,008. Eighty-seven per cent of the May total was expended from public funds, the balance from private charities, the report showed. In May, 1932, the District spent $70,115, or 35.6 per cent of the total for the same month this year.

Expenditures throughout the country declined slightly during May. Total expenditures for May reported by 1,011 agencies in 121 cities, about 35 per cent of the total population, were $39,346,503, as compared with $39,743,209 in April. The May total was 67 per cent over the cost for May, 1932, and 1 per cent under last April.

Failure of relief agencies to show decreases in relief expenditures for May corresponding to the 9 per cent decline shown from March to April, was due to reductions in expenditures from private funds for general and work relief and from public funds for special allowances. Expenditures from public funds increased slightly.

Brewery Stock Sales Under Fire in Chicago

Chicago, July 25 (AP).—The sale of 2,000,000 shares of brewery stocks by 18 brokerage concerns in Chicago was reported under the investigation of the State's attorney's office today.

Brokers handling the issues were said to have bought the stocks at low option prices, listed them on the Chicago Curb Exchange, and sold them at a large profit.

Dead Dog

But Police Hear Boy Had Been Killed in Wesley Heights.

The usually placid community of Wesley Heights was yesterday disturbed by deep, dark mystery.

"Boy killed in Wesley Heights" had been the report which came into Police Headquarters yesterday afternoon. Detective Sergt. Dalglish of the Homicide Squad, a police patrol, and a dozen reporters rushed out to investigate.

In answer to the queries put to them by the reporters the Wesley Heights police said they knew nothing of the reported death.

The answer to the problem came in the form of 11-year-old Bob Saunders, of 4523 Klingle road. The boy's face led a reporter to ask if he was mourning the departed. "Sure I am," Bob replied, "My dog, Kip, was just run over and killed."

One of Bob's playmates, had heard that the boy instead of the dog had been killed and had 'phoned the news to the police.

Germany Puts Sterilization Law in Effect

Code Designed to Check Spread of Hereditary Deficiencies.

Berlin (Wednesday), July 26 (U.P.).—The official Monitor is publishing today a new sterilization law under which the government of Chancellor Adolf Hitler believes it may check spread of hereditary mental and other deficiencies in the Reich.

Publication of the law in the Monitor makes it effective.

The new regulations provide for an operation to be performed if, on the basis of advanced scientific knowledge, it is decided that the possibilities are in favor of descendants inheriting severe bodily or mental handicaps.

Such action has been expected by the Hitler regime for several weeks. The Nazi leaders, in their intense drive to rebuild the German nation, have considered the new law at length, debating its provisions and application.

The German code will provide for action by State officials if science determines there is a possibility of passing on handicaps much as imbecility, insanity, epilepsy, St. Vitus dance, blindness, deafness, alcoholism or any severe bodily deformity.

Chest Drives Win Help of President

President Roosevelt has promised to cooperate in the drive to raise $100,000,000 for local Community Chests this fall, Newton D. Baker, chairman of the 1933 Mobilization for Human Needs, said yesterday.

The President will speak on a Nation-wide broadcast opening the drive for funds, and has asked the campaign leaders to meet at the White House, Mr. Baker said.

When Mr. Baker visited the President he was accompanied by Allen T. Burns, executive director of the Community Chests and Councils, Inc. The 1933 mobilization is a joint drive for funds by 33 national welfare organizations. More than 400 American communities secure their local relief funds from drives engineered by Community Chests.

Nats Win Abbreviated Contest, 5-1, to Stretch Lead to Full Game

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

Philadelphia, Pa., July 25.

J. CRONIN, Clark Griffith's noble experiment, will sponsor a noble experiment of his own invention tomorrow when the Nats tangle with the Athletics at Shibe Park in the fourth game of the series which has already provided Washington with a three-game winning streak.

Cronin's plunge into the great unknown will take the form of the assignment of Whitey Campbell to pitch the ball game for the Nats tomorrow. The Nats' boy manager has determined to evaluate the Albany rookie's ability with no further ado and he'll be making his first start in the big leagues.

The A's have been fed a diet of fast-ball pitching by Crowder, Burke, Russell and Whitehill and Cronin tomorrow will let them look at some slow curves as flung by Campbell. The Albany rookie's fast ball would hardly break a window pane, but up in the International League he was quite some pumpkins as a curve-baller. We shall see what we shall see.

Master Cronin Is Pleased.

Master Cronin is immensely pleased with his ball club these days and confides to his questioners that it's the gamest team he ever played with. He had a shorter and uglier word for it that means courage in the raw. Anyway, he is very much enthused.

"It's a game club," Joe said. "They're fighters. Look what they've done in the past two weeks. Slipped out of the lead three times and went right back up again. That's the kind of a team they are this season. They've got the stuff.

"I can't help thinking of what used to happen to us up here in Philly. Remember that Decoration Day three years ago? The A's beat us a double header and we never did recover from it. They bumped us off up here last year, too, and put us out of the running. But not this year's club. We've got fight!"

Are you gonna win the pennant, Joe? The silence was terrific.

Sorry to Hear News.

It was with genuine regret that Cronin learned of the unconditional release of Joe Judge by the Brooklyn Club.

"That was tough on Joe," said Cronin. "A man like that, too. It seems to me there ought to be a place in the big leagues for a fellow with Judge's baseball knowledge. There's a great manager for some club. He was cut out to be a manager. He's bound to pop up as the pilot of some club by next year. I think it's a safe bet. He knows too much baseball."

Judge's name is now being linked with the Giants as an understudy for Bill Terry at first base and the belief is current that he will hook on with the New York Club, which is enjoying the National League lead at this writing and doubtless overlooking no bets to bolster its reserve strength. The leap from the hopeless Dodgers to the pennant-winning Giants would not be exactly disappointing for Judge.

Runs, Hits and Errors.

Bill McAfee is no more . . . It's "Babe" McAfee now . . . At the first sign of faltering by Campbell tomorrow, Al Thomas will pitch for the Nats . . . Cronin will start Walter Stewart in the opener of the series against the Yanks in Washington on Thursday . . . Stewart didn't face the A's here . . . Probably because Cronin remembers they have already beaten him four times this year . . . The Nats may learn their pennant fate in the next two weeks . . . When they meet the Yanks four times in Washington . . . And four times in New York . . . Watch out for the word crucial . . . You'll see plenty of it in those two weeks . . . League President Harridge was at the game . . . And will watch the Nat-Yankee series in Washington . . . Just in case the boys get playful again.

Hornsby Due to Manage Browns

Ball Said to Favor Former Card Pilot, Following Conference.

Hornsby May Get Berth Despite Disapproval of League Head.

ST. LOUIS, July 25 (AP).—Rumors that Rogers Hornsby, at present a member of the St. Louis Cardinals, would take over the management of the St. Louis Browns, were strengthened today when Hornsby visited the office of Phil Ball, president of the Browns.

Hornsby was accompanied by Branch Rickey, vice president of the Cards. The Post-Dispatch says Hornsby submitted the terms under which he would agree to take over the post left vacant with the resignation last week of Bill Kellifer.

Ball Favors Hornsby.

Details of the reputed terms could not be learned, but President Ball was declared to be favorably inclined toward the proposal.

Waivers on Hornsby, at present a member of the Cardinals squad, have been out several days and all will be in by tomorrow, leaving Hornsby a free agent with the right to sell his services wherever he desires, it was explained.

Until the waivers all are received a national agreement forbids any club owner dealing with the rajah.

Ball denied he had seen Hornsby. "I can't legally discuss relations with a player belonging to another club without violating the rules," he said.

"Waivers will not be cleared until tomorrow. Until then I can do nothing."

The Brown owner admitted President Harridge of the American League had disapproved the engaging of Hornsby as pilot, saying "he was undesirable on certain counts." Ball said he would sign the Rajah despite this objection "if I want him."

Once Piloted Cards.

Hornsby once piloted the Cardinals. Later he played with the New York Giants and the Boston Braves, and managed the Chicago Cubs. He returned to the Cards this year, but has seen little action because of recurrent injuries.

Rumor that he might be named to manage the Cardinals again was spiked yesterday with the appointment of Frankie Frisch to succeed Gabby Street.

Van Klaveren's Cut Eye Delays Petrolle Bout

New York, July 25 (U.P.).—The return 10-round bout between Billy Petrolle, Duluth welterweight, and Bep Van Klaveren, of Holland, scheduled for August 29 at Yankee Stadium, was ordered canceled today by the boxing commission after three physicians reported that Van Klaveren's gashed left eyebrow would not be sufficiently healed by that date. The eye was cut in his recent bout with Petrolle. The bout may be scheduled for late in September.

Eaton Takes Medal In Western Amateur

Memphis, Tenn., July 25 (AP).—Zell Eaton, of Oklahoma City, a 19-year-old youngster who says he gets a kick out of battling par in medal play, romped off with the Western amateur golf championship's qualifying test here today with a 36 hole total of 72—69—141.

He was two shots in front of the veteran Jack Westland, the first day's leader, who was just short in his drive to overtake the boy whose score was posted early in the day. Westland had 71—72—143.

Armour Put Out In P. G. A. Trials

Chicago, July 25 (AP).—Tommy Armour won't get a chance to meet his old pal, Gene Sarazen, in the national professional golf championship at Milwaukee next month even if Gene plays.

The Silver Scot who attacked Sarazen and other Ryder Cup players last week for threatening to pass up the championship test, failed to qualify in the Chicago district test. Despite an illness, he tried, but took 150 shots, two shy of the qualifying limit.

Jim Foulis, of Chicago, winner of the 1933 St. Paul open, led the field by shooting rounds of 68—72—140.

Laurel Fights Shifted to Tonight

Two Bouts Fought When Rain Stops Action; Features Carried Over.

SLIGHTLY more than 500 of the sports-loving public took it on the chin at Twin City Arena last night when Jupe Pluvius reared his ugly head from up behind the inclosure and sprayed the arena with one full-sized rainstorm.

Jimmy Lake was on the verge of introducing the participants in the third bout of the card, Bob Lowery and Mike Sipio, when the first few drops splattered into the resin-covered ring. Lake glanced at the sky and immediately went into a huddle with Referee Charley Short and Promoter Charley Cornell. The decision was a 5-minute intermission.

Bouts Listed Tonight.

The 5 stretched into 10 and then 15 and still the rain continued unabated. Finally it was decided to postpone the remaining three bouts until tonight. Cornell announced that a four-rounder would be added. All tickets sold last night will be honored again tonight.

Leroy Dougan and Charley Von Reedon tangle in a 10-rounder, with Roy Manley and Ray Bowen in the eight-round semifinal. Then there is the Lowery-Sipio fracas, with Johnny Larkin pitted against an unannounced leather-pusher in the four.

Johnny Mays landed enough rights to Johnny Knowles' body and face to earn the nod over him in one of the two bouts fought last night. Harry Kid Groves, of Baltimore, held Sammy Lucas to a draw in a six-rounder.

Street to Manage In Majors in 1934

Deposed Card Leader Admits Landing Berth But Will Not Name Club.

Joplin, Mo., July 25 (AP).—Gabby Street, deposed St. Louis Cardinal manager, said today he will head a major league baseball club again next season.

"I can not answer that," he replied, when asked to name the club. "The news belongs to the home club's city," he said, "and it's up to the club owners to release it.

"Besides, I wouldn't want to say anything that might worry some manager who is still in there fighting for a place in the win column. I was a manager yesterday, you know."

"Do you know," he asked, "that this is the first time in 32 years, excepting that year in France, that I've been off a ball lot in the middle of July?"

Tomorrow will be "Gabby Street" day at the Western League game here. Street will appear in a Joplin minor uniform. Informed by Manager Runt Marr that he could manage the team for the game, Street said, "No. You run the game, Runt."

Speaking of his release, Gabby turned to Marr and said:

"You know how it goes, Runt. The old remedy for a sick ball club is to fire the manager. He can't go in there and throw for the pitchers; he can't bat when he needs base hits; he can't run bases, but he's the boy who's to blame. It's an old baseball custom."

Mrs. Haynes Gets 88 In Golf at Asheville

Asheville, N. C., July 25 (AP).—Miss Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia S. C., and Miss Mary Rogers, of Jacksonville, Fla., tied with 85s to share 18-hole medal honors in the annual Biltmore Forest women's invitational golf tournament today.

The Columbia lass, who has gained a high spot in Southern women's golf within the last year, went out in 43 and came home in 42, while Miss Rogers put together a 44 and a 41.

Miss Jane Cothran, of Greenville, S. C., a former champion, shot 40—46—86, while Miss Fatherine Fryberger, of Providence, R. I., was one stroke behind her with 43—44—87.

Miss Dean Van Landingham, of Charlotte, the defending champion, added together a 45 and 43 for an 88.

Other scores included: Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Washington, D. C., 44—44—88. Miss Mart W. Pietsch, Evanston, Ill., 48—45—93.

Hurls No-Hit Game.

Art Williams pitched a no-hit, no-run game yesterday as Fairfax Courthouse tossers scored a 7-to-0 victory over the Franconia A. C. Only 28 batters faced Williams, and 10 of these struck out. A Sutphin and Mudd topped the winners at bat, each getting two hits.

Italian Noble Woman Is Winner

Baroness Levi Defeats Miss Babcock in Seabright Net Upset.

Wood, Helen Jacobs Are Winners But Give Poor Exhibitions.

By B. Gregory Hewlett.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 25 (AP).—John Hope Doeg, one-time national champion; Young Frankie Parker and the Baroness Maud Levi, accomplished the outstanding feats in the Forty-sixth annual Seabright cricket and tennis club invitation tournament today while quarter-final brackets in both the men's and women's divisions were being filled.

Doeg, who has played only occasionally since he reached the heights in 1930, registered his second successive triumph when he stroked his way to a 7—5, 6—4 victory over the eighth-seeded Karl Kamrath, husky Texan.

The 17-year-old Parker, who holds the national clay courts championship, found the knack of the grass surface and gave Grady C. Frank, former all-around athlete at Duke University and now a Rhodes scholar at Oxford University, a sound thrashing.

Baroness Surprise Winner.

And the Baroness Levi, winner of four titles in the metropolitan district this year, perhaps surpassed the feats of the other two by outplaying the second-seeded Carolin Babcock of Los Angeles, third in the national ranking, in a fiery three-set fray.

Using the peculiar chop-stroke and lobs and disconcerting the Californian by her rushes to the net, the Italian noblewoman won by scores of 1—6, 6—3, 6—4, and, like Doeg among the men, was the only unseeded competitor to reach the round of eight.

The defending champions, Sidney Wood, of New York, and Helen Jacobs, national champion from Berkeley, Calif., again failed to demonstrate championship tennis. Both managed to win, Wood putting out Percy L. Kynaston, of New York, and Miss Jacobs eliminating Mae Ceurvorst, of Wichita, Kans., but both made numerous errors in doing so.

Wood's scores of 7—5, 13—11, against Kynaston indicate how he was playing, and Miss Jacobs, who appears unable to reach her form, had an even more difficult task than the scores of 6—1, 7—5 showed.

Wood Meets Grant.

In the quarter-finals tomorrow, Wood meets Bryan Grant, seeded fifth, who today had trouble in getting by Robert "Lefty" Bryan, another Southerner, 4—6, 8—6, 6—3.

Harder, of Indians, Wins Box Duel From Jones; Pytlak Hits Homer.

Chicago, July 25 (AP).—Mel Harder shaded Sam Jones in a pitching duel today and the Cleveland Indians defeated the White Sox, 2 to 1, in ten inning in a series opener. The defeat, their sixth in succession, dropped the Chicagoans to sixth place for the first time this season.

Frank Pytlak, diminutive catcher, hit a home run in the fourth inning to tie the score for the Indians and advanced Willie Kamm from first to third with a tenth inning single. Kamm, who had singled himself, scored the winning run on Billy Knickerbocker's fly. Pytlak also singled in the first inning to get three of the seven hits Jones allowed. Harder kept the White Sox to six hits.

Pirates Twice Defeat Cubs, 4-3 and 4-1

Pull Up to Within Game and Half of Second Place in League.

PITTSBURGH, July 25 (AP).—The Pirates defeated the second-place Chicago Cubs in both ends of a double-header today, 4 to 3 and 4 to 1, and got back into the thick of the National League race.

The double victory left the Bucs only a game and a half behind Chicago, while the lead the idle New York Giants hold over the Cubs was increased to three games.

The pitching of Steve Swetonic and Hal Smith was an important factor in the Bucs' triumph, while Freddy Lindstrom put in a busy day at bat to run his hitting streak to 22 consecutive games, since he came out of a slump about three weeks ago. Lindy walloped a double and single in the first game and three singles in the second, batting in three runs altogether.

Swetonic failed to finish the opener, being lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, but Smith worked the entire game and limited the Cubs to five hits and an unearned run. Frank Demaree's homer accounted for the final Chicago tally.

The Bucs got their winning runs in the second inning of the nightcap as Piet was hit by a pitched ball, Hal Finney beat out a bunt and Lindstrom smacked a single to center that Demaree let go past him for an error. They added a second pair in the eighth.

Cards Win Opener Under New Leader

Frisch, Out With Injury, Coaches at Third as Reds Bow, 3 to 1.

St. Louis, July 25 (AP).—The St. Louis Cardinals made Frankie Frisch's debut as manager a success today by defeating the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 1, behind the excellent pitching of the veteran Jess Haines. Haines held the Reds to six hits and blanked them except in the fourth inning, when doubles by Rice and Moore produced the Cincinnati runs.

Frisch, handicapped by a leg injury, coached from the third-base line.

Tigers Get 15 Hits As Browns Bow, 9-3

Detroit, July 25 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers opened their home stand today with a 9 to 3 victory over the St. Louis Browns, while the Bengal batters fattened their averages with 15 hits gathered from the offerings of Irving (Bump) Hadley, and Gray. McDonald worked the closing inning but yielded no hits.

Carl Fischer kept the visiting batters well under his thumb, keeping 10 hits scattered. Reynolds, with a home run in the third inning and a triple in the fifth, was the only St. Louisan who gave Fischer any trouble.

Schmeling and Baer Fight Talked Of.

Battle in San Francisco Under Dempsey's Promotion Planned.

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP).—The possibility of a return heavyweight bout between Max Schmeling and Max Baer in California next February was seen today by Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, after a long distance telephone talk with Jack Dempsey.

Dempsey, who promoted the first bout between the two in Yankee Stadium, July 8, said he believed another match would be successful and thought it would draw at least $300,000 in San Francisco. Jacobs said Mark Kelly, California sports

Whitehill Checks Foes to Earn Victory as Yankees Idle.

By Shirley L. Povich
(Sports Editor of The Post).

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Pa., July 25.—Ordinarily such things are decided by runs, hits and errors, but the Nats won a ball game today by a matter of minutes and an act of Providence.

Rescue was just around the corner for the Athletics in the form of a bursting cloud, but it loitered one minute too long and let go just in time to win the ball game for Washington.

When the celestial water works finally sent the Athletics to a watery demise at the end of the fifth inning, the Nats inherited the ball game, 5 to 1, and pyramided their league lead to one full game over the idle Yankees who were still maintaining their strict neutrality in the pennant race up in the Bronx.

Nats Quick on Draw.

The ball game opened amid a clap of thunder, and rain threatened to wash out the Nats' 4-0 lead from the second inning onward. Ominous dark clouds blanketed Shibe Park, needing only a pin prick to unloose their watery cargo, and in the fifth inning it did look as if the jig was up.

The A's had scored their one run off Earl Whitehill in the fifth, drawing mat

Big Beau, Favorite, Races to Victory in Mile Feature Race at Arlington Park

Headley Star Winner by 3 Lengths

Some Pomp Victor Over Wise Daughter in Surprise Race.

Condescend, Favorite, Easily Beats Field at Empire City.

By Orlo Robertson.

NEW YORK, July 25 (AP).—Breaking through a succession of victories by outsiders, Hal Price Headley's Big Beau, the odds-on choice, today stepped 1 mile in 1:38 to win the top event on the Arlington Park card.

The 4-year-old son of Supremus, in the money many times, but a winner only twice in 32 previous starts in two years, took command entering the stretch and pulled away to finish with three lengths to spare over Mrs. F. Preece's Commuter. J. J. Coughlin's veteran campaigner, Karl Eitel, wound up in third place after setting the pace to the head of the stretch.

Preceding Big Beau's triumph, the Everglade Stable's Wise Daughter, the 3-to-5 favorite, finished out of the money as Warren Wright's Some Pomp, paying $7.46, outstepped a smart band of 2-year-old fillies in the Winona Purse.

Pair Races as Team.

Some Pomp and Wise Daughter, victor in seven of her 12 starts, raced like a team well into the stretch. Seventy yards from home, however, the Everglade filly gave up the battle, and was overtaken by S. W. Labrot's Greyglade and Barkentine from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Stable.

In the third race, Sir Gareth, which finished second, paid $179.52 for the longest place price in the track's history.

At home in the heavy going, Jack Richardson's Condescend, favorite at 11 to 10, proved easily superior to three opponents in the six furlong feature at Empire City. With Willie Prior in the saddle, Condescend won by a half length, but he could have won farther off had his rider so elected. James Butler's Star Fire beat McKinley Bryant's Mexico two lengths for the place.

Followers of form had a field day at Latonia as the public choices won six of the eight races. Only in the fourth and seventh events did the rank outsiders break through. I Prevail accounted for the fourth and paid $15.08, while Gen. Campbell captured the seventh at odds of $41.20 for $2.

George South rode three of the choices, scoring with Princess Queen in the third, Grimace in the fifth and Joretta in the closing number.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

ONE of the strangest golf matches ever played was that between Bert Elphick and Eddie Loos, well-known pro, when the former, in 36 holes, made two holes-in-one and lost his match. Stranger than that is the fact that Elphick lost his match on one of his holes-in-one. It happened like this: In an 18-hole match on the Shawnee course, in which an arm of the Delaware River lies, Loos was two up when the players teed up on the sixteenth. Elphick drove his first ball into the river, but playing the second from the tee, he made the hole in one. With the penalty, his actual count for this hole-in-one was three. Loos, on the other hand, made it in two, winning the hole—and the match, three and one.

The yak, an animal looked upon in this country as worthless except as an attraction at the zoo, plays a far more important part in the everyday life of the nomads of Central Asia. Hardy enough to out-climb and outlast the horse, the yak furnishes transportation for the roving people. Its meat they use as food, its milk as drink. The skin provides them with shelter, and the wool with clothing. Even the yak's tail is utilized—it is dyed red and used to chase away flies.

The long, white mustache of Gen. Nagoaka, Japanese father of aviation, was for years one of the sights of Tokyo which tourists heard about—and hoped to see. When the general died last May his mustache was accorded a separate burial in a casket of its own.

with Bill Bennings.

Arlington Park, July 25.

Dear Al.

No news is said to be good news. Well, friend, you will find no news here and, believe me, it's bad news. The Bennings' selections ran like cattle today. My only winner was Big Beau. However, everyone from Four-bn-a-Half Street to the Halls of Montezuma picked and played the horse. All I can say is, that on a day Wise Daughter quits in the stretch, anything can happen. And it did. But I can take it. So I dragged out the books tonight and dug up some that may or may not be the goods tomorrow. Here's hoping.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—YYFIN has been knocking around for some time trying to leave the maiden class and this looks like the right spot for the graduation ceremonies. LONG BIT must break from the outside, but is speedy and has a chance. FARA FOUR for the show.

SECOND RACE—COG AIR appears to have the class edge over this field. GUNFIRE seems to be most dangerous of the others. SILVER LAKE to complete the money picture.

THIRD RACE—LOUIE DEAR is asked to carry the top weight in this field and that fact should not hinder his chances. I know this one is right. LAMP BLACK is going good and should appear in the money. HOT SHOT for the show end.

FOURTH RACE—I can't believe that last of BROWN WISDOM. Certainly hasn't gone back as far as that race would indicate. Giving him a chance to redeem himself at fair odds tomorrow. OUTBOUND and RENEWED to take care of the others.

FIFTH RACE—I won't guarantee much of a price on FIRST MINSTREL, but I do believe he'll win this heat. LADY HIGLOSS for the place and DOMINO PLAYER for the show.

SIXTH RACE—DON LEON failed me the last time, but may come sailing home tomorrow. This fellow is packing his old punch, the clockers say. CLARIFY gets in very tight and may be a factor. SUPREME SWEET for the rest.

SEVENTH RACE—Don't be surprised if BARRY wakes up in this one. Much whispering going around about him being due to run a real race. Worth a trial. HARAMZADA ran something of the race I've been expecting the last time out. May be second again. SCIMITAR for the show.

EIGHTH RACE—ESKIMO has been scratched here and there and if allowed to run may show this field a thing or two. PIGEON HOLE and BATTY to be ready if the top one is only fooling.

Women to Seek Honors in Regatta

Miss Codd, Mrs. Burnham Compete Saturday in Motorboat Meet.

TAKING their chances with the men entered in the Tri-City Speedboat Regatta Saturday at Herald Harbor will be two members of the fair sex, Maryland Codd, of Towson, Md., and Mrs. Florence Burnham, of Wilmington, Del. Both are experienced drivers and have no fear of bending a boat on its starboard side around a buoy while traveling 30 knots per hour.

Speedboat racing used to be a man's business. But not any more. The sport generally was regarded as too tough on the women's nerves. Men grinned at the thought of women tooting their horns for more room on the turns. It was very funny to think of the little lady clinging to a gunwale, cutting through the surf at a 28-knot clip yelling, "Now, Henry! You're going entirely too fast."

Women Ask No Quarter.

But the grins have been replaced by serious miens. The women are real competitors, asking no quarter when the starting gun booms.

Only last week Miss Codd raced her Dixie Kid outboard motor at Havre de Grace. She finished third, a remarkable performance for the class she was in. Veteran racers predict a bright future for her.

Mrs. Burnham probably will drive a boat belonging to her husband, Dr. Paul Burnham. The doctor built and piloted Chotsie IV to victory in this year's running of the New York-Albany race. Since then the craft has been sold to Dr. Cecil Bagley, of Baltimore, and will be entered in the Tricity.

Dr. Burnham will race the Chotsie V in the regatta. Like its predecessor, this boat also is driven by a 125-horsepower engine.

Doeg and Parker Win at Seabright

Frank Shields, seeded behind Wood and Parker, whipped Wilmer Hines, 6—2, 6—3, to head toward another meeting with the clay court titlist, who beat him recently in the finals at Spring Lake. Tomorrow Shields is matched with Sam Gipin, of Philadelphia, who today put out Upsur Morehead, Washington player, 6—1, 6—4.

Parker's quarter-final foe will be the black-haired Manuel Alonso, who used to represent Spain in international competition, and Doeg will collide with an old enemy, Gregory Mangin, the National indoor champion, who is seeded fourth. Alonso, ranked sixth here, required three sets to overcome Martin Buxby, of Miami, Fla., 1—6, 6—2, 6—4, while Mangin defeated John McDiarmid, 6—3, 6—3.

In winning today Doeg sometimes showed flashes of the left-handed style that carried him to the National title. His backhand was in good working order, but his forehand seemed stale from lack of use. In the last two years he has played more golf than he has tennis and he showed his lack of condition.

Parker had just about every thing at his command in knocking Frank, last survivor of six members of the Oxford-Cambridge team, from the tournament. Never out of position to return Frank's shots, the youngster mixed lobs with a fast ground game and a blistering backhand to move forward.

Miss Jacobs Plays.

Miss Jacobs tomorrow will oppose Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, seeded fifth; Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Barbara, Calif., ranked third, will meet Marjorie Sachs, of Boston; Baroness Levi is matched against Virginia Rice, of Boston, and Alice Marble, of San Francisco, is to clash with Sarah Palfrey, third Bostonian left in the event.

Four teams filled the semifinal bracket in women's doubles, while the men, led by Parker and Shields, went through their first round matches. Women's semifinalists were the teams of Jacobs and Palfrey, Cruickshank and Marble, Rice and Sachs and Taubele and Jane Sharp.

Billy Dettweiler's 71 Features Golf Match

Gaining revenge for a previous defeat, Billy Dettweiler, 15-year-old golf star, and his sister, Helen, walloped Harvey Johnson, young Kenwood ace, and Virginia Pope, District junior champion, 7 and 5 yesterday at Manor in the second of a series of matches between the youthful golfers.

Billy featured the day's play by shooting a par-equaling 71. Miss Dettweiler scored a 42, 44—86. Miss Pope a 40, 45—85, and Johnson picked up on the first nine, but reeled off a 38 on the stretch.

Nats Victors, 5-1, In Short Contest

Mahaffey walked Manush. Joe Cronin lined to right and Myer scored. Mahaffey walked Schulte. Mahaffey walked Kuhel. Goslin walked home with the second run. Bluege flied to center and Manush scored. Mahaffey walked Sewell to fill the bases again, and Whitehill drove in Schulte with the fourth run of the inning, leaving the bases still full. Myer made the third out.

Connie Mack showed no disposition to take Mahaffey out of there. Gentle, benign Connie, who breathes goodness. He was merciless on Mahaffey.

That first inning constituted the ball game. The Nats scored another run in the fourth when Buddy Myer lashed a triple to the scoreboard and sauntered home on Manush's single.

Whitehill Checks Foes.

Meanwhile, Earl Whitehill was attending to the A's. He subdued them in the first after Bishop led off with a single, and he avoided trouble in the third when he sandwiched a pair of strikeouts between singles by Williams and Bishop. The A's led off with a hit for the third time in the next inning, but Foxx could not advance beyond first.

The A's went down fighting to prolong matters until the rain arrived while the slender gathering raised their faces to the skies. Williams walked in the fifth, but was forced by Pinch Hitter McNair. Bishop also walked and Cramer's single scored Williams. But Cochrane went out to Kuhel and Jimmy Foxx lined to Schulte.

At this point Philadelphia's heat spell was broken. Then came rain.

Rippy and Baer Meet in Rock Creek Golf Finals

Carolina Boy Beats Seay by 7 and 6

Shoots 43, Three Under Par, in Match Ending on Twelfth.

Will Defeats Burrows in East Potomac Final, 2 and 1.

By Dave Herman.

CLAUDE RIPPY, North Carolinian with a bagfull of shots, will meet John Baer, Catholic University student, this afternoon at 2 o'clock in the finals of the District public links golf tournament at Rock Creek's course.

Turning in some of the most sparkling golf of the competition, Rippy yesterday overwhelmed his semifinals opponent, W. W. Seay, 7 and 6, in a match that saw the Carolina boy shoot the first nine in a subpar 32 and end the battle on the 12th green three under orthodox figures. At the turn Rippy was 5 up.

If Baer, a tall youngster who is long off the tee and deadly around the greens, triumphs, he will achieve something that isn't often done around this way—win the medal and the championship.

Day to Oppose Marks.

In the second-flight finals at Rock Creek, Larry Day, former District marathon golf champion, will oppose Bob Marks at 1 p. m. Day yesterday whipped N. A. Pixton, 3 and 1. H. B. Williams clashes with A. M. Holmes at 1:30 in the third flight. George Berkheimer already has won the fourth flight.

Only one semifinals match was completed in the championship flight at East Potomac. Harlan Will, medalist, reached the final round by winning a close struggle from Bradley Burrows, public links big gun, 2 and 1. Will faces the winner of the John Downey-P. L. Sweeney match, scheduled today.

A dispute arose in the Will-Burrows match on the third hole when the putter that Will's caddy handed him on the green slipped from the medalist's hands and knocked the ball about 10 inches away. Will won the hole to go 1 up with a par 4, while Burrows took 6 strokes, but some contended that the medalist should have lost the hole. Fred McLeod, Columbia pro, declared that there was only a loss of 1 stroke for Will.

Burrows led going to the tenth, but Will waxed red hot on the stretch and fired a 35 at his opponent to climax the issue on the seventeenth green. Will finished with a 75 and Burrows a 78.

C. Thom advanced to the finals by the fifth flight at East Potomac by defeating M. I. Simpson, 2 and 1. He will meet M. R. Royster, who conquered Manuel Canyes, 6 and 5.

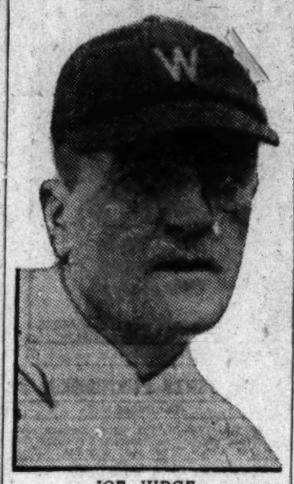
Loses His Job



JOE JUDGE, former Nat first baseman, who was released by the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday.

Judge Is Released By Brooklyn Club

New York, July 25 (U.P.).—Joe Judge, 39-year-old first baseman, was given his unconditional release today by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Judge was signed by the Dodgers this spring in hopes of plugging the gap at first base, which had been unsatisfactorily filled since Del Bissonette injured his leg in the 1932 training season. He came to Brooklyn after 17 years with the Washington Senators.

He was spiked soon after joining the Dodgers. Later Brooklyn acquired Sam Leslie from the Giants and he has played well at the first sack, leaving Judge without a post.

Hill, of Martinsburg, Pitches a No-Hit Game

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 25.—Charles Hill, pitcher, first baseman, and field captain of the Reliance Team, sprang into prominence here when he pitched a no-hit, no-run, no-man-to-first-base game, in an encounter with the Boonsboro (Md.) nine at Lambert Field, as Reliance defeated Boonsboro, 22 to 0. In his previous game he performed another brilliant stunt against the Hagerstown (Md.) Blue Sox, getting an unassisted triple play. Filling in as utility shortstop, he caught a fly ball from the batter, tagged a man going from second to third and put a man out going from first to second.

Hill, who is but 21 years of age, already has attracted attention of one or more baseball scouts and several inquiries have been received concerning his ability, with reason to believe there may be several flattering offers in the near future.

Indian Spring Club Is Sued by Moores

A suit for restoration to the owners of the physical property now leased by the Indian Spring Golf Club was filed in the Rockville, Md., court yesterday against the club, and notice is expected to be served on the officers of the organization by Sheriff Richard H. Lansdale, of Montgomery County, either today or tomorrow.

The officers have been summoned to appear on August 1 to show cause why the property should not be restored to Indian Spring Village, Inc., named as the plaintiff.

Tom and Nettie Moore, of Washington, own the property. The suit was filed by Neil Burkinshaw. It alleges that the club violated the terms of an agreement entered into May 1, 1926, between the Moores and the Indian Spring Golf Club due to the failure of the club to pay taxes on the property for 1932 and failure to pay rent under terms of the agreement for the months of April, May, June and July of this year.

Trigg Is Victor Over Judd in Net Upset

Scores in Straight Sets in Public Parks Title Tennis Tourney.

ONE seeded player fell by the wayside in the Public Parks Tennis Championship tournament yesterday in the only men's singles match played, but Hugh Trigg's 6—2, 6—2 win over Dean Judd can hardly be classed as a major upset. Trigg was rated ahead of Judd last year, and the latter barely edged him out of the final seeded position in this year's tournament.

Dorette Miller's straight set victory over Frances Walker, seeded No. 3, in the women's singles was somewhat in the nature of a surprise, although it is generally believed that Miss Walker is concentrating on the doubles, in which she is paired with Frances Stone. Other matches in the women's singles found Clara Tabler and Ruth Martinez advancing to the semifinals at the expense of Bobsy Turney and Kay Johnson.

Welsh-Hunt Match Features.

Today's schedule is featured by the Barney Welsh-Gilbert Hunt match, which may prove to be one of the most interesting of the tournament. Welsh, who is perhaps the outstanding favorite of the tournament, will pit his speedy serve and hard-driving tactics against a smooth, rhythmic game of Gilbert Hunt, who lacks only seasoning to make him a much more feared opponent.

The semifinals in the women's singles and doubles will also be played today.

Yesterday's results:

Men's singles—Fourth round: Trigg defeated Judd, 6—2, 6—2.

Men's doubles—Second round: Staubly-Haney defeated Shoemaker-Legum, 6—3, 6—3; Shore-Latona defeated Phillips-Seidel, 6—2, 9—7; Meeer-Degnan defeated Quinn-Kennedy, 6—4, 6—2. Quarter-final round: Hermann-Blanchard defeated Dreschler-Hofleker, 6—2, 6—1; Shore-Latona defeated Hill-Anderson, 6—1, 6—1.

Women's singles—Quarter finals: Tabler defeated Turney, 6—2, 6—1; Martines defeated Johnson, 6—0, 6—3; Miller defeated Walker, 6—3, 6—4.

Women's doubles—Quarter finals: Mary Ryan-Philpitt defeated Feldman-Hobbs, 6—1, 7—3; Moore-Turney defeated Chedister-Wy., 6—0, 6—0; Stone-Walker defeated Kronnan-Margaret Ryan, 6—3, 6—4; Miller-Johnson defeated Adkins-Kelso, 9—7, 6—1.

Today's Schedule.

Men's singles—Quarter finals, 4 p. m.: Hermann vs. Trigg. Welsh vs. Hunt; 5 p. m., Latona vs. O'Neil, Shore vs. Blanchard.

Men's doubles—Quarter finals, 5 p. m.: Goldsmith-Wallenstein vs. Mesmer-Degnan, O'Neil-Welsh vs. Staubly-Haney.

Women's singles—Semifinals, 4 p. m.: Tabler vs. Stone, Martinez vs. Miller.

Women's doubles—Semifinals, 5:30 p. m.: Mary Ryan-Philpitt vs. Moore-Turney, Stone-Walker vs. Miller-Johnson.

Capital Netmen Win, Lose in Virginia

Charest Beats McLean in Hot Springs Feature; Bolling Beaten.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., July 25 (AP). Seeded players performed in winning fashion in third-round matches of the Virginia State tennis championship here today, but several of them had to hurdle strong opposition.

Among these was "Doc" Barr, of Dallas, Tex., third seeded player, who ran into difficulties in overcoming Paul Pollard, of Lynchburg, Middle Atlantic sectional champion, who won 6—2, 7—5.

Barr's deceptive chop stroke stood him in good stead in the first set, which he won 6—2, but the Lynchburg player fought the Texan every inch of the way in the second, forcing many of the games to deuce.

Charest Extended by McLean.

Clarence Charest, of Washington, holder of the national veterans championship, found Jock McLean, another Washingtonian, a determined opponent, and was forced to the limit in winning 9—7, 4—6, 10—8.

Herbert L. Bowman, of New York, seeded second, advanced with an easy 6—1, 6—1 triumph over Dick Bolling, of Washington.

The women's singles started today with Eliza Coxe, of Asheville, N. C., favorite in the draw, defeating Miss Elizabeth Meets, of Wilmington, N. C., 6—1, 6—1. Other seeded players are Miss Louise Hofmeister, of Chicago; Miss Reba Kirson, Baltimore, and Miss Kathryn Pearson, of Houston, Tex.

Men's Singles.

First round—Howard Moss, Atlanta, defeated Dr. Maurice Weiss, Clifton Forge, Va., 6—4, 4—6, 10—8; Alex Kelles, Baltimore, defeated S. E. Hamilton, Wilmington, Del., default.

Second round—Clarence Charest, Washington, defeated Jock McLean, Washington, 9—7, 4—6, 10—8; Keiles defeated William West, Lynchburg, Va., 6—3, 7—5; Ted Penzol, Norfolk, Va., defeated Dr. George Nichols, New York, default; Doc Barr, Dallas, Tex., defeated Robert Cutler, Atlantic City, 6—2, 6—2.

Third round—Herbert L. Bowman, New York, defeated Dick Bolling, Washington, 6—1, 6—1; Wilbur Hess, Houston, Tex., defeated Penzol, 6—3, 6—3; Barr defeated Paul Pollard, Lynchburg, 6—2, 7—5.

Women's Singles.

First round—Eliza Coxe, Asheville, defeated Elizabeth Metts, Wilmington, 6—1, 6—1; Anne Clark, Princeton, N. J., defeated Beatrice Torrence, 6—2, 6—4; Reba Kirson, Baltimore, defeated Abbie Ingalls, Hot Springs, 6—0, 6—0; Josephine Grist, Cincinnati, defeated Grace Gaston, 6—0, 6—1; Louise Hofmeister, Chicago, defeated Mrs. Frederick Valentine, Richmond, 6—1, 6—0; Mrs. Jackson Boyd, New York, defeated Frances Wilmes, Chicago, 6—1, 6—3; Kathryn Pearson, Houston, Tex., defeated Betty Bickel, Richmond, 6—0, 6—1; Grace Rowe, Cincinnati, defeated Betty Edwards, Dallas, Tex., 6—2, 6—3.

Jacobs Off for Germany.

Jacobs plans to leave for Germany in a few days to discuss their future with Schmeling. Despite reports that Schmeling might retire after his marriage to Anny Ondra, German screen actress, Jacobs said he believed the German would return to the ring.

Roseville, Calif., July 25 (AP).—Ancil Hoffman, manager of Max Baer, said today at his ranch near here that he is "greatly interested" in a rematch of Max Baer and Max Schmeling.

"However, the terms must be right," said Hoffman. "Max deserves the big end of any purse."

"San Francisco is the logical place for a fight in California."

Canadians Organizing Three Pro Grid Teams

Montreal, July 25 (U.P.).—Professional football will be played in Canada this fall, the United Press learned today. Arrangements have been completed for teams in Montreal and Toronto, and a third team may operate in Ottawa.

Lionel Conacher, bulky defense star of the Montreal Maroons hockey team, will be player-manager of the Toronto team, and Joe Cattarinich, part owner of the Maroons, will direct the Montreal footballers.

Conacher said the game would be a combination of the American and Canadian football games.

U. S. Track Stars Win at Stockholm

Metcalfe Wins 2 Sprints as Yanks Annex 2 of 5 Events.

Stockholm, July 25 (AP).—America's touring track and field stars won five events and lost two in a test against Swedish athletes today at Vasteras.

The American setbacks occurred in the 400-meter relay, where Sweden, with a 10-meter handicap, won in 45.9 seconds, against 46 flat for the invaders, and in the discus throw, where John Anderson, of New York, Olympic champion, yielded to A. Hedvall, a newcomer, and H. Anderson, Swedish champion.

Ralph Metcalfe, Marquette's Negro sprint ace, won the 100 meters and 200 meters, defeating E. Anderson by eight-tenths of a second in the shorter sprint and N. Erikson by two and one-tenth seconds at 200 meters. Metcalfe's times were 10.5 and 21.5.

Johnny Morris, Louisiana timbertopper, won the 110-meter high hurdles in 15.1 seconds, beating Gustafson by one-tenth of a second. George Spitz, of New York, captured the high jump at six feet one inch, his nearest rival, E. Norman, clearing five feet 11 inches. The 3,000-meter run developed an easy victory for Joe McCluskey, former Fordham star, who was clocked in 8:57.1, against 9:04 for the runner-up, T. Jensen.

Hedvall's winning toss in the discus was 155 feet 27-64 inches. H. Anderson was second at 150 feet 2 51-64 inches, and John Anderson third at 144 feet, 10 35-64 inches.

Commissioners To Probe Death Of Casco Duke

Autopsy Shows Fracture of Skull on Man Accused of Drunkenness.

The District Commissioners plan a thorough investigation into the death of Casco Lee Duke, 67, 1216 Gallatin street northwest, who died at Gallinger Hospital Monday night from a fracture of the skull.

Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman, last night announced both Gallinger and Emergency will be asked to make reports on the case.

Prior to his removal to Gallinger Saturday night, Emergency Hospital physicians declared Duke was merely suffering from intoxication, and requested his removal to the Third Precinct police station, his son, Casco G. Duke, charges.

Police Dispute Diagnosis.

At Gallinger Hospital, where he was taken after Capt. Edward J. Kelly of the Third Precinct had disagreed with the diagnosis of Emergency Hospital, Duke was found to be suffering from a skull fracture which he had apparently suffered when he collapsed against a pair of penny scales at the Tipton & Myers drug store at Fourteenth street and Rhode Island avenue northwest.

The man was not identified until shortly before he died.

His son, a former prohibition agent, was highly indignant about the way his father was allegedly treated.

Autopsy Bares Fracture.

After an autopsy yesterday, Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, acting coroner, declared Duke had a severe skull fracture, but he was unable to tell whether the man had been drinking, as originally charged by Emergency Hospital.

Dr. McDonald said he would request the District chemist, E. R. Donaldson, to make a blood analysis to see whether there were traces of alcohol in the blood. He also said an inquest will be held tomorrow morning.

Meanwhile, the homicide squad is attempting to locate the two men who are said to have carried the injured man to the Tipton & Myers drug store followig his collapse, and also the woman who saw him fall against the scales.

Dr. MacDonald has released the body for burial and funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Wright funeral home, 1337 Tenth street northwest. Burial will be in Cedar Hill Cemetery.

The estate is to be divided between three daughters, Lily McLaurine Talbert and Grace McLaurine, both of 1432 Monroe street northwest, and Mrs. Cecile McLaurine Mackey, 4419 Volta place northwest.

A fall down a flight of stairs in a cafe yesterday formed the basis for a suit for $10,000, brought on behalf of Lula L. Davidson, 912 East Capitol street, by Attorneys Louis Lebowitz and George E. Edelin.

The suit alleges that the complainant's heel caught in a metal strip on a stairway last January. She named as defendants William C. Ewart and Alfred R. Earnest, trading as Ewart's Cafe, and James J. Johnson, Edward R. Brownley and the National Metropolitan Bank, who are trustees of the Walter Brownley estate, owners of the building.

21 Pct. Clear Profit Shown By Utilities

Potomac Electric Company Shows Largest Profits With 44 Per Cent

More than 21 per cent of the gross receipts of Washington's four major public utilities during 1932 went into net corporate income, where they are available for dividends or other purposes, B. M. McK. Bachman, chief accountant, of the Public Utilities Commission, reported yesterday.

"Net corporate income" is a term used in utility circles to describe surplus revenue accumulated after all fixed charges are paid.

The Potomac Electric Power Co. showed by far the largest profits with 44 per cent of gross receipts going to net corporate income, and the Washington and Georgetown Gas Light Companies came next with 16.7 per cent. The Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. was third with 16.9 per cent, and the street railways trailed with 2.93 per cent.

Gross receipts in monetary figures: Potomac Electric Power Co., $11,103,351.11; Washington and Georgetown Gas Light Companies, $6,281,832.51; street railways, $8,138,682.64; Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., $9,389,867.81. The total is $34,913,734.07.

Labor in each case obtained a large share of the receipts. The street railways paid 47.71 cents of every dollar received for wages; the telephone company 38.8 per cent, the gas companies 28.2 per cent and the power company 19.1 per cent.

The remainder of receipts were apportioned to operating expenses, interest, taxes and depreciation.

He is survived by a brother, Samuel W. Foster, also of New York. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Mme. Reno, Washington's "renovized" cat, had kittens last night.

The event took place at 9 o'clock in a telephone booth at the Renovize Washington Exposition at 1435-37 K street northwest.

There were four. One died.

The mother took up her residence at the exposition when it opened three weeks ago. No one disturbed her. She was named Mme. Reno. Papa Reno also lives at the exposition, but he couldn't be found last night.

As the exposition closes Friday, the Reno family will be sent to the Animal Rescue League.

Suit May Test Tax On Closed Banks

Commissioners to Confer With District Officials on Litigation.

The District Commissioners today will confer with Corporation Counsel William W. Bride, Tax Assessor William P. Richards, and Auditor Daniel J. Donovan on the question of what steps may be taken to force Washington's closed banks to file tax returns.

Bride yesterday conferred with the Comptroller of Currency, but it is understood the latter refused to modify his previous ruling that none of the closed banks, whether they are in the hands of conservators or receivers, should file District tax returns.

The Commissioners indicated they will test the ruling in the courts by filing a suit against one or more of the banks.

Tax Assessor Richards holds that the banks should be compelled to file tax returns whether they earned profits during the last fiscal year, just as corporations and individuals are required to do.

Two Capital Salesmen Seriously Hurt in Crash

Daughter Balks Mother's Effort To Bury Father

Court Asked to Decide Who Shall Conduct Funeral Rites.

Mother and daughter will face a judge in District Cupreme Court Friday and seek a decision as to which shall guide to his last resting place the husband and father.

Maurice E. Grimes, 60, gardener, died after being overcome by the heat yesterday. His body is now in the District Morgue awaiting the end of the dispute between the two women who loved him. The two will meet in the chambers of Justice Oscar R. Luhring.

Grimes, it was learned, had often reiterated his wish to be buried in Frederick County, Md., his native soil. His wife, it was said, wanted him interred in a Baltimore Cemetery.

Mrs. Virginia Grimes has been estranged for 17 years from her husband. They had been friendly, however, it was learned, even taking dinner together last Sunday.

The daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Wyatt, 1722 West Virginia avenue northeast, had maintained a home for her father during the interlude.

Mrs. Grimes, notified at her home in Baltimore of her husband's death, came here and obtained from Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald a permit to release the body to an undertaker.

But Mrs. Wyatt objected. Her father, she said, had lived with her for the 17-year marital estrangement. She wants to bury her father.

Mrs. Grimes returned to Baltimore, unaware of her daughter's attitude. She notified a Baltimore undertaker to make arrangements for the funeral.

Mrs. Wyatt obtained a temporary order restraining Coroner MacDonald from releasing the body until the question of who is entitled to bury Grimes has been settled.

Policeman Saves Boy From Runaway Horse

Quick thinking of Policeman E. E. Hall, of the Tenth Precinct, probably saved the life of Harold Karlinsky, 12, of 634 Keefer place northwest, early yesterday.

The boy was snatched from under the hoofs of a runaway milk-wagon horse near Georgia avenue and Park road northwest. The horse had been frightened by a steam shovel. The animal was captured by Charles Johnson, 933 N street northwest, after he had knocked over a news rack and a street-car stop sign.

Pvt. Weinberg Files Appeal and Gives His Accusers' Criminal Records.

Pvt. Meyer W. Weinberg, of the Sixth Precinct, yesterday filed an appeal with the District Commissioners from a verdict of the Police Trial Board that he be dismissed for allegedly taking money to restore a driver's permit.

The appeal charges that the testimony was contradictory and attaches copies of criminal records of the two chief complaining witnesses, Louis and Barney Berger.

Weinberg was ordered removed from the force after being tried on a charge that he had accepted $10 and was promised $15 more to assist in obtaining the restoration of Louis Berger's permit.

Odd Leniency

Mother-in-Law Pleads for Youth Accused of Attacking Her.

The proverbial mother-in-law was "put on the spot" yesterday by Police Judge Gus Schuldt, when he placed a man accused of attacking his mother-in-law on probation for six months.

The woman took the stand and asked the court to be lenient, as the young man had always been a good provider. Lecturing the youth, Judge Schuldt said:

"Most young husbands would like to put their mothers-in-law in jail. Now yours wants to keep you out of jail. Be good to her. She's a remarkable mother-in-law."

Legal Aid Is Named In Park Bank Case

J. B. Kremer to Represent Treasury in Fight on Copartnership.

Selection of J. Bruce Kremer, Washington attorney, to represent the Treasury Department in the pending receivership battle with depositors of the closed Park Savings Bank, was announced yesterday.

Efforts of the bank depositors to replace the Treasury Department receivership by one of the court, will be opposed by the department as well as directors and stockholders of the closed institution, it was made known. A depositors' committee has instituted legal proceedings to have the bank declared a copartnership so that it may, through court receivership, endeavor to collect losses of more than $1,700,000 from the bank's directorate.

The Treasury Department announced it would defend its action after stockholders and directors decided to fight the copartnership action.

Schuldt Will Define Vice Case Evidence

Judge Preparing Answer to Questions Propounded by District Attorney.

Presiding Judge Gus Schuldt of Police Court yesterday was preparing an answer to questions placed before him by District Attorney Leo A. Rover concerning frequent lack of evidence in vice cases.

A letter written to Judge Schuldt by Rover asked for an explanation of the directed verdict of not guilty given to a jury in a disorderly house case last week by Judge John P. McMahon.

Judge McMahon dismissed the case after explaining that the evidence presented by policemen was too slim to warrant a conviction.

A preponderance of such cases in the court gave rise to Mr. Rover's request for suggestions as to how more substantial evidence could be presented.

Police at Ball Games Told to Wear Uniforms

Following the appearance of 186 policemen at a recent baseball game at Griffith Stadium, Superintendent of Police Brown yesterday ordered all policemen attending games to wear their uniforms. The order does not apply to those regularly assigned to duty in citizens' clothes.

Superintendent Brown said free admission hereafter will be confined to members in uniform.

Heat Relief Promised By Today's Forecast

Occasional showers and gentle northeast and east breezes should bring Washington some slight respite from the sweltering temperatures and humidity of yesterday, according to the Weather Bureau.

Yesterday's high temperature of about 88 degrees will probably not be reached today, but not much reduction in the humidity percentage may be expected.

Clouds will furnish some intermittent relief from the sun today.

Water Boy, Water Boy, Bring the Bucket

Employees of the District Water Department Office in the District Building are doing their drinking from a bucket and dipper now. Each morning men from the office stop by an ice house on their way to work and bring enough ice to last them throughout the day. The reason? The refrigeration machinery of the building broke Saturday and will be out of commission for several weeks.

Commissioners May Act Today In Pay Dispute

Bride Likely to Urge Future Contracts Be Revoked If Violations Occur.

The District Commissioners will decide probably today what action will be taken against the Catalano Construction Co., of Baltimore, for violation of the Bacon-Davis prevailing wage act while building the Phelps vocational school in the northeast area.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride and Engineer Commissioner John C. Gotwals conferred about the matter late yesterday after Bride had submitted an opinion setting forth what steps the commissioners might take and suggesting that a policy be adopted to prevent future violations of the wage law.

Clear Violation Seen.

While not recommending that the contract be revoked Mr. Bride stated that the Bacon-Davis act had been clearly violated and that the Commissioners have authority to void the contract and place the construction in other hands. He pointed out that too many contractors are bidding on District projects with the expectation of paying less than the prevailing wages until caught.

Heretofore, the Commissioners have reached a compromise whereby the offending contractor paid all employes the difference between the wages they actually received and the prevailing wage scale and promised to adhere thereafter to the latter scale.

May Allow Amends.

Whether the Commissioners will allow the Baltimore contractor to make amends in the same fashion is conjectural, though they have shown an inclination to do so.

It is believed, however, that Mr. Bride's recommendation governing all future violations with the threat to revoke contracts immediately upon determination of violations of the Bacon-Davis act will be adopted.

Sleeper Robbed in Home.

Ted Coffey reported to police yesterday that $43 was stolen from his trousers pockets while he was asleep Monday night on the third floor of his house at 915 Twentieth street northwest.

Has Tom-tom

"Plenty Indian Sell Him Cheap," Phone Caller Booms to Willard.

"I sell tom-tom. Come from big tepee Chicago, where plenty Indian, plenty tom-tom. Sell him cheap."

Thus a voice over the phone boomed into the ear of Kathryn Cunningham, a secretary in the manager's office of the Hotel Willard, the news yesterday that an Indian with a tom-tom had been found.

Miss Cunningham had been looking for both of them since receipt of a letter from Alexander Guerry, president of the University of Chattanooga, Saturday, requesting the help of the hotel management in locating a tom-tom for his small son.

Miss Cunningham was able to learn that the Indian had come from the World's Fair Sunday, had read in The Post of her need for a tom-tom, and would bring one with him when he calls today.

Police Still Grapple For Brothers' Bodies

Harbor police last night were still grappling for the bodies of Charles and John King, 23 and 21 years old, respectively, of Takoma Park, believed drowned in the Potomac Monday night.

Charles King was thrown into the water from a boat when a railing gave way while he was preparing to anchor. His brother leaped in after him and they both disappeared.

Severe Storm Floods Streets, Blocks Traffic

Many Trees Hurt as Water Enters Basements and Maroons Autos.

Streets were converted into waterways, automobiles marooned and basements flooded in the driving rainstorm which struck Washington and its environs early last night, accompanied by high winds and an electrical display which damaged many shade trees.

The low places along Thirteenth street in the northwest section were filled with water, reaching 3 feet in depth at Arkansas avenue, where several motorists were marooned when their engines were stalled by the water.

Traffic Is Disrupted.

At Georgia avenue and Upshur street northwest automobile and street car traffic were also disrupted when the storm sewers failed to carry away the flood waters.

Hamilton street and Fifth and Seventh streets northwest likewise had high waters which flowed over the curbings.

The basement of the Elks Club, at 919 H street northwest, was flooded by water from an alley, and numerous basements in residences also were damaged.

Motorists Wade Out.

A car was marooned under the bridge at Massachusetts avenue over Rock Creek Park, and the couple removed their shoes and stockings, and waded out leaving the machine to the flood waters.

Traffic was blocked at Eighth and I streets northwest, at 1410 Twenty-ninth street northwest, and at the Potomac parkway by trees broken and blown into the streets.

Numerous calls were received by the Fire and Water Departments to pump out flooded basements after the storm.

Two Sought Here In Grain Swindle

Warrants Received From Baltimore for Arrests in Brokerage Deal.

Warrants for the arrest of Harry L. Williams and Edith Freas, who were indicted in Baltimore Monday in connection with a purported $300,000 grain brokerage swindle, were received by Washington police yesterday.

The pair, with Benjamin R. Buck, are said to have engaged in operating the Del-Mar-Va Grain Co., and are said to be in Washington now.

Buck and Miss Freas received two-year suspended sentences here as the result of conspiracy charges growing out of bucketshop machinery exposed by The Post. The sentences were as of May, 1931. Williams was indicted in the same affair, but this was later nolle prossed.
